

Cambridge University Press

978-1-107-13485-0 - Aristotle's Ethics and Medieval Philosophy: Moral Goodness and Practical Wisdom

Anthony J. Celano

Index

More information

Index

- action
- Albert's commentaries on, 102–104, 119, 141–144, 148–150
 - in anonymous commentator of Erfurt, 214–219
 - Aquinas's moral theory and, 170–171, 175–177, 183–194, 200–202
 - in Bonaventure's moral theory, 202–208
 - Cicero on prudence as, 116–117
 - happiness achieved through, 46–51, 135–136
 - in Kilwardby's commentary, 81–88
 - Philip the Chancellor on, 57–58, 60–67
 - Radulphus Brito on goal of, 220–230
 - universal principles of, 41–46
- Albert the Great (Albertus Magnus)
- anonymous commentator of Erfurt and, 210–213, 215
 - Aquinas and, 114, 131, 174
 - commentary on Nicomachean Ethics by, 38n.55, 99, 131–132
 - early moral works of, 100–130
 - on felicitas civilis and felicitas contemplativa, 85
 - on happiness, prudence and moral reasoning, 131–169
 - on moral choice, 10–11
 - paraphrasing of Nicomachean Ethics by, 155–165
 - on prudence, 104–119, 144–150, 165–169, 189
 - Radulphus Brito's commentary and, 220, 222–230
 - on synderesis and natural law, 119–130
 - 'two happinesses' concept of, 169, 174, 218–219
 - on virtue and happiness, 3–4, 150–154, 177
- Alkindi, 144
- Anaxagoras, Aristotle's discussion of, 36
- animals
- absence of happiness in, 15
 - appetite of, in Kilwardby's commentary, 81–88
- Annas, Julia, 3–4
- anonymous commentator of Erfurt, on Nicomachean Ethics (Aristotle), 209–219
- Antigone* (Sophocles), Aristotle's discussion of, 50
- appetite
- in anonymous commentator of Erfurt, 216–219
 - Kilwardby's discussion of, 81–88
- Aquinas, Thomas
- Albert the Great and, 114, 131, 174
 - anonymous commentator of Erfurt and, 213, 215
 - on beatitude, 138–139, 195–202
 - on choice and practical syllogism, 174–177
 - commentary on Nicomachean Ethics by, 99
 - on contemplation as deliberative process, 7, 35n.48
 - on human goodness and virtue, 83
 - inclusive theory of happiness and, 3
 - moral theory of, 10–11, 99, 170–192
 - on natural law, 181–194, 238–240
 - on prudence and right reason, 177–181
 - Radulphus Brito's commentary and, 220, 224–230

Cambridge University Press

978-1-107-13485-0 - Aristotle's Ethics and Medieval Philosophy: Moral Goodness and Practical Wisdom

Anthony J. Celano

Index

More information

254

Index

- Aquinas, Thomas (cont.)
 on synderesis, 122, 181–194
 on virtue and happiness, 4
- Aristotle
 Albert the Great's commentaries on,
 100–104, 113–119, 129–131, 144–150, 152–165
 anonymous commentator of Erfurt on,
 209–219
 Aquinas's moral theory and, 170–202
 on beatitude, 139, 171–173
 body in, 14, 20–22
 Bonaventure's discussion of, 202–208
 on choice, 8 decision making process and phronesis in, 40–46
 early medieval Latin commentaries on, 75–99
 on education, 12–14
 on habit and morality, 48–51 on happiness, 2–3, 14–22, 133–134 on human goodness, 17–22, 27, 237–242 on intellectual wisdom (sophia), 172–173 on irrational soul, 15–16 on moral norms, 40–41
 moral theory of, 7–11, 141–142, 236–242
 natural law theory and, 5–7, 124–125, 237–242
 overview of interpretations, 1–11
 Philip the Chancellor on, 56–74
 on practical wisdom (phronesis) in,
 12–14, 35–39
 Radulphus Brito's commentary on,
 219–232
 Socrates and, 4, 30, 36n.49
 Sophocles and, 50
 on soul, 14, 20–22
 two versions of happiness, 2–3, 23–34 virtue and happiness in, 3–4, 27–34, 93–97, 150–154
 will discussed in, 60
 William of Auxerre and, 52–55
- Arnoul of Provence, 89–90, 96–97
- Augustine (Saint)
 Aquinas and, 180–181
 Bonaventure and, 204–208
 early medieval commentaries on Aristotle
 and, 76, 79
 on free choice, 7, 60
 on moral action, 8–9
 natural law theory and, 5
- Philip the Chancellor on, 69–70, 70–74
 on prudence, 70–74, 109
 on soul, 57
 on synderesis, 122–124, 128–130, 182
 on virtue, 67, 104
 William of Auxerre and, 52
- Averroes, 76, 153, 161, 196, 212
- Avicenna, 76
- Basil, 115, 119–122, 124–126
- beatitude
 Albert's discussion of, 138–139
 in Aquinas's moral theory, 170–181
 Aristotle's discussion of, 171–173
 Boethius's definition of, 172 medieval commentators on, 89–93 perfect and imperfect, 195–202
 Philip the Chancellor on, 56, 69–70
 Radulphus Brito's commentary and,
 225–230
 William of Auxerre on prudence and,
 55–56
- belief, Philip the Chancellor on, 73–74
- body, Aristotle's analysis of, 14, 20–22
- Boethius of Dacia, 3, 76, 78, 153, 155–165, 169, 172, 174
- Bonaventure, 61, 99, 202–208
- bonum divinum*, in Pseudo-Pecham commentary on Aristotle, 85
- Booth, John Wilkes, 242
- Bossier, Fernand, 75
- Burgundio of Pisa, 75
- Burnyeat, M. F., 35n.47, 49n.87
- canonist philosophers, natural law and, 52–53
- cardinal virtue
 in Kilwardy's commentary, 83
 prudence as, 104–119
- causality, Albert on happiness and, 137–144
- charity
 Bonaventure's discussion of, 202–208
 Philip the Chancellor on virtue and, 68–70
 prudence and, 109–110
- choice (prohairesis)
 Albert's discussion of, 102–104, 127–130, 140–144, 166–169
 in anonymous commentator of Erfurt,
 214–219
 Aquinas's moral theory and, 174–177

- Aristotle's concept of, 8
 moral action theory and, 7–11, 60–67
 Philip the Chancellor on, 58–60
 reason and, 58–60, 66–67
 virtue and, 67–70, 72–74
- Christianity
 Aquinas's moral theory and, 196–202
 in early medieval commentaries on Aristotle, 77–79, 138–144
 moral theory and, 8–11, 53–55
 natural law theory and, 5–7, 53–55
 poverty and humility in, 112–119 prudence as virtue in, 105–119
 synderesis and, 124–130
 virtue in, 138
- Church Fathers, natural law theory and, 5–7
- Cicero
 in Albert's commentaries, 107–110, 113–117, 163–165
 on natural law, 120–121, 144, 238, 242
 on prudence, 110–111, 147–150 on speculative intellect, 226
 on virtue, 104
 on will, 141
- circularity
 Albert's discussion of, 139–140, 149–150
 Aquinas's discussion of, 189–194
 in moral agency, 48n.86
- civic happiness
 Albert's concept of, 3, 132–144, 150–154, 161–165
 Aquinas on development of, 239
 in Kilwardby's commentary, 90–93
 practical wisdom and, 28
 Radulphus Brito on, 222–230
- civic virtues
 in Albert the Great's early commentaries, 105–119
 in Kilwardy's commentary on Aristotle, 83
- Clark, Mary, 8–9
- cognitio Dei*, Aquinas's doctrines of happiness and, 4
- cognition
 Albert the Great on, 102, 112–114, 118, 120, 124, 127–128, 145–146
 anonymous commentator of Erfurt on,
 211, 217
 Aquinas on, 173, 175–177, 182–183, 187, 197–198
 Boethius on, 204
 Bonaventure on, 204–208
 in Kilwardy's commentary, 105
 Philip the Chancellor on, 59–60, 68–69,
 72, 80–81
 prudence and, 70–74
 Radulphus Brito on, 228–230
 Stoic idea of, 9
 commentaries on Aristotle. See also specific commentators, e.g. Albert the Great early medieval Latin translations and, 75–79
 overview of, 1–11
 concupiscent power, synderesis and,
 127–130
- conduct, principles of Albert the Great's commentary on, 131–132
 practical wisdom (phronesis) and, 44–46
synderesis and, 65–67
- conscience
 in Bonaventure's moral theory, 202–208
synderesis and, 64–67, 125–130
- contemplation (theoria)
 Albert's commentary on, 108–119, 132–144, 150–154
 in Aquinas's moral theory, 173–174
 happiness and, 3–4, 7, 16–17, 23–26
 in Kilwardby's commentary, 84–88
 practical wisdom (phronesis) and, 36–39
 practice (praxis) and, 24–25
 Radulphus Brito on, 222–230
 as supreme virtue, 27
synderesis, 186–194
- contemplative perfection, Albert's classification of, 133
- Cooper, John, 2
- Damascene, John, 57–60, 103, 124
 Aquinas and, 170
 Bonaventure's moral theory and, 202–203
- De anima* (Aristotle)
 Albert the Great's commentary on, 112–119, 129–130
 happiness and beatitude in, 196–202 intellect in, 172–173
- death, happiness and, 160–165
- De bono* (Albert the Great), 100, 104 cardinal virtues in, 105–106
 prudence in, 108–119
- decalog, in William of Auxerre's *Summa
 aurea*, 54

- decision-making process, practical wisdom (phronesis) and, 39–46
- De consolazione philosophiae* (Boethius), 78
- deductive reasoning, moral decisions and, 34–39
- De fide orthodoxa* (Damascene), 57–58
- De homine* (Albert the Great), 100
- prudence in, 111–119
- synderesis* and natural law in, 121–130
- deinos*, Albert's concept of, 168–169
- deliberation
- in Albert the Great's early commentary, 102–104
 - in anonymous commentator of Erfurt, 215–219
 - Aquinas on choice and, 175–177
 - practical wisdom and, 41–46
- De moribus ecclesiae* (Augustine), 70
- DeMoss, D., 45n.72
- De natura boni* (Albert the Great), 100
- De officiis* (Cicero), 113–114, 118
- desire
- happiness and, 162–165
 - Philip the Chancellor on virtue and, 68–70
- De spiritu et anima* (Augustine), 57
- De summo bono* (Boethius), 174
- Didascalion* (Hugh of St. Victor), 83
- dinotic principle, in Aquinas, 190–194
- Dionysius, 183
- divine providence
- Albert on happiness and, 137–144
 - Aquinas on will and, 176–177
 - in medieval commentaries on Aristotle, 88–93
- Divisio scientiarum* (Arnoul of Provence), 89–90
- 'dominant theory,' of Aristotelian happiness, 2–3
- Dominican House of Studies, 131
- double human good, Albert's concept of, 133
- Draco, 239
- Duns Scotus, John, 231
- education, Aristotle on, 12–14
- Empedocles, 50–51
- episteme*, practical wisdom (phronesis) and, 30–31
- ergon*, Aristotle's concept of, 20–21
- error
- happiness and, 162–165
 - synderesis* and, 130
- eternal law, Aquinas's discussion of, 177, 201–202
- Ethica nova* (Aristotle)
- Albert the Great's reading of, 113n.53
 - anonymous commentaries on, 82
 - Arnoul of Provence's on, 89–90
 - causes of happiness in commentaries on, 91–93
 - early medieval commentaries on Aristotle and, 75–78
 - Kilwardby's commentary on, 79–99
 - virtue's relation to happiness in, 93–97
- ethica utens*, Albert the Great's concept of, 132
- Ethica vetus* (Aristotle), 70–71, 75
- habitual virtue in, 97–99
 - Kilwardby's commentary on, 79–99
 - translation problems in, 118
 - virtue's relation to happiness in, 93–97
- ethics
- Albert's commentary on, 131–133, 155–165
 - Aristotelian moral theory and, 12–14, 19–22, 25–26, 75–78
 - in Kilwardby's commentary on Aristotle, 80–88
 - medieval science of, 52–55
 - as perfection of soul, 112–119
 - Philip the Chancellor on, 73–74
- ethics docens*, Albert the Great's concept of, 132
- eudaimonia* (happiness)
- Aquinas's discussion of, 198
 - Aristotle's concept of, 2–3
 - contemplation and, 23–24
 - definition of, 4, 14–22
 - human goodness and, 28–29
 - importance of practical wisdom for, 34–39
 - nature of, 16–18
 - practical wisdom (phronesis) and, 49–51
 - self-sufficiency and, 19
- Eudemian Ethics* (Aristotle), 21–22, 28–30
- Eustratius, 134, 136, 211, 220
- evil
- Albert on knowledge of, 140–144
 - in Kilwardby's commentary on Aristotle, 81–88
 - synderesis* and, 124–126
- existence, Radulphus Brito on goal of, 220–230

- faith
 Albert's discussion of, 139
 Philip the Chancellor on, 68
- fault, Philip the Chancellor on, 73–74
- feeling, action and, 40–46
- felicitas civilis/felicitas contemplativa*, in Albert's commentaries, 85, 151–154, 158–165
- finis cuius/finis quo*, Aristotle's distinction of, 171, 196–198, 213
- fortitude, in Kilwardby's commentary, 83
- fortune
 happiness and, 27
 in Kilwardby's commentary, 90–91
- free choice. See choice (prohairesis); freedom
- freedom of choice, synderesis and, 62–67
 moral action theory and, 7–11
 Philip the Chancellor on, 58–60
- fronesis*, in Kilwardby's commentary on,
 95–97, 105
- Gadamer, H.G., 23, 38
- Gauthier, René-Antoine
 on early commentaries on Nicomachean Ethics, 38n.55, 76, 78, 93–94, 96–97 on knowledge in Aristotle, 48–49, 51n.93 on practical wisdom (phronesis), 44 on Radulphus Brito, 220
- Glaucon, 235
- Gloss on Ezechiel* (Jerome), 122–124
- golden rule, in William of Auxerre's *Summa
 aurea*, 54
- goodness. See human goodness
- Gospel of John, Aquinas on, 200
- grammar, Aristotle on development of, 48–51
- Gregory IX (Pope), 52, 64–67
- Grosseteste, 100
- habits (hexeis)
 Albert's commentaries on, 111–119,
 128–130, 142–144
 in anonymous commentator of Erfurt,
 214–219
 Aristotelian moral theory and, 48–51
 Bonaventure's moral theory and, 205–208
 Philip the Chancellor on synderesis and, 62–67
 prudence and, 73–74, 147–150
 Radulphus Brito on virtue and, 226–230
synderesis as, 122–130, 182–194
- habitual virtue
 in Kilwardby's commentary on Aristotle, 97–99
 prudence as, 106–119
- happiness. See also eudaimonia (happiness)
 action and theory in, 16–17
 Albert's commentaries on, 108–119,
 157–165, 174, 218–219
 in anonymous commentator of Erfurt,
 210–219
 in Aquinas's moral theory, 173–174
 beatitude and, 196–202
 civic and contemplative happiness, 132–144
 in early medieval commentaries, 76–79, 82–88
 Kilwardby's commentary on causes of, 88–93
 meaning of, 14–22
 practical wisdom (phronesis) and, 46–51
 Radulphus Brito on goal of, 220–230
secundum esse/in maximo suo posse distinction, 159–165
 two accounts of, in Nicomachean Ethics, 2–3, 23–34
 'two happinesses' of Albert the Great and, 169, 174, 218–219
 virtue and, 3–4, 27–34, 93–97, 150–154
- Hardie, W. F. R., 2–3, 40, 44
- Henry of Ghent, 213, 228–231
- Hitler, Adolf, 22, 233
- Holy Spirit, Albert's discussion of knowledge conveyed by, 112–119
- Hugh of St. Victor, 83
- human goodness
 Albert's commentaries on, 100–104,
 138–144, 147–150, 155–165
 in anonymous commentator of Erfurt,
 210–219
 Aquinas's moral theory and, 170–202
 Aristotle's theory of, 17–22, 27, 237–242
 Boethius's definition of, 155–165
 Bonaventure's moral theory and, 202–208
 double human good concept and, 133
 early medieval commentaries on Aristotle
 and, 76–79
eudaimonia and, 28–29
 happiness as measurement of, 46–51

Cambridge University Press

978-1-107-13485-0 - Aristotle's Ethics and Medieval Philosophy: Moral Goodness and Practical Wisdom

Anthony J. Celano

Index

More information

258

Index

- human goodness (cont.)
 importance of practical wisdom (phronesis) in, 34–39
 in Kilwardby's commentary, 81–93
 natural law theory and, 6–7 perfect and imperfect beatitudes and,
 198–202
 Philip the Chancellor's treatment of,
 56–57, 62–70
 Plato's moral theory and, 237
 in Pseudo-Pecham commentary, 82–88 Socrates and Plato on, 235
synderesis and, 62–67
 two accounts of happiness in Nicomachean Ethics and, 23–34 human nature, happiness and, 15–22
 Hume, David, 14, 239 humility, Albert on Christianity and, 112–119
- incitement (fomes), synderesis and, 122
 'inclusive theory' of Aristotelian happiness, 2–3
- intellectual wisdom (sophia)
 Albert's discussion of, 102–104, 106–130, 140–150
 in Aristotle's De anima, 172–173
 practical wisdom (phronesis) and, 37–39
 prudence and, 187–194
 as supreme good, 23
- intelligence, prudence and, 117–118
 intrinsic and extrinsic ends, Rudolphus Brito on, 221–230
- intuition (nous)
 contemplation and, 26–27
 divinity of, 23–24
 practical wisdom and, 41–46
- irascible power, synderesis and, 127–130
- irrational soul
 Aristotle's discussion of, 15–16
 in Kilwardby's commentary, 90–93
- Irwin, T., 39n.56
 Isadore of Seville, 180, 204
Isaiah, Book of, William of Auxerre on, 54–55
Iter mentis ad Deum (Bonaventure), 207–208
- Jerome, 122–124
 Joachim, H. H., 14, 16, 40, 46n.79
 John Chrysostom, 125–126
 Jolif, Y., 38n.55, 44, 48–49, 51n.93
- judgment
 Aquinas on choice and, 175–177
 in Bonaventure's moral theory, 202–208
 prudence and, 72–74
synderesis and, 119, 125–126
- justice
 in Albert's commentaries, 119–120, 124, 128–130, 143–144
 Aristotle on, 240–242
 Philip the Chancellor on, 69–70, 73–74
- Kant, Immanuel, 187
 critique of practical wisdom, 11
 on nature, 14
- Kenny, Anthony, 2–4
- Kilwardby, Robert, commentary on Aristotle by causes of happiness in, 88–93
 habitual virtues in, 97–99
 virtue in, 79–88
 virtue's relation to happiness in, 93–97
- King, Martin Luther, 237
- knowledge
 Albert's commentary on, 107–119,
 143–144, 165–169
 Bonaventure's moral theory and, 204–208
 development of, 48–51, 172–173, 187–194
 of law, 119–120
 prudence and, 71–74, 107–119
- Kraut, Richard, 3
- Latin translations of Nicomachean Ethics, early medieval commentaries and, 75–99
- law of nations
 natural law and, 240–241
 Radolphus Brito on, 229–230
- Lincoln, Abraham, 242
- living blessed, in Aquinas, 196–202
- Locke, John, 14
- Lottin, O., 53, 61, 126, 184
- love, prudence and, 70–74, 107, 109–110
- MacIntyre, A., 36n.49, 48n.86
- Macrobius, 107
 on prudence, 117
- Magna Moralia* (Aristotle), 156
- Marxism, Aristotle's moral theory and, 236–237
- material goods, in Aquinas's moral theory, 173–174

- matter and form, Aristotle's doctrine of, 71–74
- McInerney, R., 239–240
- medicine
 Aquinas on choice and, 175
eudaimonia and examples of, 30–31
 in Kilwardby's commentary on Aristotle, 86
- medieval philosophy
 Albert the Great's early works, 100–130
 moral action theory and, 7–11
 natural law and, 238
 natural law theory and, 5–7
synderesis and, 74, 120–130
- Mein Kampf* (Hitler), 233
- merit, Philip the Chancellor on, 73–74
- Metaphysics* (Aristotle), 86, 219
- Mill, John Stuart, 239
- Minio-Paluello, Lorenzo, 75
- moral goodness. See human goodness; moral theory
- moral perfection, Albert's classification of, 133
- moral theory. See also virtue of Albert the Great, 100–130
 in anonymous commentator of Erfurt, 209–219
 of Aquinas, 170–202
 of Bonaventure, 202–208
 happiness and, 47–51
 medieval commentaries on Aristotle and, 99 moral action and synderesis, Philip the Chancellor on, 60–67 in Nicomachean Ethics, 7–11
 norm of morality and, 126 of Philip the Chancellor, 56–74
 practical wisdom (phronesis) and, 12–14, 45–46
 reason, will and freedom in Philip the Chancellor's discussion of, 59–60 Socrates and origins of, 233–235 of William of Auxerre, 52–56
- moral weakness (akrasia/incontinentia), Aristotle's concept of, 8
- Müller, J., 9, 155
- natural law
 Albert's commentaries on, 104, 119–130, 144–156, 163–165
 Aquinas on, 181–194
 Bonaventure on, 206–208
 justice and, 143–144
 moral action and, 10–11
 in Nicomachean Ethics, 5–7
 origins of, 237–242
 Radulphus Brito on, 229–230
 William of Auxerre on, 52–55
- natural will, synderesis and, 62–67
- Nicomachean Ethics* (Aristotle)
 Albert's paraphrasing of, 155–165
 Albert the Great's commentary on, 100–104, 113–119, 129–131, 144–150, 152–154
 anonymous commentator of Erfurt on, 209–219
 Aquinas's commentary on, 174–202
 Bonaventure's discussion of, 202–208
 decision making process and phronesis in, 40–46
 early medieval Latin commentaries on, 75–99 moral action theory in, 7–11
 natural law and, 5–7
 overview of interpretations, 1–11
 Philip the Chancellor on, 56–74
 practical wisdom (phronesis) in, 35–39
 Radulphus Brito's commentary on, 219–232 relation of happiness to virtue in, 3–4
 two accounts of happiness in, 2–3, 23–34
 will discussed in, 60
 William of Auxerre's interpretations of, 53–55
- norms
 Aristotelian ethics and moral norms, 40–41 of morality, 126
- Nussbaum, M., 40–41
- operation (operatio)
 Albert on happiness and, 137–138
 in anonymous commentator of Erfurt, 210–211
 in Aquinas's moral theory, 170–171
 in Kilwardby's commentary, 81–88
 prudence and, 144–150
 opinion, prudence and, 166–169

- Paraphrase* (Albert the Great), 155–165
- Pauline theology in Albert the Great's commentaries on prudence, 115
 Bonaventure's moral theory and, 202–208
 on law, 119
 natural law theory and, 5–7
 Philip the Chancellor on virtue and,
 68–70
- perception
 Bonaventure and, 204–208
 practical wisdom and, 42–46
- perfection
 Albert's classification of, 133, 156, 160–165
 in Aquinas's moral theory, 172–173
 in commentaries on Aristotle, 77–79
 Radulphus Brito on, 223–230
- Pericles
 Aquinas on, 187–188
 Aristotle's discussion of, 36
- Peripatetic doctrine, 160–165
- perpetuity of nature, in Albert the Great's early moral theory, 101–102
- Peter the Lombard, 52, 67, 104, 182–183
- Philip the Chancellor, 10 early translations of Aristotle and, 75 on prudence and unity of virtues, 70–74, 104
 on reason, will, and freedom, 58–60
Summa de bono of, 56–74
 on synderesis, 56–57, 61–67, 121–122, 125
- philosophical life, happiness and, 29
- phronimos*
 in Albert the Great's early commentary,
 106–119
 Aquinas's discussion of, 187–188
 Aristotelian ethics and, 33–34 decision making by, 39–46 happiness and virtue of, 47–51 moral practice and, 35–39, 237
 Phillip the Chancellor and, 65–67
- Physics* (Aristotle), 212
- Plato
 Albert's analysis of, 143, 157–165
 Aristotle and, 4, 196
 Bonaventure's moral theory and, 204–208
 in Kilwardby's commentary on Aristotle, 85–86
 origins of moral theory and, 233–237 on wisdom, 29–30
- pleasure
 Albert on prudence and, 148–150
 happiness and, 29
- politics
 Albert's commentary on, 101–104, 138–144, 156
 happiness and, 29
 prudence and, 108–119, 149–150
- Politics* (Aristotle)
 anonymous commentator of Erfurt and, 210 happiness in, 31–32
 human goodness in, 21n.18
 moral theory in, 12–14
 rational activity in, 27–28
 virtuous state in, 47–51
- Posterior Analytics* (Bonaventure), 204
- potency in Albert's commentary, 128–130
 in anonymous commentator of Erfurt,
 214–219
 in Aquinas's moral theory, 171–172
 Bonaventure's moral theory and, 204–208
 prudence and, 168–169
synderesis as, 182–194
- poverty, Albert on Christianity and, 112–119
- practical wisdom (phronesis)
 Albert the Great's commentary on, 106–130
 in anonymous commentator of Erfurt,
 216–219
 Aquinas's moral theory and, 174–177,
 190–194
 Aristotelian moral theory and, 12–14, 17, 21–22
 Cicero on, 118–119
 civic happiness and, 28 conduct and, 132
 decision-making process and, 39–46
 in early medieval commentaries on Aristotle, 83–88
 early medieval commentaries on Aristotle
 and, 76–79
eudaimonia and, 29–30
 happiness and, 17, 46–51
 importance of, 34–39
 medicine and, 30–31
 moral virtues and, 28
 natural law and, 120–130, 132
 Philip the Chancellor on, 57–58

Cambridge University Press

978-1-107-13485-0 - Aristotle's Ethics and Medieval Philosophy: Moral Goodness and Practical Wisdom

Anthony J. Celano

Index

More information

Index

261

- in Politics (Aristotle), 31–32
- prudence and, 71–74, 241–242
- Radulphus Brito on, 222, 230–232
- in Rhetoric (Aristotle), 32–33
- Socratic position and, 30
- as supreme good, 23, 27
- unawareness of, in Kilwardby's commentary, 96–97
- practice (praxis)
 - in Albert the Great's commentary, 111
 - contemplation and, 24–25
 - happiness and, 16–17, 19
 - in Politics (Aristotle), 31–32
- proheresis*
 - in Kilwardby's commentary, 98–99
 - Philip the Chancellor on, 59–61
- prudence (prudentia)
 - Albert's analysis of, 104–119, 144–150, 165–169
 - in anonymous commentator of Erfurt, 212–219
 - Aquinas on right reason and, 177–181
 - Aristotle's concept of, 241–242
 - early medieval commentaries on Aristotle and, 76–79
 - happiness achieved through, 134–144
 - in Kilwardby's commentary on Aristotle, 83–88
 - moral action and, 11
 - Philip the Chancellor on, 56, 68
 - Radulphus Brito on, 230–232
 - synderesis* and, 187–194
 - unity of virtues and, 70–74
 - William of Auxerre on, 55–56
- prudens*, Christian concept of, 108–119
- Pseudo-Pecham commentary on Aristotle
 - beatitudes in, 92–93
 - bonum divinum* of, 85
 - causes of happiness in, 88–93
 - divine causality in, 88–93
 - fronesis* in, 96–97
 - Kilwardby's commentaries and, 82
 - summum bonum hominis* in, 86–87
 - virtue discussed by, 84–88
 - on virtue's relation to happiness, 94–97
- Ptolemy, 132
- purgative virtues, Aquinas's discussion of, 178–181
- Quodlibetal Questions, 231
- Rackham, H., 37
- Radulphus Brito, commentary on Aristotle by, 219–232
- rational soul
 - Aristotle's discussion of, 16–22
 - virtue and, 33–34, 95–97
- reason (logos)
 - Albert's discussion of, 105–119, 146–150, 163–165, 174
 - in anonymous commentator of Erfurt, 211–212, 215–219
 - Aquinas on, 176–181
 - desire and, 45–46
 - habitual virtue and, 98–99
 - in Kilwardby's commentary on Aristotle, 95–97
 - moral choice and, 10–11
 - Philip the Chancellor on, 58–60, 66–70
 - synderesis* and, 58–60, 62–67, 124–130, 182–194
- Republic* (Plato), 235
- Rhetoric* (Aristotle)
 - human achievement in, 49
 - practical wisdom (phronesis) in, 32–33
- right, Albert's idea of, 143–144
- right reason, Aquinas on prudence as, 177–181
- right rule (orthos logos), norm of, 45–46
- Rorty, A. O., 37n.52
- Ross, D., 37
- science
 - in anonymous commentator of Erfurt, 210
 - habitual virtue and, 98–99
 - natural law and principles of, 240–242
 - practical wisdom (phronesis) and, 36–39, 43–46
 - of prudence, 106, 109–110, 117–119
 - synderesis* and, 127–130
- Scripture, Aquinas's moral theory and, 170
- secundum se*, act of, in Albert the Great's commentaries on prudence, 115
- self-governance, prudence as, 188
- self-sufficiency
 - eudaimonia* and, 19
 - Radulphus Brito on, 224–230
 - theoretical wisdom and, 7
- Seneca, 57, 226, 238
- Sentences* (Peter Lombard), 52, 182–183, 197, 231
- Bonaventure's commentary on, 207–208

Cambridge University Press

978-1-107-13485-0 - Aristotle's Ethics and Medieval Philosophy: Moral Goodness and Practical Wisdom

Anthony J. Celano

Index

More information

262

Index

- Sherman, Nancy, 1
- Simon de Bisignano, 54
- society, moral teaching and, 12–14
- Socrates
- in Albert's commentaries, 159–165
 - Aquinas's discussion of, 190–191
 - Aristotle and, 4, 30, 36n.49
 - on craftsmen, 19
 - moral theory of, 8, 48–49, 233–235
 - on prudence and virtue, 136
- Solomon, Book of, William of Auxerre on, 55
- Solon
- Albert's discussion of, 138–139, 159–165
 - Aristotle's references to, 26–27, 36n.49
- Sophocles, Aristotle's discussion of, 50
- Sorabji, R., 34n.43, 38n.53
- Souchard, B., 38n.55
- soul
- Albert on, 104–119, 138–144
 - Aristotle's analysis of, 14, 20–22
 - Bonaventure's moral theory and, 205–208
 - in early medieval commentaries on Aristotle, 76–79
 - Philip the Chancellor on, 56–57
 - prudence and, 144–150, 166–169
 - rational and irrational division of, 15–22
 - synderesis* and, 62–67, 122–130
 - virtue and, 33–34
 - William of Auxerre on, 54–55
- spark, Aquinas on synderesis as, 183–194
- speculative knowledge
- in Albert the Great's early commentary, 107–119
 - Aquinas on truth and, 177–181
 - civic and contemplative happiness and, 132–144
 - Radulphus Brito on happiness and, 220–230
- speech, Aristotle on development of, 48–51
- spirit, gift of prudence and, 55–56, 108–119
- Stammkötter, F.-B., 113n.53
- Stams Cagalogue, 80n.15
- Stewart, J., 39n.56, 42, 45n.75
- Stoic philosophy
- natural cognition in, 9
 - natural law and, 237
- Striker, G., 237
- Sturlese, L., 131
- Summa aurea* (William of Auxerre), 52–56
- Summa de bono* (Philip the Chancellor), 56–74
- Summa theologiae* (Aquinas), 100, 231
- beatitudes in, 197
 - intrinsic ends in, 222
 - moral theory in, 170–202
 - perfect and imperfect beatitude and, 195–202
 - prudence discussed in, 180–181
 - synderesis* in, 185–194
- summum bonum hominis*, commentaries on Aristotle's concept of, 85
- Super Ethica* (Albert the Great), 100–130, 131–132
- civic and contemplative happiness in, 132–144
- supreme good
- Albert's discussion of, 134–135, 154–156
 - Aquinas on will and, 176–177
 - in early medieval commentaries on Aristotle, 78–79
- sylogistic reasoning
- Albert the Great on, 114, 126–130
 - in anonymous commentator of Erfurt, 215–219
 - Aquinas's moral theory and, 174–177
 - practical wisdom and, 34–39
- Symposium* (Socrates), 234
- synderesis*
- in Albert the Great's commentaries, 119–130, 155
 - Aquinas on, 181–194
 - Augustine on, 122–124, 128–130
 - Bonaventure on, 206–208
 - free choice and, 59–60
 - in medieval commentaries on Aristotle, 88–93
 - moral action and, 10, 60–67
 - natural law and, 240–242
 - Philip the Chancellor on nature of, 56–57, 61–67
 - prudence and, 71–74
 - William of Auxerre's Summa aurea and, 54–55, 99
- temperance
- in Albert the Great's early commentaries, 104
 - Philip the Chancellor on, 72–74
- Thales, Aristotle's discussion of, 36
- Theaetetus* (Socrates), 235

- theoretical wisdom
 in Albert the Great's early commentary, 106–119
 in anonymous commentator of Erfurt, 212
 deliberation and, 42–46
 happiness and, 2–3
 practical wisdom (phronesis) and, 38–39
 self-sufficiency and, 7
 supremacy of, 24–25
theoria. See contemplation (theoria)
Timaeus (Plato), 143
Topics (Aristotle), 53–54, 152–154
 Tracey, M., 77
 Trottmann, C., 130, 202
 truth
 Albert the Great on prudence and, 115
 in anonymous commentator of Erfurt, 211
 Aquinas on, 177–181, 184–194
 happiness from knowledge of, 3 Philip the Chancellor on congnition and, 59–60
synderesis and, 184–194
 “two happinesses” doctrine, 169, 174, 218–219
 uncreated charity, Bonaventure's moral theory and, 202–203 universal principles
 Plato's moral theory and, 235–236
synderesis and, 126–130
 vice, Philip the Chancellor on, 65–67 virtue
 in Albert's commentaries, 102–104, 116–117, 133, 136–144, 157–165
 in anonymous commentator of Erfurt, 213–219
 application of rules and, 33–34
 Aquinas on prudence and, 177–181
 Bonaventure on, 204–208
 early medieval commentaries on Aristotle and, 76–79
 habitual virtue, 97–99
 happiness and, 3–4, 27–34, 93–97, 133, 150–154, 161–165
 Hume's definition of, 239
 in Kilwardby's commentary, 82–88
 Philip the Chancellor's treatment of, 67–70
 practical wisdom (phronesis) and, 47–51, 230–232
 prudence and, 70–74, 144–150, 168–169
 Radulphus Brito on happiness and, 226–230
synderesis and, 64–67
 William of Auxerre on, 55
 voluntary action. See also choice (prohairesis); will Albert's commentaries on, 103–104, 155–165
 Aquinas's moral theory and, 174–177
 Von Stauffenberg, Claus, 242
 Wallace, J., 48n.86
 White, N., 38
 Wicki, N., 60n.38, 62
 Wieland, G., 131
 Wiggins, D., 50n.89
 will. See also natural will Albert's discussion of, 111–119, 141–144, 162–165
 in Aquinas's moral theory, 171–173
 moral action and, 9–10, 60–67
 Philip the Chancellor on, 58–60
 prudence and, 106–119
 William of Auxerre
 on universal principles of moral reason, 10
 moral theory of, 52–55
 on natural law, 52–55, 99, 119
 Philip the Chancellor and, 69–70, 75 on prudence and beatitude, 55–56
 William of Ockham, 231 wisdom (sapientia)
 Cicero on, 118–119
 happiness achieved through, 134–136
 prudence and, 166–169
 virtue and, 180–181
 work/effect (opus), in Kilwardby's commentary, 81–88 written law (scripta), 119 youth
 in Kilwardby's commentary, 90–93
 lack of practical wisdom in, 34n.43