

Qualitative Studies of Silence

Qualitative Studies of Silence brings together influential qualitative researchers from across the social sciences and humanities who have sought to understand the power of what remains unsaid, both psychologically and socially. Each chapter identifies one or more signs of silence and explains how these can form the basis of a rigorous qualitative investigation. The authors also demonstrate how silences operate in our private and collective lives by fulfilling psychological, relational, institutional, and ideological functions. The book contains multiple disciplinary perspectives and presents analyses of wide-ranging topics, such as medical consultations, whistleblowers, silence in court, omission-as-propaganda, trauma survivors, the silence of war museums, racism in the Americas, gendered silences, paid domestic labour, the undocumented student movement, and the Nazi past. This collection shows how such qualitative studies can reveal and contribute to understanding the unsaid as social action.

Amy Jo Murray is a researcher based in the psychology department at the University of KwaZulu-Natal, South Africa. She is exploring creative ways of understanding social justice and inequality through qualitative research.

Kevin Durrheim is Professor of Psychology at the University of KwaZulu-Natal, South Africa, where he runs a research lab and teaches social psychology and research methods.

Qualitative Studies of Silence

The Unsaid as Social Action

---

Edited by

Amy Jo Murray

University of KwaZulu-Natal, South Africa

Kevin Durrheim

University of KwaZulu-Natal, South Africa

CAMBRIDGE
UNIVERSITY PRESS

Cambridge University Press
978-1-108-42137-9 — Qualitative Studies of Silence
Edited by Amy Jo Murray, Kevin Durrheim
Frontmatter
More Information

CAMBRIDGE
UNIVERSITY PRESS

University Printing House, Cambridge CB2 8BS, United Kingdom
One Liberty Plaza, 20th Floor, New York, NY 10006, USA
477 Williamstown Road, Port Melbourne, VIC 3207, Australia
314–321, 3rd Floor, Plot 3, Splendor Forum, Jasola District Centre,
New Delhi – 110025, India
79 Anson Road, #06-04/06, Singapore 079906

Cambridge University Press is part of the University of Cambridge.

It furthers the University's mission by disseminating knowledge in the pursuit of education, learning, and research at the highest international levels of excellence.

www.cambridge.org
Information on this title: www.cambridge.org/9781108421379
DOI: 10.1017/9781108345552

© Cambridge University Press 2019

This publication is in copyright. Subject to statutory exception and to the provisions of relevant collective licensing agreements, no reproduction of any part may take place without the written permission of Cambridge University Press.

First published 2019

Printed in the United Kingdom by TJ International Ltd. Padstow Cornwall

A catalogue record for this publication is available from the British Library.

ISBN 978-1-108-42137-9 Hardback

Cambridge University Press has no responsibility for the persistence or accuracy of URLs for external or third-party internet websites referred to in this publication and does not guarantee that any content on such websites is, or will remain, accurate or appropriate.

For all children, who should be seen and heard

Contents

---

List of Figures	page ix
List of Contributors	x
Acknowledgments	xiv
Introduction: A Turn to Silence AMY JO MURRAY AND KEVIN DURRHEIM	1
1 Literal and Metaphorical Silences in Rhetoric: Examples from the Celebration of the 1974 Revolution in the Portuguese Parliament MICHAEL BILLIG AND CRISTINA MARINHO	21
2 Seeing Silenced Agendas in Medical Interaction: A Conversation Analytic Case Study MERRAN TOERIEN AND CLARE JACKSON	38
3 Listening to the Sound of Silence: Methodological Reflections on Studying the Unsaid EVIATAR ZERUBAVEL	59
4 Social Silences: Conducting Ethnographic Research on Racism in the Americas CHRISTINA A. SUE AND MARY ROBERTSON	71
5 Intimate Silences and Inequality: Noticing the Unsaid through Triangulation AMY JO MURRAY AND NICOLE LAMBERT	89
6 Silence in the Court: Moral Exclusion at the Intersection of Disability, Race, Sexuality, and Methodology SUSAN OPOTOW, EMESE ILYES, AND MICHELLE FINE	107
7 Silencing Self and Other through Autobiographical Narratives ROBYN FIVUSH AND MONISHA PASUPATHI	126
	vii

viii	Contents
8	Gendering the Unsaid and the Unsayable GREGORY COLES AND CHERYL GLENN	147
9	The Language Ideology of Silence and Silencing in Public Discourse: Claims to Silencing as Metadiscursive Moves in German Anti-Political Correctness Discourse MELANI SCHRÖTER	165
10	Propaganda by Omission: The Case of Topical Silence TOM HUCKIN	186
11	Silencing Whistleblowers C. FRED ALFORD	206
12	Between Sound and Silence: The Inaudible and the Unsayable in the History of the First World War JAY WINTER	223
13	Affect and the Unsaid: Silences, Impasses, and Testimonies to Trauma MICHAEL RICHARDSON AND KYLA ALLISON	236
14	The Unsaid and the Unheard: Acknowledgement, Accountability, and Recognition in the Face of Silence STEPHEN FROSH	254
15	Conclusion: Topographies of the Said and Unsaid KEVIN DURRHEIM AND AMY JO MURRAY	270
	Index	293

Figures

---

12.1 Fosse, or dugout, representing trenches in the First World War.	page 226
12.2 The end of the war: A seismograph of the cessation of artillery fire on 11 November 1918.	232
15.1 Topographical map of the said and unsaid.	275
15.2a Trail system on a university campus.	283
15.2b Stigmertic simulation of a trail system.	284

Contributors

---

C. FRED ALFORD is Professor Emeritus at the University of Maryland, College Park. He is the author of more than fifteen books on moral psychology, including Whistleblowers: Broken Lives and Organizational Power and Trauma, Culture, and PTSD.

KYLA ALLISON is a PhD candidate in the School of the Arts and Media at the University of New South Wales. Her research interests include affect and gender theory, with a particular focus on sexual abuse in politics, media, literature, and culture.

MICHAEL BILLIG retired in 2017. He previously worked at Loughborough University in the Department of Social Sciences. He has published books on a variety of subjects, including fascism, nationalism, psychoanalysis, and the overuse of technical language. His latest book, written with Cristina Marinho, is The Politics and Rhetoric of Commemoration.

GREGORY COLES is a PhD graduate in English at the Pennsylvania State University, where he teaches rhetoric, composition, and civic engagement. His rhetorical scholarship has been published in College English and Rhetorica.

KEVIN DURRHEIM is Professor of Psychology at the University of KwaZulu-Natal, where he teaches social psychology and research methods and runs a research lab. He writes on topics related to racism, segregation, and social change.

MICHELLE FINE is Distinguished Professor of Critical Psychology, Women's Studies, American Studies and Urban Education at the Graduate Center, City University of New York. Fine is a university teacher, educational activist, and researcher who works on social justice projects with youth, women and men in prison, educators, and members of social movements on the ground.

ROBYN FIVUSH is the Samuel Candler Dobbs Professor of Psychology at Emory University. She is a fellow of both the American Psychological Association and the Association for Psychological Science. Her research focuses on the social construction of autobiographical memory and the relations among memory, narrative, identity, trauma, and coping.

STEPHEN FROSH is Professor in the Department of Psychosocial Studies at Birkbeck, University of London. He is the author of many books and papers on psychosocial studies and on psychoanalysis. He is a fellow of the Academy of Social Sciences, an academic associate of the British Psychoanalytical Society, a founding member of the Association of Psychosocial Studies, and an honorary member of the Institute of Group Analysis.

CHERYL GLENN is Distinguished Professor of English at The Pennsylvania State University, where she is Director of the Program in Writing and Rhetoric. Her publications include Rhetoric Retold: Regendering the Tradition from Antiquity through the Renaissance; Unspoken: A Rhetoric of Silence; Silence and Listening as Rhetorical Arts; Rhetoric and Writing Studies in the New Century: Historiography, Pedagogy, and Politics; and Rhetorical Feminism and This Thing Called Hope.

TOM HUCKIN is Professor Emeritus of Writing and Rhetoric Studies at the University of Utah, Salt Lake City. He specializes in critical discourse analysis and the study of contemporary propaganda.

EMESE ILYES is a researcher, educator, and PhD candidate at The Graduate Center, City University of New York. Her research is focused on tracing the process of moral exclusion. She is committed to lifting and envisioning radical possibilities where the incarceration of people with intellectual disabilities is replaced by justice.

CLARE JACKSON is Senior Lecturer in the Department of Sociology at the University of York, UK. She uses conversation analysis to study interaction in both ordinary and workplace settings, including family telephone calls, maternity units, and neurology clinics. She is particularly interested in applying conversation analysis to examine interactional practices of joint decision making.

NICOLE LAMBERT is Assistant Professor of Sociology at MassBay Community College. She earned her PhD in sociology at the University of Colorado, Boulder. Her current research project takes an intersectional approach to understanding the experiences of undocumented 1.5-generation Latinx immigrants in the United States.

xii List of Contributors

CRISTINA MARINHO is Teaching Fellow at The University of Edinburgh in the School of Philosophy, Psychology and Language Sciences. With Professor Michael Billig, she has investigated political discourse at the Parliamentary Commemoration of April Revolution. This collaborative work resulted in the book The Politics and Rhetoric of Commemoration.

AMY JO MURRAY is a researcher based at the University of KwaZulu-Natal. She is exploring creative ways of understanding social justice and inequality through qualitative research. She is studying how the unsaid naturalizes and maintains the status quo within racialized relationships, specifically within the context of paid domestic labor.

SUSAN OPOTOW is Professor of Sociology (John Jay College of Criminal Justice) and Psychology (Graduate Center) of the City University of New York and publishes on the psychology of justice, conflict, exclusion, and inclusion.

MONISHA PASUPATHI is Professor of Psychology and Associate Dean of the Honors College at the University of Utah. She studies the way that storytelling shapes memory, self and self-regulation, and social development across the lifespan, with a particular emphasis on adolescence and early adulthood.

MICHAEL RICHARDSON is ARC DECRA Research Fellow and Senior Lecturer in the School of the Arts and Media at the University of New South Wales. He researches the intersection of affect and power in media, literature, politics, and culture and is the author of Gestures of Testimony: Torture, Trauma and Affect in Literature (2016).

MARY ROBERTSON is Assistant Professor of Sociology at California State University, San Marcos. She is the author of Growing Up Queer: Kids and the Remaking of LGBTQ Identity (2019). Her areas of teaching and research expertise include the sociology of sexualities, sex and gender, feminist and queer theory, and qualitative methods.

MELANI SCHRÖTER is Associate Professor in German Linguistics at the University of Reading, UK, author of Silence and Concealment in Political Discourse (2013) and co-editor of Exploring Silence and Absence in Discourse (2018). Research interests include political discourse, silence and absence in discourse, comparative discourse analysis, discourses of resistance.

CHRISTINA A. SUE is Associate Professor of Sociology at the University of Colorado, Boulder. Her research interests are in the areas of race and ethnicity (particularly ideology, identities, and multiracialism) and immigration, with a regional focus on the United States and Latin America, as well as in qualitative methodology.

MERRAN TOERIEN is Senior Lecturer in the Department of Sociology at the University of York, UK. She primarily uses conversation analysis to study interaction in workplace settings, including beauty salons, Jobcentres, recruitment to medical trials, and neurology clinics. She is particularly interested in joint decision making in institutional and ordinary conversations.

JAY WINTER is the Charles J. Stille Professor of History Emeritus at Yale University. He is the author of Sites of Memory, Sites of Mourning: The Great War in European Cultural History (1995). He holds honorary doctorates from the University of Graz, the Katholik University of Leuven, and the University of Paris.

EVIATAR ZERUBAVEL is Board of Governors Distinguished Professor of Sociology at Rutgers University. He is the author of twelve books, including The Fine Line, Social Mindscapes, The Clockwork Muse, The Elephant in the Room, Hidden in Plain Sight, and Taken for Granted.

Acknowledgments

---

We are very grateful to all of the contributors for participating in this project and from whom we have learned so much about the field of silence and about what it is to embody scholarly integrity. We would like to thank the following people for their generous academic spirit by helping in the conceptual crystallization of the book: Martha Augoustinos, Annette Becker, Michael Billig, Brita Bjørkelo, Diane N. Bryen, Ronald Cohen, Robert T. Craig, Jennifer L. Croissant, Heidi Kevoe Feldman, Scott Frickel, Stephen Frosh, Susan Gal, Olga Gonzalez, Debra Gray, Azriel Grysman, Rosalind Gill, Phil Hammack, Derek Hook, Klaus Humpert, Alistair Nixon, Jane Parpart, Brian Rappert, John Richardson, Juliet Rogers, Todd Schoepflin, Robin Sheriff, Paul Stenner, Cristian Tileaga, Patricia Von Munchow, Margaret Wetherell, Kevin Whitehead, and Deidre Wicks. We are appreciative of Cambridge University Press for giving us the opportunity to publish the collection, especially to Janka Romero and Emily Watton for their support and patience. The support of the DST-NRF Centre of Excellence in Human Development toward this research/activity is hereby acknowledged. Opinions expressed and conclusions arrived at, are those of the author and are not necessarily to be attributed to the Centre of Excellence in Human Development.

Finally, we would like to thank our parents, friends, and colleagues for their support, but especially our families: Adrian Murray (along with Michaela Faith, Gabriella Lee, Genevieve Reese, Jesse Lewis, and Ezekiel Elliot Murray) and Aleks Durrheim (along with Ružica Jovanovic and Shea Blue Durrheim). To leave you unacknowledged would truly be a case of significant absence!