Contents

List of figures vii
List of tables viii
List of contributors ix
Preface xi

1 Cheating, corruption, and concealment: an introduction to dishonesty

JAN-WILLEM VAN PROOIJEN AND PAUL A. M. VAN LANGE 1

Part I Motivations for dishonesty 13

2 Moral motivation: a closer look
C. DANIEL BATSON 15

3 Beyond “being good frees us to be bad”: moral self-licensing and the fabrication of moral credentials
DANIEL A. EFFRON 33

4 Deception as a means to an end: an instrumental approach
WOLFGANG STEINEL, LUKAS KONING, ERIC VAN DIJK, AND ILJA VAN BEEST 55

Part II Justifying dishonesty 73

5 How moral flexibility constrains our moral compass
FRANCESCA GINO 75

6 Always the hero to ourselves: the role of self-deception in unethical behavior
CELIA MOORE 98

7 Not for my sake: preventing others from using potential beneficiaries’ benefits as justifications for dishonesty
SCOTT S. WILTERMUTH AND MEDHA RAJ 120
Contents

8 Corrupt collaboration: a behavioral ethics approach
SHAUL SHALVI, ORI WEISEL, SYS KOCHAVI-GAMLIEL, AND MARGARITA LEIB 134

Part III Influences on dishonesty 149
9 Narcissism and dishonesty: the SAC model
W. KEITH CAMPBELL AND LANE SIEDOR 151
10 When being creative frees us to be bad: linking creativity with moral licensing
LYNNE C. VINCENT AND EVAN POLMAN 166
11 Wealth and wrongdoing: social class differences in ethical reasoning and behavior
PAUL K. PIFF, DANIEL M. STANCATO, AND E. J. HORBERG 185
12 Power, dishonesty, and justice
STEVEN L. BLADER AND ANDY J. YAP 208

Part IV Reducing dishonesty 231
13 Religion, deception, and self-deception
STEPHANIE R. KRAMER AND AZIM F. SHARIFF 233
14 The ergonomics of ethics
ANDY J. YAP 250
15 When opposition is beneficial: the case of productive disobedience
PIERO BOCCHIARO 269
16 A cognitive approach to elicit verbal and nonverbal cues to deceit
ALDERT VRIJ, RONALD P. FISHER, HARTMUT BLANK, SHARON LEAL, AND SAMANTHA MANN 284

Appendix Cognitive load lie detection studies: cues elicited 303
Index 311