

CONTENTS

	Preface	ix
	Acknowledgements	xiv
	Table of Statutes and General Charters		xv
	Table of Cases	xix
	List of Abbreviations	xxxix
1	The Legal Character of Magna Carta		1
	Magna Carta as a Statute	2
	Magna Carta as a Grant	12
	Magna Carta as Common Law	13
	Magna Carta as Fundamental Law	17
	Magna Carta as the Paramount Statute	24
	The Exegesis of Chapter 29	32
	Due Process	40
	Remedies	42
2	Chapter 29 in the Fourteenth Century		47
	Parliament and Council	48
	Reported Cases in the 1360s	58
	The Deposition of King Richard II	63
	General Awareness of Magna Carta	65
3	Magna Carta in the Inns of Court 1340–1540		69
	Readings in the Fifteenth Century	71
	Morgan Kidwelly's Reading	75
	Thomas Harlakenden's Reading	78
	The Obsolescence of Magna Carta	81
	The Role of History in Legal Education	85
	The Dearth of Constitutional Learning	86
	Stirrings of Change	95
	A Reading on Constitutional Law in about 1529		101

4	Personal Liberty and the Church	110
	Heresy	114
	The Defence of the Faith and Sir Thomas More	121
	Religious Change and Treason	125
	The High Commission	133
5	Royal Prerogative and Common Law under Elizabeth I	144
	Legislation by Proclamation	151
	Imprisonment and Habeas Corpus	155
	Torture	170
	Prerogative Protections	174
	Other Stays of Justice	179
	Revenue and the Prerogative	184
	Monopolies	187
	Urban Oligarchies Created by Charter	201
	Prerogative Jurisdictions	206
	The Prolonged Latency of Magna Carta	214
6	William Fleetwood and Magna Carta	216
	The Beginnings of English Legal History	220
	Treatise on the Origins of English Law	225
	Commentary on Magna Carta	226
	Discourse on the Interpretation of Statutes	232
	Fleetwood's Use of Readings	237
	Fleetwood's Notes for Arguments	238
	Opinion on the Bridewell Charter	241
	Fleetwood's Approach to Magna Carta	243
7	The Resurgence of Chapter 29 after 1580	249
	Robert Snagge's Reading	251
	Puritans and the Law	255
	Magna Carta in Legal Argument	261
	Case of the Sheriffs of London	266
	James Morice and the High Commission	270
8	Magna Carta and the Rule of Law 1592–1606	276
	The Court of Requests	277
	The Court of Chancery	284
	The High Commission	289
	The Borough of Berwick	299
	The Council in the Marches	302

CONTENTS

vii

Restrictive Bye-laws and Trading Monopolies	311
Purveyance	324
Impositions	328
9 Sir Edward Coke and Magna Carta 1606–1615	335
The Accession of King James	339
Chief Justice of the Common Pleas	351
The High Commission	353
The Court of Requests	376
The Provincial Councils	379
Proclamations	390
Mandamus	396
Imprisonment by the Privy Council	398
The Star Chamber	402
Benevolences	407
10 A Year ‘Consecrate to Justice’: 1616	410
Ellesmere and the Court of Chancery	410
Non Procedendo Rege Inconsulto	422
Francis Ashley’s Reading	427
Coke’s Dismissal	435
11 Myth and Reality	442
Appendices
1 Two Fifteenth-century Readings on Chapter 29	452
2 Actions Founded on Chapter 29 (1501–32)	456
3 William Fleetwood on Chapter 29 (c. 1558)	463
4 Fleetwood’s Tracts on Magna Carta and on Statutes:     A Concordance of Parallel Passages	466
5 Six Elizabethan Cases (1582–1600)	468
6 The Judges’ Resolutions on Habeas Corpus (1592)	495
7 Coke’s Memorandum on Chapter 29 (1604)	500
8 Whetherly v. Whetherly (1605)	511
9 Maunsell’s Case (1607)	517
10 Bulthorpe v. Ladbrook (1607)	531
Bibliography of Secondary Sources	534
Index	542