Notes
The annotation ‘f’ is used to designate a reference to a figure, and is preceded by the page number on which the figure is to be found. (Maps are represented as figures.)

The annotation ‘ff’ when preceded by page/s number/s refers to an entry where information is contained only in a footnote and not in the main body of the text.

The annotation ‘n’ is used to indicate a footnote; it is usually followed by the number of the footnote, and preceded by the page number/s on which it is to be found.

Where there is a solitary footnote on a page, the number of the footnote is dropped.

Single footnotes that spill over two pages are represented by both page numbers separated by a dash. The footnote takes the form of either an ‘ff’ or an ‘n’ type depending on whether the entry is represented in the main text. Examples: 118–19ff; 118–19n34.

Consecutive footnotes on same page, containing information about the same entry, are usually represented as a single entry, separated by a dash between the footnotes, and indexed against the page number in which they appear. Example: 33n11–12.
