

C O N T E N T S

Preface	page ix
Chapter I. “La Fixité du Milieu Intérieur est la Condition de la Vie Libre.” (Claude Bernard)	i
II. “La Fixité du Milieu Intérieur est la Condition de la Vie Libre” (continued) . . .	34
III. “La Fixité du Milieu Intérieur est la Condition de la Vie Libre” (continued) . . .	71
IV. Stores I (Certain Proximate Principles). . .	90
V. Stores II (Oxygen, Iron, Copper) . . .	113
VI. Stores III (Blood)	141
VII. Every Adaptation is an Integration . . .	172
VIII. Every Adaptation is an Integration (continued)	187
IX. Every Adaptation is an Integration (continued)	216
X. The “All-or-None” Relation	230
XI. Units	258
XII. The Principle of Antagonism	267
XIII. The Principle of Maximal Activity . . .	286
XIV. Duplication	311
XV. The chance that a Phenomenon has a Significance	334
Index	359