

Cambridge University Press

978-1-107-15354-7 — Reviving Roman Religion

Ailsa Hunt

Index

More Information

INDEX

- Adolenda Coinquenda, 165–170, 293
 Adolenda Commolenda Deferunda, 15, 163–168, 292
 Aeneas, 52, 93–94, 127n23
 agency, of trees, 27, 173–177, 199–200, see also portents, arboreal animism, 26, 43–49, 50–62, 66–70, 72–73, 177, see also mana, numen
     preamimism, 58
 Apollo, see also laurel of the Cornels, 131, 238–239
     of the Plane, 238
 arboricultural care
     and the ficus Ruminalis, 116–118 for sacred trees, 121, 133–152, 293 assumed sacrilege, 133–134 violence of, 134
 Aristotle, on plant life, 175–176
 Artemis
     of the Cedar, 238, 242, 260–261, 293
     of the Laurel, 238–239
     of the Nut Tree, 238, 241–242
     Saviour, 79–81
 Asclepius, see also grove(s), of Asclepius of the Agnus Castus, 238, 242, 260 ash, see Silvanus, half shut up in sacred ash
 Athena, see also olive, produced by Athena
     of the Cypress, 238, 241–243
     of the Ivy, 238
     statue of, attached to bronze palm, 264–265
 Attus Navius, 102–109
 Augustus, see also palm, on altar of Augustus at Tarraco
     revives a holm oak on Capri, 218–219
     transplants a palm sapling, 217, 260
- Baumkultus*, see tree worship Baumseele, see tree souls beech, see also fagatal, see Jupiter, Fagatalis
     fagus deus, 239, 241, 244 belief, 9–11
 Boetticher, C. G. W., 34–35, 39n39, 52, 58n114, 113n80, 121, 127, 263
 Boscotrecase, 271–273, 279
- casa Romuli*, 115–118, 161
 Cato, Agr. 139–140, 60–61, 67, 137–140, 143–144, 147–148, 151
 columns, 259
     in relationship with trees, 262n81, 277 comparative religion, 29–31
     evolutionary model, 29–30, 35–37
     fall from grace, 63–65
     implications for the Church, 35–37 Protestant-centric approach, 37–39 confession inscriptions, 244–249 cornel, 118, 204, see also Apollo, of the Cornels
     once Romulus' spear, 204
 cross worship, 74–76
 Cybele, 253–254, 257–258, 283–286,
     see also pine, in relationship with Cybele
 cypress, 210–211, 252–253, see also Athena, of the Cypress
- Daphne, 51, 54, 60, 197, 222, 233–234, 290–291, 293
     at Antioch the Great, 290–291
 Darwin, see comparative religion,
     evolutionary model
 Dea Dia, see grove of Dea Dia, see
     pruning

Cambridge University Press

978-1-107-15354-7 — Reviving Roman Religion

Ailsa Hunt

Index

More Information

Index

- Dea Dia (cont.)
 major festival of, 137
 meaning of name, 148–149n1
dendrophori, 253–254, 258 Dionysus, see also pine, in relationship with Dionysus of the Fig, 239, 243–244
 of the Ivy, 238
 wooden statues of, 81–83, 292 Dowden, K., 10, 69–70, 134, 231–232, 269 dryads, see hamadryads and dryads Dumézil, G., 65, 140n55, 180–181
 epithets
 arboreal, 237–254
 Pausanias' penchant for, 238–241, 249–250
 scholarship on, 237–238, 250–251
 Erysichthon, 52–54, 60, 122–124, 126, 191–192, 196
 Evander, 13, 61, 67, 186–187
fagutal, 239, see also Jupiter, Fagutalis Faunus/i, 93–95, 185, 187–188, 230
 fetishism, 40–41, see also tree worship, Protestant-centric constructions of ficus Navia, 103–109, 119–120
ficus Romula / Romularis, 116 ficus Ruminalis, 3, 9, 12, 61, 100–120, 121, 255 on the Anaglypha Traiana, 255 and arboricultural care, 116–118 authenticity of, 111–112 location of, 101–102
 and material vulnerability, 116–120 and memory, 112–115, 118–120
 Pliny the Elder on, 100–120
 portentous behaviour, 111–112, 216 sacrality of, 112–120
 fig, see also Dionysus, of the Fig, ficus Navia, ficus Romula / Romularis, ficus Ruminalis on altar of Jupiter on Capitol, 215 associations of, 215
 milky sap, 289–290
 in the roof of Dea Dia's temple, 15, 163–164 at shrine of Ruma, 289–290 upsets a statue of Silvanus, 164 foliage, 77, 96–97, 111, 233, 293 folklore, 31–33, 37
fratres Arvales, 135–136, see also grove of Dea Dia Frazer, J. G., 2, 17, 25, 37n31, 42, 44, 48, 49, 52, 55 gerundives, 15, 139–140, 165–167 Golden Age, 11–14, 85, 125n14, 186–187, 269 grove of Dea Dia, 137–140, 163–165, 171–172 arboreal crises, 152–171 iron presumed ‘taboo’, 144–145 nature of inscriptive evidence, 135–136 grove(s), see Evander, Lucina animistic explanations of, 127
 at Antioch the Great, 290–291
 of Apollo of the Cornels, 239 of Asclepius, 129–130
 assumed inviolable, 126–128
 assumed sacred, 126–128
 of Jupiter Ammon, 83–87 sacred to Diana, 231–232
 of Zeus Sabazius and Artemis Anaeitis, 248
 hamadryads and dryads, 46, 53–54, 190–196
 animistic interpretations of, 46, 53–54, 190
 coeval with trees, 190–193 varied relationships with trees, 190–196 Harpocrates, 276–277
 Helen of the Tree, 238, 241
 Hercules, 256–258, see also poplar, in relationship with Hercules in fresco from casa VII.9.47, 256–258 in fresco from Oplontis, 224–226 in garden of the Hesperides, 224–225, 258 introduces white poplar and wild olive, 226 plants two oaks, 226
     and his reroooting club, 204

Cambridge University Press

978-1-107-15354-7 — Reviving Roman Religion

Ailsa Hunt

Index

More Information

Index

- tree-hugger, 224–226, 293 and the wild olive, 98–99, 226 holm oak, 100, 218, 231, 260 humanisation of trees, 196–199 bleeding or in pain, 52–53, 122–125
- imperial cult, 153–154, 217–223 inviolability of groves, see grove(s), assumed inviolable
   of sacred objects, 3–4
   of sacred trees, see sacred trees in contemporary scholarship on Roman religion, assumed
     inviolable
- Isis, 257, see also Pompeii, frescoes from temple of Isis
- Jupiter, see also oak, in relationship with Jupiter Ammon, 83–87
 Fagutalis, 239, 241–242, 293
 Feretrius, 62
- jurists, 3–9
- Latinus, see laurel(s), in Latinus' palace laurel, 214–215
 badly burned in the Arval grove, 157–159 in Latinus' palace, 96–97, 228 in relationship with Apollo, 228–231, 233–235, 266–267, 290–291, 293
- lightning strikes, 9, 104–105, 109, 119, 135, 155, see also puteal
- lotus, 98, 100, 124, 288–289
- Lucina, 288–289
- lucus*, see also grove(s)
 as understood by Scheid, 136–137, 148–150 etymology of, 148–150
- mana*, 47, 59, 68–69, 179
 Mannhardt, W., 32, 46, 52–54 memory, see ficus Ruminalis, and memory metamorphoses, arboreal, 124, 196–197, 233–234, see also Daphne
- Dryope, 193
- Minerva, see olive, in relationship with Minerva
- myrtle, 98, 216
 and Artemis Saviour, 79–81, 83
 in relationship with Venus, 228–231, 233, 242 statue of Aphrodite, made of, 263–264
- neopaganism, 1–2
numen, 177–190, see also mana aligned with mana, 59, 179 associated with trees, 85–86, 184–190, 291 history of scholarship on, 177–183 narrative of word's development, 179–180 new approach to, 183–184
numen Augustum, 181–183
numen inest, 184–186
 undefinability, 183–184 understood as impersonal force, 178, 180, 182
- nymphs, 289, see also hamadryads and dryads
- oak, 130–131, 189, 199, see also Erysichthon, see also Zeus of the Twin Oaks beam in Argo, 92–93
 Dodonian, 33, 92–93, 122
 in relationship with Jupiter, 62, 228–233, 236–237, 282–283
- olive, 98–99
 grove, which crossed the road, 212 produced by Athena, 98, 99, 212 in relationship with Minerva, 228–231 wild, 93–95, 98–99, 212, 226, 289, see also Faunus, Hercules
- Oplontis, 224–226, see also Hercules Ovid
Fast. 3.295–296, 67, 184–185
Metamorphoses, 51–52, 196–197
- palm, 99, 217
 on altar of Augustus at Tarraco, 15–16, 217–223, 291 on altar of Jupiter on the Capitol, 215 bronze, at Delos, 259
 bronze, at Delphi, 15, 259, 264–265, 292 spared by Julius Caesar, 217

Index

- palm (cont.)
 in temple of Victory at Tralles, 213–214
 Pan, 228, see also pine, in relationship with Pan plants a tree, 259
 Pausanias, 24–25, see also epithets, Pausanias' penchant for, statues, of the divine, Pausanias' interest in peach, 214–215
penates, 3, 217, 260, 293 Philpot, J. H., 26, 41, 47, 49, 53
piacula, 140–144, 291 pine
 cut down by St Martin, 73
 dedicated to Diana, 228
 in relationship with Cybele, 228–231, 234, 284–286 in relationship with Dionysus, 234–236 in relationship with Pan, 233–234, 286 in relationship with Poseidon, 234–236 in relationship with Priapus, 286 plane(s), 209, 228, 253, 260, see Apollo, of the Plane, see sacrifice, wine pouring on trees at Aulis, 95–96, 293
 at Delphi, planted by Agamemnon, 98–99 honour for, 89–91
 Pliny, Nat. 12.1–3, 13, 67, 187–188, 230–231
 Polydorus, 33, 52, 54, 60
 Pompeii
 fresco from casa IX. 2, 16, 277–278 fresco from casa VII. 9, 47, 256–258 frescoes from temple of Isis, 273–277 tree root cavity excavations, 266–268 pons subtilius, 162 poplar, see also Zeus of the White Poplar and Dryope, 193 in relationship with Heliades, 196–197, 234 in relationship with Hercules, 228–231, 234 white turns into black variety, 207 porta sacra, 271–276
 portents
 arboreal, 111–112, 155–157, 199–223, 264 blurring of natural and divine causation, 155–157, 205–211, 293 interpretation, 213–217
 'natural vs unnatural', 201–202, 205–211
 Pliny the Elder on, 205–210
 self-resurrecting trees, 208–211 technical sense, 200
 Priapus, 228, 257n68, 262n82, 279–280, 286, 293, see also pine, in relationship with Priapus
 pruning
coinquere and conlucare, 137–139 in the grove of Dea Dia, 137–152, 170–171 purpose of, 148–152
 timing of, 150–151
puteal, 104–105
 Roman culture and religion models for approaching, 21–22
 my methodological approach to, 19–22, 25
 Roman Greece, 22–25
 Roman religion, contemporary
 scholarship on
 decline of animism, 65–66
 and the environment, 17–19, 293–294 animistic interpretations, 18
 assumed simplistic, 17–19
 legalism, 4–9, 142–143
 warnings against Christianocentric approach, 65–66, 70 Roman religion, early scholarship on evolutionary approach, 57–58 obsession with animism, numina and tree spirits, 58–62 overlap with comparativists, 54–62 Christianocentric approach, 57–58
 Roman religion aligned with Catholicism, 50–51
 Roman religion understood as primitive, 50–51 Romulus, 103, 114, 117
 and Remus, 107, 110, 112–113, 116 and a rerooting cornel spear, 118, 204

Cambridge University Press

978-1-107-15354-7 — Reviving Roman Religion

Ailsa Hunt

Index

More Information

Index

- Rose, H. J., 58–59, 64–65, 165, 179–181, 184
 Rumina, 27, 116, 289–290
- sacer*, 3–6
 sacrality, 3–9
     consecration model, 3–8 divine property model, 3–8 flexible and organic approach, 112–120, 292–293 legalistic approach, 3–9, 121–122 of the natural world, 5–7
- sacred trees
     in cult space, 266–291
     exceptionally old, 98–100 felling, implications of, 128–132, 244–249 and the other, 83–84, 279–280 physical treatment of, 157–162, 171–172, see also arboricultural care, vulnerability of trees and rusticity, 13–14
     struck by lightning, 155 struggling or in decline, 93–96, 107, 111–112, 152–162 understood as consecrated, 227–228, 231–233 sacred trees in comparativist scholarship
     animistic interpretations of, 26, 43–49, 177
     evolutionary narrative, 47–49 Roman exempla, 51–54
     huge enthusiasm for, 29–49 especially in Germany, 31–32 non-animistic explanations of, 42–43 sacred trees in contemporary scholarship on Roman religion
     animistic interpretations of, 26, 66–70
         evolutionary model, 69–70
         hostility towards matter, 69–70
     assumed inviolable, 121–126, 128–129
     assumed simplistic, 1–2, 11–14, 66
 sacred trees in early scholarship on Roman religion
     animistic interpretations of, 26, 50–62
         evolutionary model, 62
         hostility towards matter, 61–62
 sacred trees in the apologists
     animistic interpretations of, 72–73
- sacrifice, 140–141, 171–172, see also imperial cult, piacula piacular pigs, 137–138
 sacrificial prepositions, 153–154, 292
strues and fercta, 154–155 wine pouring on trees, 89–91 sacro-idyllic landscapes, 268–273 trees in, 270–277
 Seneca, Ep. 41.3, 67, 186–187
 Servius
     on hamadryads and dryads, 192
     on oaks and groves, 231–232 Silvanus, 15, 62, 77, 134, 164, 228, 251–254, 266, 293
     and Cyparissus, 252
 Dendrophorus, 253–254
 half shut up in sacred ash, 15, 87–89 Silvestris, 253
sive deus sive dea, see Cato, Agr. 139–140 Sondergötter, 18, 163–168
 Spoleto inscription (CIL 11.4766), 127–128, 148, 151 statues
     made from trees, 81–83, 88–89
     of the divine
         Pausanias' interest in, 80–81 scholarly approaches to, 80–81, 262–263, 265 of trees, 255–259
 statuetes and trees
     tree worship aligned with Catholic idolatry, 39–41 trees as primitive temples and statuetes, 35 trees blurring with statuetes, 255–265 in Roman cultural discourse, 261–262 primitivism, 261–262
 Stoicism, 202–203
     influence of in the Roman world, 202–204 influence on Pliny the Elder, 203–204 storms, 153, 155–158, 236 stumps, see sacred trees, struggling or in decline survivals, 31–33
 theological thinking, 9–19
 Theophrastus, 208–210

Index

- totemism, 43
- tree huggers
- Hercules, 224–226
  - Passienus Crispus, 91
  - tree souls, 52–54, 166, 190
  - tree spirits, 43–49, 58–61, 67–68
  - tree types, see also portents, arboreal
    - identification in Roman painting, 226
    - in relationship with particular deities, 187–188, 227–237
  - tree worship
    - blurring with worship of deities, 79–89
    - glimpses of in the Roman world, 72–92
    - Protestant-centric constructions of, 39–42, 47–48, 84
  - trees
    - wrapped with wreaths or ribbons, 13, 72, 122, 224–226
- Turnus, 93–95
- Tylor, E. B., 26, 33, 36, 38, 41, 43–44, 53–54, 77
- Venus, 94, 257, see also myrtle, in relationship with Venus
- of the Myrtle, 239
  - Vesta, temple of, 282–283
  - Vestal Virgins, 90n35, 164, 282–283
  - villa dei Papiri, Herculaneum
    - wooden furniture fragments, 284–287
- vulnerability of trees, 27, 77, see also ficus Ruminalis and material vulnerability, sacred trees, struggling or in decline
- white poplar, see Hercules, Zeus
- willow, 208–210
- wreaths, 98, 226, 277–278, 289
- Zeus
- of the Twin Oaks, 131–132, 244–249
  - of the white poplar, 237–240, 243