

Contents

	Preface and acknowledgments	page ix
	Maps	xi
1	The setting	1
	The early Christian context	1
	The New Testament and the ministry of Jesus	16
	Definitions and method	21
	Later trajectories	25
2	Suffering	32
	Building the leprosarium	36
	The communal suffering of the lepers	38
	Leprosy as disease	48
	Toward a moral psychology	56
	The suffering Christ	60
3	Disgust	65
	Hands-on care by women	69
	Contemporary theories of disgust	72
	False boundaries between the self and the world	75
	Mistaken notions of invulnerability	85
	Suffering and the ‘judicious spectator’	92
4	Feelings	98
	Grief as a virtue	100
	Emotions at the theater	111
	The problem with the wise man	115
	Teaching compassion in sermons	121
	Contemporary contexts	128

viii	Contents
5	Charity	130
	Justice and the Roman see	135
	Care of the poor	140
	Christology and the exchange of attributes	146
	The call for compassion in northern Italy and southern Gaul	149
	Suffering under the Lombards	154
	The compassion of shared grief	160
	The care of souls in the world	164
	Alms for the poor	169
6	Love	172
	The will to love	175
	Love and the common 'logos'	181
	Human equality	185
	Individuality	187
	Exchange of attributes	192
	Tranquility and compassion	194
	Further comparisons	197
7	Reflections	200
	Notes	205
	Select bibliography	245
	Index	269