The History of New South Wales

Having arrived with his parents from Ireland in New South Wales in 1840 as a 'bounty emigrant', the young Roderick Flanagan (1828–62) quickly developed a passionate interest in his adopted country. Following an apprenticeship with a city printer, the educated and astute Flanagan worked for a number of Australia's early newspapers, including Melbourne's Daily News and the Sydney Morning Herald, where he acquired his distinctive, journalistic approach to history. Published shortly after his early death in London in 1862, Flanagan's two-volume chronicle of New South Wales represents a lifetime of research, and demonstrates the author's balanced and unpartisan approach to politics. Picking up the narrative in 1838, Volume 2 covers the campaign for the discontinuation of criminal transportation, the origin of the Elected Council, and the political and social character of neighbouring New Zealand. This volume concludes with appendices on the economic, geographic and agricultural status of the colony.
Cambridge University Press has long been a pioneer in the reissuing of out-of-print titles from its own backlist, producing digital reprints of books that are still sought after by scholars and students but could not be reprinted economically using traditional technology. The Cambridge Library Collection extends this activity to a wider range of books which are still of importance to researchers and professionals, either for the source material they contain, or as landmarks in the history of their academic discipline.

Drawing from the world-renowned collections in the Cambridge University Library, and guided by the advice of experts in each subject area, Cambridge University Press is using state-of-the-art scanning machines in its own Printing House to capture the content of each book selected for inclusion. The files are processed to give a consistently clear, crisp image, and the books finished to the high quality standard for which the Press is recognised around the world. The latest print-on-demand technology ensures that the books will remain available indefinitely, and that orders for single or multiple copies can quickly be supplied.

The Cambridge Library Collection will bring back to life books of enduring scholarly value (including out-of-copyright works originally issued by other publishers) across a wide range of disciplines in the humanities and social sciences and in science and technology.
The History of New South Wales

With an Account of Van Diemen’s Land, New Zealand, Port Phillip, Moreton Bay, and Other Australian Settlements

Volume 2

Roderick Flanagan
HISTORY OF NEW SOUTH WALES.
THE

HISTORY OF NEW SOUTH WALES;

WITH AN ACCOUNT OF

VAN DIEMEN'S LAND [TASMANIA],
NEW ZEALAND, PORT PHILLIP [VICTORIA],
MORETON BAY,

AND OTHER AUSTRALASIAN SETTLEMENTS.

COMPRISING A COMPLETE VIEW OF THE

Progress and Prospects of Gold Mining in Australia.

THE WHOLE COMPILED FROM OFFICIAL AND OTHER AUTHENTIC AND ORIGINAL SOURCES.

BY

RODERICK FLANAGAN,
MEMBER OF THE AUSTRALIAN LITERARY INSTITUTE, AND OF THE PHILOSOPHICAL SOCIETY
OF NEW SOUTH WALES.

"Civil history is of prime importance among human writings, as the examples of antiquity, the revolutions of things, the foundations of civil prudence, with the names and reputations of men, are committed to its trust."—Bacon.

VOL. II.

LONDON:
SAMPSON LOW, SON, & CO., 47, LUDGATE HILL.
1862.

[The Right of Translation is Reserved.]
CONTENTS OF VOL. II.

CHAPTER I.
Administration of Gipps—Bushranging more than ever prevalent—Colonists purchase land from New Zealanders—The Governor and Wentworth come into collision—Proposed separation of Port Phillip—Commercial embarrassment—The Colonists again petition for Representative Government—Sydney incorporated. 1—58

1839—1842.
iv

CONTENTS.

CHAPTER II.
Representative institutions conceded—Meeting of the first Elective Council—Distress amongst the working classes—Commencement of the contest between the Governor and the Squatters—Wentworth opens the subject of Colonial grievances—The Education Question comes to a crisis—Leichhardt journeys from Moreton Bay to Port Essington . . . . . 63—112

1843—1845.

I. Representation conceded—Remarks on the struggle for constitutional freedom—The civil list—Last session of the Council—The monetary depression comes to a crisis—The elections—The first Representative Legislature—The Usury Bill. II. The Lien on Wool Act—The squatters boil down their flocks—Distress in the city—Mrs. Chisholm—Humoured revival of transportation—Measures to relieve the distress. III. The commission of the peace defective—Pastoral regulations altered—This the immediate cause of the governor’s troubles—The change deemed inopportune—The squatters meet at Sydney—Their arguments and resolutions—The Pastoral Association. IV. The Council meets—Colonial “grievances”—Responsible government spoken of—Wentworth proposes to stop the supplies—The education question. V. A Parliamentary agent appointed—A privilege case; Mr. Lowe and Mr. Macdermott—Crime in Sydney. VI. Affairs of Tahiti—Statistics—A Jewish synagogue—Affairs at Port Phillip. VII. Leichhardt travels to Port Essington—Difficulties of the journey—Two of the party turn back—One of the guides refractory—A contemptuous tribe. VIII. A picturesque spot—The Lynd—Attack by the blacks—Gilbert killed—Well-disposed aboriginals. IX. An attack frustrated—A melodious dialect—The party return to Sydney—Their reward.

CHAPTER III.
Warfare at New Zealand—Responsible Government spoken of in the colony—Sir Thomas Mitchell sets out for the Gulf of Carpentaria—Railways proposed—Gipps retires—His successor, Sir Charles Fitz-Roy, arrives—The Transportation question assumes grave importance—The Council declares against transportation—New squattings regulations (1847); settled, intermediate, and unsettled districts—Death of Lady Mary Fitz-Roy—Leichhardt sets out to cross the Great Desert 113—174

1845—1847.

I. Affairs of New Zealand—John Heki—The magistracy—A conspiracy detected. II. The colony prosperous—Land policy—Australian coin in England—Immigration. III. Sir Thomas Mitchell sets out for Carpentaria—The aboriginal warfare—The guide sent back—The Balonne. IV. The leader goes forward with a division of the party—An aboriginal family—The division of the waters—A tribe expostulates—A depot camp formed—The Salvator. V. The leader turns back—Result of the journey—Remarkable meteor—The Belyando—A splendid region—The Victoria—The entire party proceed homewards. VI. Railways—Steam communication—The public resources—A new Speaker—Contest between the Council and the Executive—Gipps returns home. VII. Sir Charles Fitz-Roy governor—The Governor meets the Council—The transportation question—Mr. Gladstone's despatch—The Council favours transportation. VIII. Agitation out of doors—Monopoly of coal—A census—Scarcity of labour—The Council deprecates transportation. IX. New squating regulations; settled, intermediate, and unsettled districts—Proposed separation of Port Phillip—Proposed changes in the constitution—Death of Lady Mary Fitz-Roy—Leichhardt sets out for Swan River—Statistics.

CHAPTER IV.

Changes proposed in the Constitution in contemplation of Port Phillip becoming a separate colony—Edward Kennedy sets out to explore the York Peninsula—The Transportation question violently agitated—Arrival of a convict ship—Great demonstration at the Circular Quay—The Governor becomes unpopular—Proposal to found a University—The Railway commenced—The Australasian League—The New Constitution (1850)—Port Phillip separated . . . . . 175–246

1848–1850.

CONTENTS.

vii

ments. XII. Great anti-transportation meeting in the Barrack Square—The agitation in Van Diemen's Land—An address to all the colonies—Employers of labour petition against transportation—Port Phillip separated—The alpacas—The blacks hostile.

CHAPTER V.

Anti-transportation Delegates assemble at Melbourne—Addresses to the Colonists and to the People of the United Kingdom—Remonstrance against the Constitution of 1850—Discovery of gold in the Western District—Results of that event—The Anti-transportation League petition for the dismissal of Earl Grey—Fitz-Roy Governor-general of all the Australian Colonies—Transportation finally discontinued to New South Wales—The Constitution of 1853—Gundagai destroyed by a flood—The question of the proposed Constitution agitated in the colony—The New Constitution passed, 1853—Authority to establish a Mint at Sydney . . . . . . . . 247–344

1851—1853.

Anti transportation delegates issue an address—Western Australia favours transportation—The Australasian League—An address to the inhabitants of the United Kingdom. II. The delegates visit Sydney—Remonstrance against the new Constitution—Discovery of gold—Influences of that event. III. Earl Grey on Transportation—Another meeting—A petition to the Queen—The new Council—Measures of the government relative to the gold fields. IV. The transportation question and the gold fields—Resolutions of the Council—The Order in Council revoked—A Mint proposed—The grievances—Defences of Sydney—The gold revenue. V. Cowper visits Van Diemen's Land—An abundant harvest—Steam communication established—Earl Grey's reply to the remonstrance—Plenary powers of Legislation. VI. The answer of the Council—The Customs revenue—Colonial appointments—The Constitution of 1853—Report of the Committee on the Constitution. VII. Stopping the supplies—Postal improvement—An expedition in search of Leichhardt. VIII. Gundagai destroyed by a flood—The authorities blamed—The Newtown trial—The University established—Export of gold—The first mail steamer—New gold fields regulations—Their unpopularity. IX. Local land offices—Despatch from Sir John Pakington—The veto of the Crown—Despatch from the Duke of Newcastle—Satisfaction of the colonists—A committee appointed finally to prepare a Constitution—They bring up their report. X. Their recommendation create dissatisfaction out of doors—Nomineeism denounced—A public meeting—The bill read a second time—Aggregate meeting at the Circular Quay—The Constitution Committee—Their form of Constitution. XI. Wentworth abandons the scheme of nomination for life—The bill read a third time—Declaratory resolution—Proposed separation of Moreton Bay.
CONTENTS.

CHAPTER VI.

The Constitution Bill sent home—Apprehension excited in the Colony by the Russian war—The last of Irresponsible Government—The Imperial Parliament petitioned against the Constitution Bill—Fitz-Roy retires, and is succeeded by Sir William Denison—Defences of Sydney Harbour—The Constitution Bill finally passed—Inauguration of Responsible Government—(1856)—A ministry formed by Donaldson—The Cowper administration succeeds—The Parker government—Cowper a second time Premier, forms the first strong ministry—Parliament dissolved . . . . . . 335—419

1854—1857.

CHAPTER VII.

The Elections—Dismissal of Mr. Plunkett from the Chairmanship of the Board of National Education—Observations on that proceeding—The new Parliament—A new Electoral Act—Gold at Port Curtis—The Alpaca introduced—Parliament again dis-
CONTENTS.

IX  solved—Separation of Moreton Bay—Ministerial appointments
—The Education Bill—The Foster ministry—Robertson forms a Cabinet—Destructive floods—Gold at the Rocky River.
1858—1860.
I. The Sydney election—The “Bunch” party defeated—Dismissal of Mr. Plunkett—The Board of National Education—Non-vested
Schools—Correspondence between the Board and the Chief Secretary—Mr. Plunkett resigns all his government offices. II.
Plunkett’s standing and influence—Comments—Public meetings
—The new Parliament meets—Ministerial changes. III.
Collision between the Governor-general and the Assembly—The Artillery corps—A vote of confidence—The new Electoral Bill
—The bill opposed as being democratic—Chinese Immigration.
IV. Martin resigns the Attorney-generalship—Gold discovered at Port Curtis—Exodus thither—The gold field a failure—The alpaca introduced by Mr. Ledger—State support to religion partially abolished—Frauds in the Customs. V. Parliament dissolved—The elections—The Catholic party make a vigorous effort—The new Electoral Act works well—Tea and sugar duties—The Assembly recommends their immediate repeal—
The Ministry resign in consequence, but return to office—A new Ministerial department. VI. Separation of Moreton Bay—The security for the public debt—Ministerial and legal appointments assailed—The Privy Council system of Education—The Ministry defeated on the Education question—Foster forms a Cabinet—Cowper retires from public life. VII. Singular ministerial negotiations—An Upper House Reform Bill—Black’s Land Bill—The Upper House Bill rejected—The Ministry cling to office—A vote of want of confidence. VII. The Robertson ministry—Cowper again Chief Secretary—Condition of the working classes—Riot at the Parliament Houses—The Indemnity Bill—Collision between the Assembly and Council. IX. Navigation of the Darling—Telegraphic communication with England
—Floods throughout the colony—Great loss of life and property —Measures of relief—Gold discovered at the Snowy River. X.
Remarks on the working of responsible government—New South Wales as a field for Immigration—The demand for labour
—The Land question. XI. Australia as an agricultural country —Its geographical position—Quantity and distribution of the rainfall in Australia—The soil of New South Wales—Agriculture extensively practised—Agriculture as a science heretofore neglected—The conclusion.
CONTENTS.

APPENDICES.

A. Paper on the Rivers of Australia . . . . . 477

B. Documents relative to the removal of Mr. Plunkett from the Board of National Education . . . . 486

C. Correspondence relative to the Alpacas . . . . 502

D. Tabular Statement of the Revenue of New South Wales . 509

E. Rates of wages, prices current, and receipt of Gold at Sydney . . . . . . 513

F. Report from the Deputy Master of the Mint and Professor Smith relative to the Southern gold fields . . . 517

G. Statistics of Agriculture, Vineyards, and Live Stock in the colony; the Land Act . . . . . 535