

Index

- advertising on television, 68
 Albanian broadcasting, 82, 87
 Americanization, 3, 38
 analogue broadcasting, 319 anti-corruption dramas, 311 anti-Nazi resistance, 265 archival analysis, 48, 51
 Argentinian broadcasting, 122
 Arnason, Johann, 83
 Asianness, 101
 audiences
 de-domestication of television viewing, 319–320
 domestic vs. foreign programming, 182 habit/reception of, 25
 maximizing through viewing, 213 participation in programmes, 140
 public sphere vs. public mission, 126–134, 132*f*, 133*f* socialist television cultures, 74–81, 75*f*, 79*f*
 viewership figures, 273, 275–276
 audio-visual heritage, 46
 Australian broadcasting, 122
 Austrian broadcasting, 64 authoritarianism, 93 autonomy, 99–100

 backwardness in historical continuity, 255
 Baierl, Helmut, 273
 Baird, John Logie, 60
 BBC Television, 60, 120, 121, 220
 Belgium, ethnic minority populations, 114

 Berlin TV tower, 103, 104*f*
 Berlin Wall, 124, 191, 262, 286–288, 293 bilateral agreements, 179
 block-scheduling, 215–218
 blue-collar workers, 79
Bonfires of Kapela (Kapelski kresovi), 237, 239, 240, 251, 267
 Bourdon, Jérôme, 34, 120
bourgeois liberalism, 98
bourgeois public sphere, 135
 Brants, Kees, 121
 Bren, Paulina, 158, 170
 Brezhnev, Leonid, 129, 238, 262, 278–284, 281*f*
Broadcast News, 210
 broadcasting infrastructure, 59–66
 Brucan, Silviu, 61
 Bulgarian broadcasting, 63, 82
 Buonanno, Milly, 318

 capitalism
 alienation by, 35
 imports, 185–191, 186*t*, 189*f*, 190*f* modernity and, 92
 postmodernity of, 40
 causality in mass communication, 55
 Ceaușescu, Nicolae, 123, 184, 219, 238, 289, 293
 censorship, 67, 142
 Chadwick, Andrew, 319
 children's programmes, 221
 Chinese model of modernity, 102
 Chinese television, 310–312

- Christmas celebration, 264, 265, 270–271 civilizational differences, 7 classless mass culture, 80
 Cold War
 international alliances, 177 media introduction, 1, 2, 3, 4, 9 politics of, 93, 119–120 post-Cold War Finland, 110 television during, 53, 61, 62, 191–192, 242 transnationalism during, 179 US public broadcasting, 112 collapse of memory in contemporary societies, 233 collective viewing in public settings, 149–150, 151 colour broadcasting standard, 109 communication technologies, 31, 113 communist broadcasting. See also socialist television cultures; television challenging legitimacy of, 32 duality of communist ideology, 14 fall of, 73
 global comparisons, 309 impact on television series, 171 mass communication and, 93
 non-democratic media, 312–314 propaganda apparatus, 8
 public broadcasting service, 119–126, 123*f* public life under, 118
 revolutionary goals, 58 role of, 90
 scrutiny by, 32
 struggle over, 96
 television revolution, 296–300 transnational goals, 177
 typologies and dimensions, 314–317 vision of modernity, 207 communist elites, 58
 communist media holidays, 265–269, 266*f*, 268*f* communist revolution and television, 235–243, 241*f* community impact of private television, 163–169, 166*f*, 168*f* Comparing Media Systems (Hallin, Mancini), 5, 6 core-periphery position, 65–66, 83–84, 109, 111, 112, 245–246, 295, 313
 Corner, John, 35
 Creeber, Glen, 243
 cross-border television, 38, 53, 178. See also transnational television cross-country similarities/differences, 66–69
 cross-cultural communication, 27–28
 Cuban television, 312
 cultural elites, 48
 cultural imperialism, 38 cultural-pedagogic logic, 121 current affairs programming, 77
 Czech Republic broadcasting, 308–309
 Czechoslovak broadcasting
 party-state control, 83
 serial fiction, 158
 Soviet invasion of, 70, 71, 125–126
 television broadcasts in, 63, 64, 67–68, 82
 transnational orientation, 85–86
Dallas, 25, 191, 197
Day After Day (Den' za dnem), 80, 154, 164
 Day of the Republic in East Germany, 264, 275 Dayan, Daniel, 41–42, 43 daytime programming, 221–222
 De Albuquerque, Afonso, 83
 De Bens, Els, 121
 de-domestication of television viewing, 319–320
 de-Westernization, 7 determined technology, 13
 didacticism in television shows, 165 differentiation, 99–100, 105, 108
 digital cultures, 317–321
 digital natives, 319
 dimension of state socialist media culture, 314–317 dissidents, 137
 diversity
 ethno-cultural diversity, 7, 90
 linguistic diversity, 64
 mass communication, 2
 media culture, 96–97, 101
The Division of Labour in Society (Durkheim), 95 domestic aesthetic of television, 35, 159 domestically-produced drama serials, 80 domestication of television, 34–36, 48, 146, 148–157, 155*f* Drawing Fire (Vyzyvaem ogon' na sebia), 238, 239–240, 251, 252, 253, 256
 duality of communist ideology, 14
Dynasty, 197, 199–200

- East European television cultures, 56
 East Germany. See German Democratic Republic (GDR) broadcasting Eastern European culture, 28
 economic culture of television, 175, 184 Edelman, Robert, 197 educational bloc spanning, 212 educational dictatorships, 121
 Egorov, A., 170
 Eisenstein, Elizabeth, 30 electronic camera, 59–60 electronic monuments, 233–234 Enlightenment era, 9 entangled modernities, 103–105
 entertainment programming, 76–77, 139, 218–219, 220, 304
 ethnic minority populations, 114
 ethno-cultural diversity, 7, 90
 Eurobarometer survey, 46
 European Audio-visual Observatory, 46
 European Broadcasting Union (EBU), 62, 84, 109, 179
 European Enlightenment, 95
 Evans, Christine, 9, 61, 103, 214, 301 evening news broadcast, 224–225
Every Man Dies Alone (Jeder stirbt für sich allein), 251, 252, 253, 255 everyday television programming/viewing finding time for, 210–215
 introduction to, 207–209
 living with, 222–231
 scheduling of, 215–222, 216f
 summary of, 231–232
 temporal arrangements of, 320 extent of market control, 106 extent of state control, 105–106 extra-marital affairs in television, 174 extraordinary temporality, 41–44, 261–262

Family Almanach (Almanahul familiei), 220 family relations in television, 169–175 fan culture, 27
 fascism, 96, 97
 federalism, 64
 feminine medium in television, 36 fictional television series, 80 Finnish broadcasting, 62, 110 firewall theory, 201–202 football matches on television, 11 foreign television programming impact of, 77
 imported programming, 49, 185–191, 186t, 189f, 190f language exposure, 195
 openness of, 180–185, 181t, 183f
 origin of imports, 185–191, 186t, 189f, 190f
Forty-Year-Old Man (Czterdziestolatek), 154, 167, 168f, 171, 305
4 Alternative Street (Alternatywy 4), 169
Four Tankmen and a Dog (Czterej panciarni i pies), 234, 251, 252–253, 254f, 256, 308–309
Freckled Boy (Pistruiatul), 234, 251, 252–253, 257–258, 308–309
 Free Romanian Television, 289 Freedom House, 302
 freedom of expression limitations, 67 Fulbrook, Mary, 164
 functional differentiation, 95, 105 future-oriented regime of historicity, 254

 Gagarin, Yuri, 262
 game shows, 81
 gender relations in television, 88–89, 169–175 gendering in socialist television, 36–37, 156–157, 160
 Gerasimova, Katerina, 147
 German Democratic Republic (GDR) broadcasting
 attitudes to entertainment, 144
 audience needs, 74, 132, 213
 Berlin Wall, 124, 191, 262, 286–288
 Day of the Republic, 264
 ethno-cultural diversity, 90
 foreign programming, 180
 historical serial fiction, 244, 245, 246, 249
 international sports competitions, 194
 media holidays, 273
 nation-building, 124
 non-communist media holidays, 270
 Party interest in media culture, 72
 party-state control, 83
 privatization in television, 162
 quiz shows, 134
 serial fiction, 162
 television broadcasts in, 53, 63, 64, 82
 transnational orientation, 85–86
 viewing times, 210
 Western impact on, 200–201, 204
 WWII serials, 255–256

- German Nazis, 97
 German Television Broadcasting (Deutsche Fernsehfunk), 124
 Good Friday, 265
Good Night (Dobranoč, Wieczorynka or Dobranočka), 224
Goodnight, Children! (Spokoinoi nochi, malyshi!), 212 Gorbachev, Mikhail, 301
 grand dichotomy, 146
Grey Home (Sivi dom), 169
- Habermas, Jürgen, 33, 99–100, 118, 135–136
 Hanitzsch, Thomas, 27
 Hartog, François, 235
 hegemony of form, 14
 Heinrich-Franke, Christian, 61 heroism broadcasting, 251–258, 254f Hertle, Hans-Hermann, 287
 Heynowski, Walter, 271
High-Rise Tales (Hochhausgeschichten), 167–168 historical engagement (history boom) of television communist revolution, 235–243, 241f
 introduction to, 233–235
 knowledge of, 235
 serial fiction, 40, 243–251, 245f, 248t
 summary of, 258–260
 World War II, 251–258, 254f home-friendly attributes of television, 35 home video recorders, 137
 homogeneity, 54
 Honecker, Erich, 72
 honeycomb state, 164
 Hungarian broadcasting
 party-state control, 83
 serial dramas, 158, 305
 television broadcasts in, 63, 67–68, 82
 transnational orientation, 85–86
 Hungarian invasion (1956), 70
 Hungarian-language programming in Romania, 227 hybrid spatial location of television, 36
- Iakovlev, Aleksandr, 121 ideological orthodoxy in media culture, 80, 165, 298 idol dramas, 310–311
 Immel, Regina, 61
 imported programming, 49, 185–191, 186t, 189f, 190f Imre, Anikó, 134, 172–173, 250 individual consciousness, 30 industrialization, 95, 98 information programming, 77
 infrastructural developments, 63–65, 65f, 78t, 81–82, 112–113 Innis, Harold, 29
 institutional infrastructures, 13 institutional persona of television, 35 institutionalization of socialist television, 10 institutionalized religion, 45
 International Radio and Television Organisation (OIRT), 61, 84, 109, 179
 international sports competitions, 194
 internationalizing communication, 7 Internet of things, 317
 Intervision Song Contest, 66, 195 intra-regional variations in socialist television, 160
 Iskra TV-31 Minirama, 152
 Italian broadcasting, 121
 Italian Fascism, 97
Izvestiia, 229
- Jameson, Fredric, 40
 Jaruzelski, Wojciech, 284, 285
 journalistic culture, 27, 300
- Kashpirovsky, Anatoly, 316
 Katz, Elihu, 41–42, 43
 Kellner, Douglas, 27
 A Kettle of Colour (Ein Kessel Buntes), 133
 Kisielewska, Alicja, 306
- Labour Day, 261, 265–267, 266f, 269
 Lapin, Sergei, 70
 Latin American media systems, 83
 League of Communists, 71
 Leandrov, Igor, 79
 Lenin, Vladimir, 98, 119, 142
Let's Go Girls (A nu-ka devushki), 134, 220 Lewis, Tania, 318
 liberal democracy, 92
 liberalism, 96, 176
 libertarianism, 93
 Liebes, Tamar, 277
 life-story interviews, 50, 322–329, 323t
 linguistic diversity, 64
 literacy impact on social organization, 30

- Little Sandman (Sandmännchen or Unser Sandmännchen)*, 212 live events on television, 11
 Livingstone, Sonia, 5
 Lovell, Stephen, 142
 Lundgren, Lars, 61
 Luther, Martin, 265
- Maieran, Andreea, 290
 Mamedov, Enver, 129
 Mao Zedong, 71, 98, 102
 Marconi, Guglielmo, 59 market-media differentiation, 108
 market state socialist model, 309–312
 Martial Law in Poland, 219, 262, 277, 284–286
 Martin, Frank, 318
 Marxism, 98, 101, 237
 mass communication
 causality in, 55
 introduction to, 92–94
 key concepts, 2
 in non-democratic settings, 3 societal consequences of, 294 television systems and cultures, 54 mass mediated communication, 26, 28 McLuhan, Marshall, 29 media culture. See also modernity and media culture; socialist television cultures
 classless mass culture, 80
 cross-cultural communication, 27–28 defined, 26–31
 differences in, 96–97
 digital cultures, 317–321
 dimension of, 314–317
 East European television cultures, 56
 Eastern European culture, 28
 economic culture of television, 175, 184
 ethno-cultural diversity, 7, 90
 fan culture, 27
 ideological orthodoxy in, 80
 introduction to, 25–26
 journalistic culture, 27, 300
 media systems and, 4–8
 news culture, 27
 political culture of television, 12, 175, 176
 post-socialist television cultures, 300–309 socialist television cultures, 74–81, 75f, 79f
 summary of, 317–321
 temporal orientation of TV cultures, 52 variation of, 2
 media disruptions
 Berlin Wall, 124, 191, 262, 286–288, 293
 deaths of Brezhnev and Tito, 278–284, 281f
 introduction to, 42, 43, 261–262, 277–278, 279t
 Martial Law in Poland, 219, 262, 277, 284–286
 Romanian revolution, 277, 288–291
 summary of, 291–293
 media events, 41–44
 media holidays
 communist media holidays, 265–269, 266f, 268f experiences of, 272–277
 introduction to, 42–43, 261, 262–265, 263t
 non-communist media holidays, 269–272
 summary of, 291–293, 297–298
 media research concepts, 2 media systems, 1–8, 15–21. See also socialist television mediatization, 30
 methodological nationalism, 52–56
 Meyrowitz, Joshua, 30
 mobile natives, 319
 mobile privatization, 34
 modernity and media culture communist vision of, 207, 217 debates over, 102–114, 104f degree of secularization, 107–108 extent of market control, 106
 extent of state control, 105–106
 introduction to, 92–94
 political parallelism, 107
 political pluralism, 107
 summary of, 114
 television design, 152, 156
 typologies and dimensions, 314–317
 varieties of, 94–102
 Moore, Barrington, 96
 Moores, Shaun, 34
 moral messages in television shows, 165–167
 Müntzer, Thomas, 265
 music festival broadcasts, 195, 199
 Mustata, Dana, 290

- nation-building function of television, 122, 124
 National Council on Radio and Television, 71
 New Socialist Person, 214
 new vision in socialist television, 10
 New Year's celebrations, 261, 264, 271, 272 news coverage, 27, 76, 198, 224–225
 Nipkow, Paul, 59
No Sense of Place (Meyrowitz), 30
 Non-Aligned Movement, 62, 186
 non-communist media holidays, 269–272
 non-democratic media, 312–314
 non-site-specific medium, 319
- October Revolution Anniversary, 264, 267, 274 Olympic Games, 194, 196–197, 262 open-ended narrative structure, 160 openness in socialist television, 37–39 oral history testimonies, 276
 origin of imports, 185–191, 186*t*, 189*f*, 190*f* origin of socialist television, 37–39
 Ouellette, Laurie, 112
Our Small Town (Naše malo misto), 167, 174
Outcasts (Otpisani), 240, 241*f*
- pan-Yugoslav channel, 124–125
 paratexts, 48
 Party Committee for Propaganda and Agitation, 130, 215 Party control in broadcasting, 69–74
 party-state control, 8, 82–83
 party-supported television, 142 passivity vs. participation, 208 paternalistic assumptions, 143 Paulu, Burton, 67–68
 perestroika (reconstruction), 73
Petratis Family (Petracijų šeimoje), 170–171 photo-elicitation, 50
 pink dramas, 310–311
 Pluralist media-politics model, 300
 polemical programmes, 141 Polish broadcasting audience needs, 74, 130, 140, 213
 capitalist imports, 185–191, 186*t*, 189*f*, 190*f*
 children vs. adult temporalities, 224
 collective viewing in public settings, 149, 151 comedy shows, 168–169
 domestic programming, 184–185
 ethno-cultural diversity, 90
 foreign programming, 180, 182–183, 184–185
 historical serial fiction, 244, 249, 250
 Martial Law impact, 219
 nation-building function of television, 124
 news programming, 76
 non-communist media holidays, 270
 oral history testimonies, 276
 party-state control, 83
 serial dramas, 158, 162, 167, 168*f*, 304–305, 306
 Solidarity movement protests, 68, 73, 144
 Sunday morning TV, 225
 television broadcasts in, 63, 67–68, 82, 308
 temporal patterns, 230
 weekday TV broadcasts, 225–226
 WWII serials, 252–253, 257
 Polish Journalists Association, 285
 Polish Party Committee for Radio and Television, 120 Polish TV magazine, 213 political communication research, 26 political control, 66–74
 political corruption, 72
 political culture of television, 12, 175, 176 political decision-making, 92 political elites
 attitudes to entertainment, 144 behavior of, 300, 303
 historical knowledge, 235 impact of Western television, 192 nation-building and, 124 public investment in entertainment, 127, 129 television broadcasting, 29, 48, 76, 124
 women's emancipation, 37
 political parallelism, 107
 political pluralism, 107
 pornography, 137
 post-socialist television cultures, 300–309
 pre-socialist/radio generation, 50 press freedom, 302
 private sphere of television community impact, 163–169, 166*f*, 168*f* depictions of, 158–175

- domestication, 146, 148–157, 155*f* extent of, 159–162, 161*t* family and gender relations, 169–175
 introduction to, 146–148
 public privacy, 163, 306
 summary of, 175–176
 privatization of socialist television, 34–36, 302, 307 program analysis, 49–50 Protestant Reformation, 30 psychological effects of television, 222–223
 public broadcasting service, 119–126, 123*f*
 public privacy in socialist television, 253 public private distinction, 118, 147 public scrutiny of power, 56
 public sphere vs. public mission audience desires, 126–134, 132*f*, 133*f*
 introduction to, 32–34, 117–118
 private sphere of television, 163, 306
 public broadcasting service, 119–126, 123*f*
 summary of, 143–145, 304
 television as vehicle, 134–143 Putin, Vladimir, 301

 quasi-familial sphere, 164
 quiz shows, 81, 134

 Radio Corporation of America, 59–60
 Radio Free Europe, 111
 reality TV shows, 27, 40, 306–307
 Reifová, Irina, 163
 Reith, John, 120, 121
 religion and television, 44–45, 89, 107–108, 226–227, 264, 291 representative publicness, 135–136, 143 republic flight, 64
 retrospective reinterpretation, 51
 Romanian broadcasting
 audience needs, 131, 141–142
 capitalist imports, 185–191, 186*t*, 189*f*, 190*f*
 collective viewing in public settings, 149–150
 disparities in, 87
 domestic programming, 184
 ethnic minority populations, 114
 ethno-cultural diversity, 90
 foreign language exposure, 195
 foreign programming, 180, 181, 182
 gender challenges, 220
 historical engagement of television, 239
 historical serial fiction, 249
 Hungarian-language programming in, 227
 international sports competitions, 194
 introduction to, 53, 61
 media holidays, 267, 268*f*, 274
 nation-building function of television, 123
 non-communist media holidays, 271
 Part approaches to media culture, 71
 party-state control, 83
 privatization in television, 162
 SECAM standard, 63
 serial fiction, 162
 television broadcasts in, 63, 66, 82
 temporal patterns, 230
 transnational orientation, 85–86
 TV austerity and, 219
 viewing times, 211
 WWII serials, 252–253, 257–258
 Romanian revolution, 277, 288–291
 Rosing, Boris, 59–60
 Roudakova, Natalia, 303
 Russian Civil War, 235–236 sacrifice stories, 251–258, 254*f* Sappak, Vladimir, 10

 satellite television, 193
 satirical programmes, 141
 Scannell, Paddy, 30, 33
 Schabowski, Günter, 287
 schedule analysis, 49–50, 296, 325–327
 Scheumann, Gerhard, 141
 Schultz, Winifred, 54
 Schwach, James, 53
 SECAM standard, 63, 84, 109
 Second Berlin Crisis (1961), 70 secularization in TV broadcasts, 44–45, 89, 107–108, 226–227, 315–317 selective viewing, 227–228
 semi-public sphere, 136–137, 138, 140–141 separation of time and space, 40 serial fiction/drama analysis of, 327–329
 capitalist imports, 189*f*
 Croatian broadcasting, 167, 305
 Czechoslovak broadcasting, 158
 domestically-produced, 80
 GDR broadcasting, 162, 244, 245, 246, 249

- serial fiction/drama (cont.) historical engagement, 40, 243–251, 245*f*, 248*t*
 historical engagement of television, 234
 Hungarian broadcasting, 158, 305
 longitudinal studies on, 304–306 plots and settings of, 161*t*
 Polish broadcasting, 158, 162, 167, 168*f*, 304–305, 306 politics and, 158
 privatization of, 159–162
 Romanian broadcasting, 162
 Soviet Union broadcasting, 169, 170–171
 Turkish serial fiction, 308
 WWII serials, 255–256
 Yugoslav broadcasting, 162, 165, 169, 181–182
- Seven Affairs of Doña Juanita (Die sieben Affären der Doña Juanita)*, 174
- Siebert, Frederick, 93
 Silverstone, Roger, 30
 size of economy, 89
 soap operas, 160
 social distinctions of television ownership, 151 social impact of television, 1 Social Origins of Dictatorship and Democracy (Moore), 96 social responsibility, 93
 Socialist Alliance of the Working People of Yugoslavia (SAWPY), 67 socialist pathos, 274
 socialist television cultures. See also communist broadcasting; media culture archival sources and paratexts, 48 dimensions of variation, 32 domestication and privatization, 34–36 extraordinary temporality, 41–44
 gendering, 36–37
 introduction to, 3–4
 life-story interviews, 50, 322–329, 323*t*
 market state socialist model, 309–312 media culture, defined, 26–31
 methodological nationalism, 52–56
 overview of, 8–15
 post-socialist television cultures, 300–309 program and schedule analysis, 49–50 public sphere and public mission, 32–34
 secularization, 44–45
 sources and methods, 46–48
 summary of, 56–57, 294–296
 temporal orientation, 39–41
 transnationalism, 37–39
- socialist television cultures, historical context audiences, 74–81, 75*f*, 79*f*
 broadcasting infrastructure, 59–66 changes over time, 69–74 contextual factors, 87–88
 core-periphery position, 65–66, 83–84, 109, 111, 112, 245–246, 295, 313
 cross-country similarities/differences, 66–69
 ethno-cultural diversity, 90
 gender relations, 88–89
 infrastructural developments, 63–65, 65*f*, 78*t*, 81–82
 introduction to, 58–59
 party-state control, 82–83
 political control, 66–74
 public privacy, 253
 secularization, 89
 size of economy, 89
 summary of, 91
 transnational entanglements, 59–63
 transnational orientation, 84–87, 86*t*
- societal culture of television, 175
 Sokorski, Włodzimierz, 120
 Solidarity movement protests, 68, 73, 144
 Soviet Central Television, 214
 Soviet Union broadcasting
 block-scheduling, 215–218
 Brezhnev, Leonid, 129, 238, 262, 278–284, 281*f* broadcasting disparities, 87, 125 communist revolution and, 235–243, 241*f*
 ethnic minority populations, 114
 ethno-cultural diversity, 90
 foreign programming, 181, 182–183, 185
 historical serial fiction, 246, 247
 identity of programming, 213
 international sports competitions, 194
 introduction to, 53
 invasion of Czechoslovakia, 70, 71, 125–126 invasion of Prague, 54
 nation-building, 124
 non-communist media holidays, 269–270, 271–272
 October Revolution Anniversary, 264

- party-state control, 83
 psychological effects of television, 222–223
 quiz shows, 134
 relations with U.S., 70, 73
 SECAM standard, 63
 serial dramas, 169, 170–171
 television broadcasts in, 63, 64, 82, 113 television funding sources, 68
 transnational orientation, 85–86
 viewing times, 211
 Western impact on, 203
 WWII serials, 252, 255, 256
 Yugoslav independence from, 66
- space-based media, 29–30 speeding up of time, 40 Spigel, Lynn, 170
 spiritual advice TV, 316
 St. Stephen's Day, 264
 Stalin, Joseph, 280
 standardized system of time reckoning, 223 state-media differentiation, 108
 Štětka, Václav, 307–308
 Stevenson, Nick, 27
Stories over the Garden Fence (Geschichten überm Gartenzaun), 165 structural differentiation, 8, 105
 Sun, Wanning, 318
 Sunday morning TV, 225
 Suslov, Mikhail, 280
 Sutton, Henry, 59
 Swedish broadcasting, 110
 Switzerland, ethnic minority populations, 114
 Szczepanik, Jan, 59
- Tanta and Costel (Tanța și Costel)*, 153, 173, 174
 techno-diplomacy, 111
 technological determinism, 13 television. See also communist broadcasting; everyday television programming/viewing; historical engagement (history boom) of television; private sphere of television; socialist television; transnational television
 block-scheduling, 215–218
 Cold War and, 3
 communist revolution and, 235–243, 241*f*
 comparative assessment of, 33
 domestication of, 34–36, 48, 146, 148–157, 155*f*
 entertainment programming, 76–77, 139, 218–219, 220, 304
 involvement in public sphere, 3 for missile guidance systems, 60 modernity in design, 152, 156
 moral messages in television shows, 165–167
 music festival broadcasts, 195, 199
 news coverage, 27, 76, 198, 224–225 patent submissions, 59
 as propaganda state, 66–67 psychological effects of, 222–223
 public sphere vs. public mission, 134–143
 reality TV shows, 27, 40, 306–307
 satellite television, 193
 schedule analysis, 49–50, 296, 325–327
 secularization in TV broadcasts, 44–45, 89, 107–108, 226–227, 315–317
 selective viewing, 227–228
 summary of, 317–321
 Sunday morning TV, 225
 thematic ‘blocks’ of programming, 212
 undiscerning viewer stereotype, 222–231
Television and Everyday Life (Silverstone), 30 Television and the Meaning of Live (Scannell), 30 television evangelism, 45
 television revolution, 296–300 television sets, 77–78
 temporal orientation, 39–41
 temporal orientation of TV cultures, 52
Theatre in the House (Pozorište u kući), 80, 153, 165, 166*f*, 171, 172, 304–305, 308
 thematic ‘blocks’ of programming, 212
 Therborn, Göran, 94 time-based media, 29–30
 time-space compression, 40
Time (Vremia), 76
 Tito, Josip Broz, 71, 262, 277, 278–284
Today at the Krügers (Heute bei Krügers), 164, 173
 top-down transmission of information, 138, 139
 transnational entanglements, 59–63, 101–102, 109
 transnational orientation, 84–87, 86*t*, 109, 313

- transnational television (transnationalism)
 Chinese television, 310–312
 experiences of, 191–193
 foreign programming, 180–185, 181*t*, 183*f*
 introduction to, 177–179
 lure of Western way of life, 197–202 origin of imports, 185–191, 186*t*, 189*f*, 190*f*
 program flows, 179–180
 in socialist television, 37–39, 53, 307
 summary of, 202–204, 296–297, 302
 as window to the world, 193–197
- Trültzsch, Sascha, 164–165
- Tuliakova, V., 235–236
- Turkish serial fiction, 308
- TV Belgrade, 125, 138, 210
- TV towers, 103, 104*f*
- typology of state socialist media culture, 314–317
- Ukrainian broadcasting, 229
- Ulbricht, Walter, 72
- undiscerning viewer stereotype, 222–231
- UNESCO, 180
- United States (U.S.) broadcasting, 70, 73, 112, 122
- Utekhin, Iliia, 164
- Väljas, Vaino, 191
- variety shows, 81
- video-on-demand form, 319
- Viehoff, Reinhold, 164–165
- Vietnamese television, 312
- viewership figures, 273, 275–276
- Voice of America, 111
- von Mihály, Dénes, 60
- War on the Home Front (Wojna domowa)*, 153
- war serials for children, 240
- Warsaw Pact, 71
- Warsaw Television Works, 152
- Washington Post*, 121, 191
- weekday TV broadcasts, 225–226
- Weiller, Lazare, 59
- Weimar Republic, 97
- West German broadcasts, 64, 132, 200–201
- Western public broadcasting television, 122, 297
- Westernization, 96, 197–202
- Whit Monday, 265
- Wierling, Dorothee, 121
- Williams, Raymond, 13, 34
- women's emancipation, 37
- women's employment, 88
- Woo-Seung Lee, 109–110
- working women in television series, 172–173
- World Cup, 194
- World War I broadcasting, 247
- World War II broadcasting, 247, 249, 251–258, 254*f*, 261
- Youth Day, 267, 274
- Yugoslav broadcasting, 53, 61, 62
 advertising revenue, 68, 106 audience needs, 74–76, 75*f*, 131–132, 213
 block-scheduling, 215–218
 capitalist imports, 185–191, 186*t*, 189*f*, 190*f*
 censorship fears, 142
 children vs. adult temporalities, 224
 Day of the Republic, 275
 disparities in, 87
 ethnic minority populations, 114
 ethno-cultural diversity, 90
 foreign language exposure, 195
 foreign programming, 77, 180, 181, 182
 historical engagement of, 236, 238–239, 312 historical serial fiction, 245, 246, 247–249
 identity of programming, 212 independence from Soviet Union, 66
 introduction to, 53
 longitudinal study of, 304
 media holidays, 267, 268*f*
 nation-building, 124
 Non-Aligned Movement, 62, 186
 pan-Yugoslav channel, 124–125
 Party interest in media culture, 73–74
 party-state control, 82–83
 political impact on, 71
 SECAM standard, 63
 secularization of, 315–316
 selective viewing, 228
 serial dramas, 167, 305
 serial fiction, 162, 165, 169, 181–182
 structure in, 69
 technical equipment, 61

Index

369

- television culture in, 63, 64, 66, 82, 315
- temporal patterns, 229–230
- Tito, Josip Broz, 262, 277, 278–284
- top-down transmission of information, 138, 139
- transnational orientation, 85–86
- viewing times, 210, 211
- war serials for children, 240
- weekday TV broadcasts, 225–226
- Western impact on, 195, 199–200, 201–202, 204
- WWII serials, 257–258
- Yugoslav People's Army, 237
- Yugoslav Radio-television, 67
- Yurchak, Alexei, 14
- Zworkin, Vladimir K., 59–60