Contents

About the authors ........................................... page viii
Acknowledgements .......................................... xi

CHAPTER 1: HOW TO READ THIS BOOK

Brenton Doecke, Glenn Auld and Muriel Wells

Continuing reading ................................... 2
Reading stories ......................................... 5
Debating literacy ......................................... 7
Affirming your professional knowledge ............... 9
New literacies and communication practices within classrooms 12
So ... who does this book think you are? ............. 13
What follows ........................................... 15
Professional associations that will be of interest to you as a literacy educator 17
References ............................................. 17

CHAPTER 2: ENGAGING WITH TENSIONS: TENSIONS ARE THE NORM

Glenn Auld, Brenton Doecke and Rachel MacGilp

Literacy is complex .................................. 20
Literacy learners are increasingly diverse ........ 23
Effective literacy teachers experience a variety of tensions 26
Why have you decided to become a literacy teacher? 29
Conclusion ............................................ 34
References ............................................ 35

CHAPTER 3: TEACHERS RESEARCHING THEIR TEACHING: LEARNING THROUGH PRACTITIONER INQUIRY

Anne Cloonan, Louise Paatsch and Muriel Wells

Rosa joins a community of inquirers at a new school 41
Adam moves from being a graduate to part of a community of learners 47
Julie and Sophie combine action and research ....... 54
Conclusion ............................................ 59
References ............................................ 60

CHAPTER 4: LITERACY TEACHING AND LEARNING IN DIGITAL TIMES: TALES OF CLASSROOM INTERACTIONS

Muriel Wells and Glenn Auld

Shannon: creating digital texts ....................... 65