

THE CAMBRIDGE COMPANION TO HERMENEUTICS

Hermeneutics, the study of interpretation, is an essential and valuable branch of philosophy. Hermeneutics is also a central component of the methodology of the social sciences and the humanities, for example historiography, anthropology, art history, and literary criticism. In a sequence of accessible chapters, contributors across the human sciences explain the leading concepts and ideas of hermeneutics, the historical development of the field, the importance of hermeneutics in philosophy today, and the ways in which it can address contemporary concerns including intercultural relations, relations between subcultures within a single society, and relations across race and gender. Clearly structured and written in non-technical language, this Companion will be an important contribution to a growing field of study.

MICHAEL N. FORSTER is Professor of Philosophy at Bonn University. He has published numerous books including Herder: Philosophical Writings (Cambridge, 2002), After Herder (2010), German Philosophy of Language: From Schlegel to Hegel and Beyond (2011), and Herder's Philosophy (2018).

KRISTIN GJESDAL is Professor of Philosophy at Temple University. Her recent books include Herder's Hermeneutics: History, Poetry, Enlightenment (Cambridge, 2017) and Ibsen's Hedda Gabler: Philosophical Perspectives (2018).

Acknowledgments

This volume has been in preparation for some time and we have incurred many debts of thanks in the course of preparing it. We would like to thank Hilary Gaskin of Cambridge University Press for suggesting it in the first place, advising us on how best to develop it, and shepherding it through to production. We would also like to thank three anonymous reviewers for the press who gave very thoughtful and constructive feedback on the project proposal, which among other things led to the addition of several chapters. The volume was prepared for by means of a conference that we organized at Bonn University in April of 2017 at which contributors presented their contributions and received feedback from each other. In that connection we would like to thank the Alexander von Humboldt Foundation for generously funding the conference and Bonn University for hosting it. We would also like to thank several of Michael Forster's graduate student assistants at Bonn University who worked both on the conference and on the volume itself: Jaroslaw Bledowski, Eva Jeske, Jan Paffrath, Melanie Riedel, and Simon Waskow. At Temple University, we would like to thank Meryl Lumba for her editorial assistance. And of course we would also like to thank the contributors themselves for all of the hard work they put into writing their pieces and participating in the conference.
