

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-06617-4 - The Landscape Gardening and Landscape Architecture
of the Late Humphry Repton, Esq.: Being His Entire Works on these Subjects

Edited by J. C. Loudon

Table of Contents

More information

THE CONTENTS, AS PRINTED.

 BIOGRAPHICAL NOTICE of the late HUMPHRY REPTON, Esq. . . . page 1

SKETCHES AND HINTS

ON

LANDSCAPE GARDENING.

	PAGE
Advertisement, explaining the Nature of this Work	25
Catalogue of Red Books mentioned in this Volume	27
INTRODUCTION. Some General Remarks on Landscape Gardening— the Requisites necessary to the Art—Remarks on the Genius of the late Mr. Brown	29
CHAP. I. The Characters and Situations of several different Places described—their Influence on Improvement—how they may some- times be totally changed	39
CHAP. II. Concerning Buildings—some Observations on Gothic and Grecian Architecture	52
CHAP. III. Concerning the Situation for a House—Various Con- siderations to influence its Choice—Prospect of little Consequence, when Avenues prevailed—Digression concerning Avenues—Situa- tion with respect to the Shape of the Ground on which a House may be built	61
CHAP. IV. Concerning Water—some different Places referred to— general Theory of Perspective; explains the facility of disguising different Levels—Deceptions justified	70
CHAP. V. Concerning Park Scenery—how it differs from Forest Scenery—the use of Cattle as a Scale—How to vary the sameness of Green in natural Landscape	78
CHAP. VI. Comparison of modern, or Landscape Gardening, and the ancient or geometric Style—some Remarks on Symmetry—Regu- larity—Uniformity—Correspondence—and Unity	84
CHAP. VII. Concerning Approaches—Answer to Mr. Knight's Mis- quotation of Tatton MS.—the Affinity betwixt Painting and Gardening examined—Congruity recommended as the true Founda- tion of good taste	90
APPENDIX. Answer to Mr. Price's Book—Correspondence on the Subject of the new Theory of Picture Gardening	104

d

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-06617-4 - The Landscape Gardening and Landscape Architecture
of the Late Humphry Repton, Esq.: Being His Entire Works on these Subjects

Edited by J. C. Loudon

Table of Contents

More information

xxvi

CONTENTS, AS PRINTED.

OBSERVATIONS ON THE THEORY AND PRACTICE
OF LANDSCAPE GARDENING.

	PAGE
ADVERTISEMENT, explaining the nature of this Work	119
Preface, containing some Observations on Taste	122
List of the Places referred to as Examples	130
CHAP. I. Introduction—General Principles—Utility—Scale—Various Examples of Comparative Proportion—Use of Perspective—Example from THE FORT—Ground—Several Examples of removing Earth—The great Hill at WENTWORTH	132
CHAP. II. Optics, or Vision—At what Distance Objects appear largest—Axis of Vision—Quantity or Field of Vision—Ground apparently altered by the Situation of the Spectator—Reflections from the Surface of Water explained and applied—Different Effects of Light on different Objects—Example	145
CHAP. III. Water—it may be too naked or too much clothed—Example from WEST WYCOMBE—Digression concerning the Approach—Motion of Water—Example at ADLESTROP—Art must deceive to imitate Nature—Cascade at THORESBY—The Rivulet—Water at WENTWORTH described—A River easier to imitate than a Lake—A bubbling Spring may be imitated—A Ferry-boat at HOLKHAM—A rocky Channel at HAREWOOD	156
CHAP. IV. Of PLANTING for immediate and for future Effect—Clumps—Groups—Masses—New Mode of planting Wastes and Commons—the browsing Line described—Example, MILTON ABBEY—Combination of Masses to produce great Woods—Example, COOMBE LODGE—Character and Shape of Ground to be studied—Outline of New Plantations	169
CHAP. V. Woods—Whateley's Remarks exemplified at SHARDELOES—Intricacy—Variety—A Drive at BULSTRODE traced, with Reasons for its Course—Further example from HEATHFIELD PARK—A Belt—On thinning Woods—Leaving Groups—Opening a Lawn in great Woods—Example, CASHIOBURY	182
CHAP. VI. Of Fences—The Boundary—The Separation—Example from SHEFFIELD PLACE—Fence to Plantations only temporary—The double Gate—LINES of Fences—of Roads—of Walks—of Rivers—all different	198

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-06617-4 - The Landscape Gardening and Landscape Architecture
of the Late Humphry Repton, Esq.: Being His Entire Works on these Subjects

Edited by J. C. Loudon

Table of Contents

More information

CONTENTS, AS PRINTED.

xxvii

	PAGE
CHAP. VII. Ferme ornée , a Contradiction—Farm and Park distinct Objects—Experimental, or useful Farm—Beauty and Profit sel- dom compatible	207
CHAP. VIII. Of Pleasure-Grounds—Flower-Gardens—Example, BULSTRODE—VALLEY FIELD—NUNEHAM—Greenhouse and Con- servatory belong to a Flower-Garden—Various Modes of attaching them to a House—Difficulty—Objection—Attempt to make them Gothic	213
CHAP. IX. Defence of the Art—Difference between Landscape Gardening and Painting—Further Answer to Messrs. PRICE and KNIGHT—Cursory Remarks on Views from Rooms, Appro- priation, Extent, &c.—Example from ATTINGHAM—Pictures may imitate Nature, but Nature is not to copy Pictures	220
CHAP. X. Of ancient and modern Gardening—Authors—Change of Style—WIMPOLE—Terraces—at the HASELLS—at COBHAM—Art and Nature considered—Example, BURLEY-ON-THE-HILL	231
CHAP. XI. Miscellaneous—Endless Variety of Situation and Char- acter—First Impressions—Roads—Example, STOKE PARK— Scenery in Wales—Example, RÛG—Ornaments—Entrances— HAREWOOD—BLAIZE CASTLE—Adaptation of ornamental Build- ings—Ornaments—Decorations—Colours—Metals	242
CHAP. XII. Architecture and Gardening inseparable—Some Inquiry into the Forms and Arrangements of different Eras—Situation and Arrangement of MICHEL GROVE—Singular Character of the House—Change in Customs and Manners alters Uses of Rooms —An extended Plan—Example, GARNONS—A contracted Plan— Example, BRENTY HILL, &c.	266
CHAP. XIII. Ancient Mansions—Danger of modernizing—Three Characters of Gothic Architecture—for Castles, Churches, and Houses—CORSHAM HOUSE—Mixing Characters, how far allow- able—PORT ELIOT—Remarks on Grecian and Gothic Archi- tecture, extracted from the Red Book in the Library of MAGDALEN COLLEGE, Oxford—Example of Additions to the Gothic Mansion of ASHTON COURT	285
CHAP. XIV. Application of Gardening and Architecture united, in the Formation of a new Place—Example, from BAYHAM—River —Lake—The House—Character—Observations on Grecian Houses—Characteristic Architecture—External Gothic not in- compatible with Comfort—How far it should prevail internally	300
CHAP. XV. Conclusion—Concerning Colour—New Theory of Colours and Shadows, by Dr. Milner—Application of the same —Harmony—Discord—Contrast—Difficulty of Comparisons be- tween Art and Nature	312

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-06617-4 - The Landscape Gardening and Landscape Architecture
of the Late Humphry Repton, Esq.: Being His Entire Works on these Subjects

Edited by J. C. Loudon

Table of Contents

More information

xxviii

CONTENTS, AS PRINTED.

AN INQUIRY INTO THE CHANGES OF TASTE
IN LANDSCAPE GARDENING.

PART I.—HISTORICAL NOTICES.		PAGE
Fashion		325
Changes in Gardening		326
Different Styles		327
Park and Garden Scenery		329
Changes in Planting		332
Appendages to a Palace		337
Conclusion		340
PART II.—SCIENTIFIC DISCUSSIONS.
Situations and Characters		341
Water		347
Park Entrances		350
PART III.—LITERARY AND MISCELLANEOUS REMARKS.
Mr. KNIGHT'S "INQUIRY"		353
Difference between Painting and Gardening		355

DESIGNS FOR THE PAVILLON AT BRIGHTON.

	PAGE
Prefatory Observations	361
Of the Situation, Character, and Circumstances	375
General Outline of the Plan	376
Remarks on the General Plan	376
Shape of Ground	378
Artificial Character	380
The Garden Entrances	381
INQUIRY INTO THE CHANGES IN ARCHITECTURE.
The Gothic Style	384
The Grecian Style	385
The Modern Style	386
Of Grecian Construction	387
Of Gothic Construction	389
Of Indian Construction	390
Application of Indian Architecture	391
Interior	393
Dining Room	395
Of Ornaments, &c,	396
Corridor	400

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-06617-4 - The Landscape Gardening and Landscape Architecture
of the Late Humphry Repton, Esq.: Being His Entire Works on these Subjects

Edited by J. C. Loudon

Table of Contents

More information

CONTENTS, AS PRINTED.

xxix

FRAGMENTS ON THE THEORY AND PRACTICE
OF LANDSCAPE GARDENING.

FRAGMENT	PAGE
I. Rural Architecture	411
Exemplified in Gothic and Grecian—adapted to Scenery.
II. Symmetry	414
Exemplified in Central Entrance into Houses.
III. Fences near the House	415
Exemplified in Terraces—Ballustrades—Gothic Parapets.
IV. Cobham Hall	418
Exemplified in Garden surrounding the House—Park seen over it.
V. Dates of Buildings	421
Exemplified in Gothic Cottage and Garden near Woburn— Details in Gothic should be attended to.
VI. Castles	426
Exemplified in Irregularity of Outline—A Castle proposed.
VII. Unity of Character	428
Exemplified in Harlestone Park, Northamptonshire—Remarkable effect of Wind.
VIII. Blenden Hall	430
Exemplified in general treatment of a Villa—Effect of removing tall Trees—A Garden more profitable than a Farm.
IX. Windows	435
Exemplified in Barningham Hall—Elizabethan Window.
X. Gothic Outline	440
Exemplified in a place near Ludlow—abstracted from a Report, under the heads of Character, House, and Ground about the House—all executed, but not by name.
XI. Beaudesert	445
Extracted from the Report, under heads of Character and Situ- ation—Trees—Water—The Interior—Old Garden restored.
XII. Of Colours	452
Experiments with a Prism—Neutral Tints—Practical Remarks on Colouring Landscape.
XIII. Of Interiors	455
Example of Conservatories—Mirrors—Houses in Town or Country—Effects of Light in Rooms—Contrast of the Ancient Cedar Parlour and Modern Living Room.
XIV. Wingerworth	461
Extract, under heads of Character and Situation—View from the House—The Water—Approaches, &c.
XV. Planting single Trees	466
Exemplifying effect of different Trees in the foreground.

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-06617-4 - The Landscape Gardening and Landscape Architecture
of the Late Humphry Repton, Esq.: Being His Entire Works on these Subjects

Edited by J. C. Loudon

Table of Contents

More information

XXX		CONTENTS, AS PRINTED.
FRAGMENT			PAGE
XVI.	Of Villas		468
	Extract from a Report of Streatham—Earl Coventry's recom- mending a Garden rather than a Farm		470
	Extract from a Report of a Villa near a Common		473
	Extract from a Villa in Epping Forest		475
	Extract from Ealing Park—of breaking Brown's Belts		477
	Exemplified in Richmond Park—Garden to Lord Sidmouth's House		481
XVII.	Garden in Portugal		482
	Exemplifying the manner of altering the Surface, with its me- chanical process.
XVIII.	Uppark		488
	Extract from the Report concerning the Entrance, &c.
XIX.	Of Combinations		491
	Exemplified in Buildings of different Characters—Parish Church —Cemeteries, &c.
XX.	Contrasts		493
	Exemplified in Style of Growth—Opacity and Transparency —Repose of Colour—Texture—Size—Cloud and Sunshine.
XXI.	Frome House		496
	Exemplified in Manor House—Characteristic Situation.
XXII.	Aspects and Prospects		500
	Exemplified in Walwood House in Essex.
XXIII.	Variety		505
	Example of much done to little purpose.
XXIV.	Longleate		507
	Extract—Character and Situation—The Water sunk—The House raised—The Park not locked up.
XXV.	A Plan explained		513
	Example of Magnificent Interior—Vinery, &c.
XXVI.	A Villa near the Capital		519
	Example of Geometric Garden compared with the Modern Style—Le Nôtre and Brown.
XXVII.	Gardens of Ashridge		525
	Adapted to the Style of Architecture—Fifteen different kinds of Garden—Water Fences miscalled Invisible.
XXVIII.	Woburn Abbey		536
	Extract from the Report—Character and Situation—Shape of Ground—View from the House—The Water—Bridges and Viaducts—Origin of Grecian and Gothic—Principles of Pres- sure—Approaches—Pleasure-ground—Evergreen Drive— Gardens—The Park—Belts and modes of planting.
XXIX.	Luxuries of a Garden		557
	Adapted to age and infirmity—Strawberry and other raised beds—Care in gathering Fruit, &c.
XXX.	Lodges and Cottages		562
	And some Remarks on Gates and Gateways.
XXXI.	Water Fences		565
	Example from Sir Thomas Neave's—Reflections in Water.
XXXII.	Improvements		567
	Exemplified in new enclosed Land—Value preferred to Beauty —Effects of Modern Riches.

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-06617-4 - The Landscape Gardening and Landscape Architecture
of the Late Humphry Repton, Esq.: Being His Entire Works on these Subjects

Edited by J. C. Loudon

Table of Contents

More information

CONTENTS, AS PRINTED.		xxxii
FRAGMENT		PAGE
XXXIII. Sherringham Bower		570
	Situation—The Sea—The Woods—Plantation—Site of the House—Various Considerations—The Village—Walks, Drives, and Stations—Interior.
XXXIV. Endsleigh		586
	Exemplified in Cottage on the Tamar—The River—The Bridge—Of the Picturesque—The Weir—The Style of Building—Pleasure Ground—Terrace Garden—Children's Cottage.
XXXV. House of Industry		597
	Extract of a Plan proposed—Comforts for the Poor—Economy the leading object—Example of a Gothic School-house.
XXXVI. Harestreet		601
	Example from the Author's Home—View of Mankind—Effect of Landscape Gardening in soothing the Mind, confirmed by the testimony of the good and wise.	