Shell Shock, Memory, and the Novel in the Wake of World War I explores the narrative traces, subaltern faces, and commemorative spaces of shell shock in wartime and postwar novels by Mulk Raj Anand, Ford Madox Ford, Mary A. Ward, George Washington Lee, Ernest Hemingway, F. Scott Fitzgerald, and Christopher Isherwood. This book argues that World War I novels serve as an untapped source of information about shell shock, and renews our present understanding of the condition by exploring the nexus of shell shock and practices of commemoration. Shell shock novelists testify to the tenaciousness and complexity of the disorder, write survivors into visibility, and articulate the immediacy of wounds that remain to be seen. This book helps readers understand more fully the extent to which shell shock continues to shape and trouble modern memories of the First World War.

Trevor Dodman is Associate Professor of English at Hood College. His articles have been published in such journals as African American Review, Twentieth-Century Literature, and Exemplaria.
SHELL SHOCK, MEMORY, AND THE NOVEL IN THE WAKE OF WORLD WAR I

TREVOR DODMAN

Hood College
To Amy
Contents

List of Illustrations .......................... page viii

Acknowledgments .............................. ix

Introduction: Shell Shock and the World War I Novel .......... 1

PART I INVISIBLE WOUNDS AND NARRATIVE RETURNS .......... 21

1  Faces of Battle in Mrs. Humphry Ward’s Wartime Writing ....... 23

2  “Not Yet Diagnosed Nervous”: Ford Madox Ford’s Parade’s End Tetralogy ................. 52

PART II FRACKED IDENTITIES AND FORGOTTEN HISTORIES .......... 81

3  No Separate Peace: A Farewell to Arms as Trauma Narrative .......... 83

4  “Belated Impress”: River George and African American Shell Shock ................. 111

PART III TROUBLING MEN AND MEMORIAL FICTIONS .......... 141

6  Traumatic Topographies in Tender Is the Night ................. 172

Coda: Queer World War I: Isherwood and Shell Shock Sexualities .......... 201

Notes .......................... 215

Bibliography .......................... 222

Index .......................... 241
Illustrations

1. Interior of the Pavilion, Brighton: Indian Army Wounded \hspace{1cm} \textit{page 2}
2. “Strongest Nerves Will Win War” \hspace{1cm} \textit{8}
3. “Notice,” \textit{The Wipers Times} \hspace{1cm} \textit{12}
4. “Famous British Authors Defend England’s War” \hspace{1cm} \textit{24}
5. “Training to be Natural” \hspace{1cm} \textit{70}
6. “Career of Disabled Returned Soldiers” \hspace{1cm} \textit{87}
7. Table 1: Neuropsychiatric Diseases \hspace{1cm} \textit{118}
8. \textit{A.E.F. Fun & Facts: Remember the Unemployed War Veteran} \hspace{1cm} \textit{124}
9. Great War Memorial (Frederick, USA) \hspace{1cm} \textit{137}
10. Panel Detail, Great War Memorial (Frederick, USA) \hspace{1cm} \textit{138}
11. “The Rajput” \hspace{1cm} \textit{157}
12. “Indian Troops in the Trenches: Winter, 1914” \hspace{1cm} \textit{160}
13. The Chattri Memorial (Patcham, England) \hspace{1cm} \textit{170}
14. Fitzgerald Visiting the Trenches, 1928 \hspace{1cm} \textit{174}
15. “Inspecting the Trenches on Vimy Ridge” \hspace{1cm} \textit{175}
16. “German Corpses in Belleau Wood (April, 1919)” \hspace{1cm} \textit{178}
17. Newfoundland Memorial Park ( Beaumont Hamel, France) \hspace{1cm} \textit{180}
18. Caribou Memorial (Beaumont Hamel, France) \hspace{1cm} \textit{188}
19. The Angel of Victory (Vancouver, Canada) \hspace{1cm} \textit{213}
I would like to extend my heartfelt thanks to the mentors, colleagues, and family members who have helped me to write this book. Special thanks must go to Laura E. Tanner and Rosemarie Bodenheimer at Boston College. Their supportive input – along with the timely advice of James Najarian – improved the project across all of its many phases. At Wake Forest University, Jessica Richard, Dean Franco, and Anne Boyle provided fruitful and collegial support. At Hood College, Summer Research Initiative and Board of Associates grants helped to keep my research moving forward. Carol Kolmerten and Mark Sandona gave freely of their time and expertise on countless occasions. The English Department at Hood College remains an exceedingly generous and convivial group. I am lucky to have found my way into their company.

My family has given me the space and motivation to bring this project to fulfillment. Amy Winchester – to whom I dedicate this book – sacrificed constantly and sustained me throughout. Her partnership, understanding, and love not only made the book possible but continue to make everything seem possible. Thank you, Amy. Our children inspire me each day with their imaginative outlooks and illuminating enthusiasms. Thank you, Vera, Hugh, and Henry. Additional essential support for the book came from my parents, sister, and in-laws, who helped immeasurably in ways both material and personal. Thank you Mom, Dad, Lori, Larry, Sherry, and Jim.

At Cambridge University Press, I would like particularly to thank Ray Ryan, Caitlin Gallagher, and the readers who commented on my manuscript. It has been a privilege working with all of you. I am grateful to Twentieth-Century Literature and African American Review for permission to use materials that appeared in each journal.