

TRANSATLANTIC DEFENCE PROCUREMENT

This volume constitutes the first ever attempt to establish a basis for comparative research on defence procurement regulation. For decades, there has been a repeated emphasis on the extent to which barriers to trade in Europe and the USA prevent a more competitive defence market. Transatlantic Defence Procurement offers a first analysis of the potential impact of defence procurement regulation itself as a barrier to trade between the USA and the European Union. Part I examines the external dimension of a new EU Defence Procurement Directive, focusing on its implications for third countries, in particular, the USA. Part II examines foreign access and treatment under US law. Part III maps a future research agenda that is essential for a more systematic understanding of legal barriers to transatlantic defence trade. The book provides context for future initiatives, ranging from reformed market access arrangements to a Defence Transatlantic Trade and Investment Partnership and beyond.

LUKE R. A. BUTLER is a Lecturer in Law at the University of Bristol. Luke's research focuses on legal aspects of government contracting, an interest informed by a decade of experience lecturing and researching in commercial and international trade law. Outside academia, Luke values the importance and opportunity of engaging with acquisition professionals on the impact of law in practice. Most recently, Luke has lectured on procurement and commercial contract law at the UK Defence Academy. Previously, Luke taught at the University of Birmingham and was called to the Bar of England and Wales by the Middle Temple in 2009.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I anticipated that writing a book on the legal aspects of defence procurement would be a challenge. Weary martial metaphors go only some way to describing the uphill battle through the minefield of evolving laws, policies and publications in the field. The effort has only been possible with the enduring love and support of my family. I must, therefore, thank my wife and best friend, Holly Butler. The writing and publication of this book coincides with the first year of our marriage – I look forward to the chapters to come. This book is also a dedication to my mum and dad, Gale and Buster, for giving me a life of opportunity. I do not forget a second of the long days and nights working on printing and factory floors to give us a better life. I must also thank my sister, Carly, for always keeping me firmly grounded, Elfie Butler my Nan, Grandad, mother-in-law, Jill, and the rest of my (extended) family. All have helped me in ways more important than they will ever know.

I would also like to extend my professional thanks to a number of people. Professor Martin Trybus (Professor of European Law and Policy, University of Birmingham) has been a constant source of innovation. I could not have asked for a better PhD supervisor and mentor. Dr Baudouin Heuninckx (Head of Aeronautical Programmes at the Belgian Armed Forces Procurement Division) has given his invaluable time to discuss the finer interpretative details of EU law in this field and his work, alongside Martin's, has been foundational. Major Daniel E Schoeni (USAF JAG Corps) has gone above and beyond in sourcing material and bringing important insights to bear on the work. I must also thank Professor Celia Wells OBE (Emeritus Professor, University of Bristol) and Dr Steven Vaughan (University of Birmingham) for supporting the early stages of my academic career.

I also express thanks to colleagues for peer-reviewing chapters of the book. These include: Dr Martin Lundmark (FOI Sweden) (Chapter 1) Dr Baudouin Heuninckx (aspects of Chapters 2 and 3 and Chapter 5 in full), Dr Albert Sanchez-Graells (University of Bristol) (Chapters 2 and 4), Major Daniel E Schoeni (Chapters 7, 8, 9 and 10) and Mr Andreas Estrup Ippolito (attorney at Poul Schmith/Kammeradvokaten) (Chapter 10). A number of other colleagues also provided invaluable reference material, research assistance, discussions and/or translations. These include: Ms Alaina Horton (UK-NATO Delegation), Ms Emily Powell (UK Ministry of Defence), Ms Isabelle Maelcamp (US Commercial Service), Mr Dominik Rogalski (counsel at Bank Pekao S.A.), Dr Richard Craven (University of Leicester), Ms Alessandra De Angelis (University of Nottingham), Ms Kato Verbouwe (formerly University of Bristol), Mr Miha Klement (formerly University of Bristol), Mr Matti Punt (University of Bristol) and Ms Mary Kate Hunter (George Washington University). I must also extend thanks to the anonymous reviewers for invaluable feedback at the commissioning stage, my senior Commissioning Editor, Ms Kim Hughes and my production manager, Ms Chloé Harries at Cambridge University Press.

I also benefitted from the kind hospitality of Freshfields Brukhaus Deringer, Holman Fenwick Willan, Bevan Brittan, the British Institute of International and Comparative Law, the International Chamber of Commerce, the European Institute of Public Administration, the University of Birmingham and the University of Nottingham at various procurement-related events.

Finally, I extend my thanks and thoughts to the British, American and Alliance armed forces, military personnel and their families past, present and future.
