A HISTORY OF THE BEJA TRIBES
OF THE SUDAN
A HISTORY OF
THE BEJA TRIBES OF THE SUDAN

BY A. PAUL, M.A.
SUDAN POLITICAL SERVICE

CAMBRIDGE
AT THE UNIVERSITY PRESS
1954
CONTENTS

Preface

| Preface | vii |

Chapter I

| I Introduction | 1 |

II

| II The Beja Country and its Tribes | 12 |

III

| III Beja Origins | 20 |

IV

| IV The Gold and Incense Lands (2500–50 B.C.) | 27 |

V

| V The Sabaeans and the Kingdom of Axum (700 B.C.–A.D. 750) | 38 |

VI

| VI The Enemies of Rome (50 B.C.–A.D. 640) | 52 |

VII

| VII The Arab Infiltration (640–1520) | 64 |

VIII

| VIII The Subjugation of the Tigré (750–1700) | 80 |

IX

| IX The Turkia (1520–1880) | 91 |

X

| X The Mahdia and the Re-occupation (1881–1900) | 106 |

XI

| XI Recent History (1900–1950) | 120 |

Appendix I

| I Beja Chronology | 133 |

II

| II The Beja Tribes and their Sub-divisions | 137 |

III

| III The Arteiga Tribes | 140 |

IV

| IV The Ababda | 143 |

V

| V The Halenga | 144 |

VI

| VI The Fellata Melle | 146 |

VII

| VII The Beja Camel | 147 |

Bibliography

| 149 |

Glossary

| 153 |

Index

| 154 |
LIST OF PLATES

I A view of the Red Sea Hills (Photograph: J. F. E. Bloss, Esq.) facing page 14

II A Hadendowi Camelman (Photograph: Sudan Government Public Relations Office) 24

III Watering Cattle (Photograph: Sudan Government Public Relations Office) 68

IV Suakin (Photograph: Central Office of Information. Crown Copyright Reserved) 102

V (1) Beni Amer shifta (Photograph: Sudan Government Public Relations Office) 130

(2) Police Patrol in the Red Sea Hills (Photograph: Sudan Government Public Relations Office)

VI Jebal Kassala (Photograph: F. H. Kane, Esq.) 144

LIST OF MAPS

1 The Beja country page viii

2 The Nile valley and Red Sea in classical times 53

3 The Southern Thebaid 58

4 Reproduction of part of the map of John Senex, 1709 94

5 The Red Sea battle area, 1883–91 109

vi
PREFACE

My purpose has been to present in as complete and consecutive form as possible the history of the tribes which now inhabit the mountains and deserts of the Eastern Sudan. It has not been an easy task nor, in the midst of official duties, have I been able to devote to it as much time as I should have liked. The student of Beja history must, moreover, be a master of tongues, ancient and modern, to an extent to which I cannot pretend.

I have been sparing of my notes, not wishing to distract the reader with over-abundance of often not very rewarding references, but the bibliography given at the end omits, I hope, no works which have useful reference to the Beja.

My acknowledgements are due to all those who have helped me with information and advice, more particularly to the Librarian of the Newbold Library in the University College of Khartoum, who most courteously allowed me to borrow as many books as I liked, to the Commissioner for Archaeology, who permitted me to read the manuscript notes of the late Sir Douglas Newbold (now in the Ashmolean Museum, Oxford) which I found invaluable, and to Mohammed Saleh Effendi Dirar Ali Yangi of the Eastern Telegraph Co., Port Sudan, whose encyclopedic knowledge of the tribes of the Red Sea coast was placed freely at my disposal.

I must also express my gratitude to the Sudan Government and to the Syndics of the University Press, Cambridge, for generous assistance in the publication of this book.

A. P.

KASSALA, 1954
Map 1. The Beja Country