

Cambridge University Press
978-1-108-49346-8 — The Politics of Court Reform
Edited by Melissa Crouch
Frontmatter
More Information

THE POLITICS OF COURT REFORM

Indonesia is the world's third largest democracy and its courts are an important part of its democratic system of governance. Since the transition from authoritarian rule in 1998, a range of new specialised courts have been established from the Commercial Courts to the Constitutional Court and the Fisheries Courts. In addition, constitutional and legal changes have affirmed the principle of judicial independence and accountability. The growth of Indonesia's economy means that the courts are facing greater demands to resolve an increasing number of disputes. This volume offers an analysis of the politics of court reform through a review of judicial change and legal culture in Indonesia. A key concern is whether the reforms that have taken place have addressed the issues of the decline in professionalism and increase in corruption. This volume will be a vital resource for scholars of law, political science, law and development, and law and society.

MELISSA CROUCH is Associate Professor at the Law Faculty, the University of New South Wales, Sydney. She holds a BA/LLB and PhD from the University of Melbourne. She teaches and researches on law and religion, law and governance, and comparative constitutional law, with a focus on Southeast Asia. Her research has been funded by numerous awards, including the Endeavour Australia Research Fellowship and an Australian Research Council Discovery Grant. She is the author of Law and Religion in Indonesia (2014) and The Constitution of Myanmar (2019).

Cambridge University Press
978-1-108-49346-8 — The Politics of Court Reform
Edited by Melissa Crouch
Frontmatter
More Information

Cambridge University Press
978-1-108-49346-8 — The Politics of Court Reform
Edited by Melissa Crouch
Frontmatter
More Information

THE POLITICS OF COURT REFORM

Judicial Change and Legal Culture in Indonesia

Edited by

MELISSA CROUCH

University of New South Wales, Sydney

Cambridge University Press
978-1-108-49346-8 — The Politics of Court Reform
Edited by Melissa Crouch
Frontmatter
More Information

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY PRESS

University Printing House, Cambridge CB2 8BS, United Kingdom

One Liberty Plaza, 20th Floor, New York, NY 10006, USA

477 Williamstown Road, Port Melbourne, VIC 3207, Australia

314–321, 3rd Floor, Plot 3, Splendor Forum, Jasola District Centre,
New Delhi – 110025, India

79 Anson Road, #06–04/06, Singapore 079906

Cambridge University Press is part of the University of Cambridge.

It furthers the University's mission by disseminating knowledge in the pursuit of education, learning, and research at the highest international levels of excellence.

www.cambridge.org

Information on this title: www.cambridge.org/9781108493468

DOI: 10.1017/9781108636131

© Cambridge University Press 2019

This publication is in copyright. Subject to statutory exception and to the provisions of relevant collective licensing agreements, no reproduction of any part may take place without the written permission of Cambridge University Press.

First published 2019

Printed and bound in Great Britain by Clays Ltd, Elcograf S.p.A.

A catalogue record for this publication is available from the British Library.

Library of Congress Cataloging-in-Publication Data

Names: Crouch, Melissa, editor.

Title: The politics of court reform : judicial change and legal culture in Indonesia / edited by Melissa Crouch, University of New South Wales, Sydney.

Description: Cambridge, United Kingdom ; New York, NY, USA : Cambridge University Press, 2019. | "This volume is the result of numerous collaborations and several academic workshops and seminars in Indonesia and elsewhere" – ECIP acknowledgements. | Includes bibliographical references and index.

Identifiers: LCCN 2019010799 | ISBN 9781108493468

Subjects: LCSH: Justice, Administration of – Indonesia – Congresses.

Classification: LCC KNW470.A67 P65 2019 | DDC 347.598/01–dc23

LC record available at <https://lccn.loc.gov/2019010799>

ISBN 978-1-108-49346-8 Hardback

Cambridge University Press has no responsibility for the persistence or accuracy of URLs for external or third-party internet websites referred to in this publication and does not guarantee that any content on such websites is, or will remain, accurate or appropriate.

CONTENTS

| | | |
|-----------------------------|-------------|------|
| List of Figures | page | viii |
| List of Tables | | ix |
| List of Contributors | | x |
| Acknowledgements | | xix |

- 1 The Judicial Reform Landscape in Indonesia: Innovation, Specialisation and the Legacy of Dan S. Lev 1

MELISSA CROUCH

PART I Continuity and Change in the General Court System 29

- 2 The Supreme Court: Reformasi, Independence and the Failure to Ensure Legal Certainty 31

RIFQI S. ASSEGAF

- 3 The District Courts: Sentencing Decisions as Evolving Legal Culture? 59

DANIEL PASCOE

- 4 The Indonesian Prosecution Service at Work: The Justice System Postman 86

FACHRIZAL AFANDI

PART II Specialised Courts Established under the New Order 107

- 5 The Religious Courts: Does Lev's Analysis Still Hold? 109

STIJN CORNELIS VAN HUIS

- 6 The Administrative Courts: The Quest for Consistency 133
ADRIAAN BEDNER AND HERLAMBANG PERDANA WIRATRAMAN
- PART III Specialised Courts as Judicial Reform Strategy 149
- 7 Indonesia's Anti-corruption Courts and the Persistence of Judicial Culture 151
SIMON BUTT
- 8 The Commercial Courts: A Story of Unfinished Reforms 174
GUSTAAF REERINK, KEVIN OMAR SIDHARTA, ARIA SUYUDI AND SOPHIE HEWITT
- 9 The Small Claims Court: An Innovation in Judicial Reform 198
BINZIAD KADAFI
- 10 The Fisheries Court: Government-Led Judicial Development? 218
INDRIASWATI DYAH SAPTANINGRUM
- 11 The Constitutional Court: A Levian Take on Its Place in the Reformasi 245
THEUNIS ROUX
- PART IV Courts and Rights 265
- 12 The Juvenile Courts and Children's Rights: Good Intentions, Flawed Execution 267
PUTRI K. AMANDA, SHAILA TIEKEN, SHARYN GRAHAM DAVIES AND SANTI KUSUMANINGRUM
- 13 The Human Rights Courts: Embedding Impunity 287
KEN SETIAWAN

CONTENTS

vii

| | | |
|----|---|-----|
| 14 | The Industrial Relations Court: Challenges for Labour Rights | 311 |
| | SURYA TJANDRA | |
| 15 | The Media: Megaspectacles and Transparency in the Courts | 334 |
| | ROSS TAPSELL AND SITA DEWI | |
| 16 | Lev on the Links between Legal Evolution, Political Change and Activism | 353 |
| | FRANK W. MUNGER | |
| | Epilogue | 361 |
| | FRITZ EDWARD SIREGAR | |
| | Glossary | 363 |
| | Bibliography | 365 |
| | Index | 412 |

FIGURES

| | | |
|------|--|----------------|
| 2.1 | Total number of cases lodged to and decided by the Supreme Court between 2004 and 2016 | page 33 |
| 10.1 | Fisheries Courts timeline (2008–2014) | 228 |
| 10.2 | Number of Fisheries Court judges from 2014 to 2017 | 229 |
| 10.3 | Fisheries trial procedure | 230 |
| 10.4 | Number of fisheries crimes cases tried at the Fisheries Court and the District Court | 234 |
| 10.5 | Number of cases at the Fisheries Court (2013–2017) | 238 |

TABLES

| | | |
|------|--|---------------|
| 1.1 | Legislative reform for the creation of specialised courts and independent agencies in Indonesia | page 5 |
| 2.1 | Number and type of cassation and special review cases lodged with the Supreme Court in 2016 | 34 |
| 8.1 | Number of bankruptcy petitions in the commercial courts in the Central Jakarta and Surabaya district courts (2015–17) | 184 |
| 8.2 | Suspension of payment petitions in the commercial courts in the Central Jakarta and Surabaya district courts (2015–17) | 184 |
| 9.1 | Number of civil claims | 201 |
| 9.2 | Types of criminal cases entering the Supreme Court | 204 |
| 9.3 | Time and cost of civil cases settlement in Jakarta | 207 |
| 9.4 | Number of incoming small claims | 212 |
| 9.5 | Incoming cassation to the Supreme Court | 215 |
| 9.6 | Indonesia's rank in the ease of doing business and enforcement of contracts | 215 |
| 12.1 | Comparison of Maximum Detention Period | 273 |
| 12.2 | Comparison of penalties under Law 3/1997 and Law 11/2012 | 274 |
| 13.1 | Charges, sentences and appeals at Indonesia's Human Rights Courts | 301 |

Cambridge University Press
978-1-108-49346-8 — The Politics of Court Reform
Edited by Melissa Crouch
Frontmatter
More Information

CONTRIBUTORS

ADRIAAN BEDNER is a professor at the University of Leiden. His research has a particular focus on access to justice, dispute resolution and the judiciary. He is the author of Administrative Courts in Indonesia (Kluwer Law, 2001) and Court Reform (2008). He has published numerous book chapters and journal articles, including in Asian Journal of Law and Society, Journal of Legal Pluralism, Hague Journal on the Rule of Law and Utrecht Law Review. Adriaan has undertaken work of a more theoretical and comparative nature on rule of law and access to justice. He has been project leader and/or steering board member of several research projects in Indonesia sponsored by the Royal Dutch Academy of Sciences, the Dutch Research Council and the Dutch Department of Foreign Affairs. At present he oversees a cooperative research project between the Dutch and the Indonesian Ombudsman, as well as the research component of a cooperation project between the Indonesian and the Dutch supreme courts. Furthermore, he has been involved in extracurricular teaching within the framework of the Indonesian-Netherlands' legal cooperation programmes. His consultancy work for the Van Vollenhoven Institute includes giving expert opinions about Indonesian law, as well as advisory work for Indonesian institutions and the Ugandan Judicial Studies Centre.

ARIA SUYUDI is a senior researcher at the Centre for Indonesian Law and Policy Studies. He is a graduate of the Faculty of Law, University of Indonesia, and obtained his master of laws degree from Erasmus University, Rotterdam. He is an expert on bankruptcy and teaches at Jentera School of Law, Jakarta. Aria provides expert advice to the Government of Indonesia through various assignments by the Judicial Reform Team Office, Supreme Court of Indonesia, World Bank Group, The Asia Foundation, the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP) and various domestic and international agencies. For example, he was involved in drafting the regulation on the electronic court, as well as in the implementation of regulation on information technology in the legal sector and working towards improving Indonesia's ranking in the Ease of Doing Business Survey.

LIST OF CONTRIBUTORS

xi

BINZIAD KADAFI holds degrees from the Faculty of Law, University of Indonesia and the University of Washington School of Law (supported by a Fulbright Scholarship). He is currently a PhD candidate at Tilburg University Law School, the Netherlands. He has held positions as a legal researcher with the Corruption Eradication Commission in Indonesia and the Legal Department of the International Monetary Fund (IMF), Senior Adviser to the Australia Indonesia Partnership for Justice, Lecturer at Jentera Law School and Senior Lawyer at Assegaf Hamzah & Partners in Indonesia. He is the author or co-author of a wide range of articles, book chapters and policy papers on legal reform in Indonesia.

DANIEL PASCOE is an assistant professor at the School of Law, City University of Hong Kong. He received his undergraduate degrees in Law and in Asian Studies (Indonesian) from the Australian National University, and his Master of Philosophy in Criminology and Criminal Justice and Doctor of Philosophy in Law degrees from the University of Oxford, where he was the Keith Murray Graduate Scholar at Lincoln College. Daniel has published on crime and punishment in a number of Southeast Asian jurisdictions, including Indonesia. He is the author of Last Chance for Life: Clemency in Southeast Asian Death Penalty Cases (Oxford University Press, 2019). His publications have also appeared in the International & Comparative Law Quarterly, Australian Journal of Asian Law, International Review of Victimology and Vienna Journal on International Constitutional Law.

FACHRIZAL AFANDI is a lecturer in the law faculty of the University of Brawijaya (UB), Malang, Indonesia, where he teaches courses on Indonesian Criminal Procedure, Criminology and Anthropology of Law. He is now a PhD researcher at the Leiden Law School in the Netherlands. He has been involved in various academic activities in Indonesian criminal justice system and sociolegal issues. He is currently an executive director at the UB Centre for Criminal Justice Research (PERSADA UB). Fachrizal completed his bachelor's and master's degrees in Law at UB. He also received his BA from the Faculty of Psychology, Islamic State University of Malang, Indonesia.

FRANK W. MUNGER is Professor of Law at New York Law School. He is a past president of the Law and Society Association and former General Editor of the Law & Society Review, as well as Chair of the section on Sociology of Law of the American Sociological Association and Chair of the Law and Social Sciences section of the American Association of Law Schools. His current research examines foundations for the rule of law in Southeast Asia, and he is completing a book about activist attorneys practising at the margins of Thailand's complex evolving political system. Among other projects related to this research, a 2015 introductory essay compared the prospects for activist lawyers in eleven Asian societies (co-authored with Scott Cummings and Louise Trubek), drawing in part on a three-year collaboration with practising lawyers and scholars who contributed articles for the symposium.

FRIITZ EDWARD SIREGAR is an alumnus of the University of New South Wales (UNSW) Law School and in June 2017 was also a visiting fellow there. He was appointed by the President of Indonesia to an important post on the Indonesian Elections Supervisory Board (2017–2022). Fritz completed his bachelor's degree from the Faculty of Law, the University of Indonesia. He holds a master of laws degree from the Erasmus University of Rotterdam and the UNSW. In 2016, he completed his SJD at UNSW on judicial behaviour and judicialisation of Indonesia Constitutional Court. Prior to this, from 2004 to 2009, he was part of the founding generation of staff on the Indonesia Constitutional Court as a justice assistant to Justice Maruarar Siahaan. In 2006, he was selected as the first foreigner to work as an intern as Judicial Associate at the High Court of Australia. He also previously worked at the IMF's project on legal reform in Indonesia. He is the co-investigator, with Melissa Crouch, on a UNSW Indonesia Seed Fund and an ANU Indonesia Research grant to study judicial independence and the courts in Indonesia. Fritz is the author of several journal articles.

GUSTAAF REERINK is a registered foreign lawyer in Jakarta and a regular guest lecturer at several Indonesian universities, including the University of Indonesia. He holds a PhD in Law from the University of Leiden, the Netherlands. He is the author of the book Tenure Security for Indonesia's Urban Poor: A Socio-legal Study on Land, Decentralization and the Rule of Law in Bandung (Leiden University Press, 2011). He is also the author of several book chapters and journal articles on Indonesian legal matters. His expertise in legal practice, research and teaching includes foreign investment, mergers and acquisitions, and competition law and other related commercial law topics.

LIST OF CONTRIBUTORS

xiii

HERLAMBANG PERDANA WIRATRAMAN is Senior Lecturer at the Constitutional Law Department and Director of the Center of Human Rights Law Studies (HRLS), Faculty of Law, University of Airlangga, Indonesia. He is an expert in constitutional law, human rights, law and society and press freedom. He obtained his PhD in Law from the Van Vollenhoven Institute, Leiden Law School. He has held visiting researcher positions at the Graduate School of International Development, Nagoya University (2015), the Centre for Asian Legal Studies, National University of Singapore (2017), Sidney Myer Asia Centre, the University of Melbourne (2017) and the Norwegian Centre for Human Rights, University of Oslo (2018). He has served as the chairperson of the Indonesian Association of Legal Philosophy (AFHI, 2013–2014) and the Indonesian Lecturers Association for Human Rights (SEPAHAM Indonesia, 2014–2017). Currently, he serves as a member of the Steering Committee of Southeast Asian Human Rights Studies Network (SEAHRN).

INDRIASWATI DYAH SAPTANINGRUM is an experienced legal researcher, human rights advocate and PhD candidate at the Law Faculty of the University of New South Wales, Australia. She is the former Director of the Institute for Policy Research and Advocacy (known as ELSAM), a prominent civil society organisation based in Jakarta, Indonesia. She is a recipient of the prestigious Australian Awards Scholarship and the British Chevening Award. She is the author of ‘Freedom on the Net Report’ in Indonesia chapter published annually by Freedom House (2016–present). She has contributed to numerous research reports, including the Report on the Performance and Establishment of National Human Rights Institutions in Asia (2008), A Gender Responsive Parliament: A Handbook on Gender Mainstreaming in the Legislature (UNDP Indonesia, 2008), as well as other policy papers.

KEN SETIAWAN is Lecturer in Indonesian and Asian Studies at the Asia Institute, the University of Melbourne. She is also an Associate at the Centre for Indonesian Law, Islam and Society (CILIS) at the Melbourne Law School. Ken holds an undergraduate degree in Indonesian language, a Master of Arts in Southeast Asian Studies and a PhD in Law from Leiden University, the Netherlands. She has more than ten years of research experience in Asia and her research interests include globalisation and human rights as well as historical violence and transitional justice. Ken has widely published on the politics of human rights in Indonesia, in journals such as the Journal of the Humanities and Social Sciences of Southeast Asia, Journal of Contemporary Asia and the Australian Journal of Asian Law. Her book Promoting Human Rights: National Human Rights Commissions in Indonesia and Malaysia was published by Leiden University Press (2013).

KEVIN OMAR SIDHARTA graduated from the Faculty of Law, University of Indonesia and cum laude from Leiden University with a master of laws degree in International Business Law. His master's thesis compared the Indonesian, Dutch and US bankruptcy regimes. Kevin has worked as a researcher on the Implementation of the Indonesian Bankruptcy Law Monitoring Project, which was part of a Technical Assistance Project funded by the IMF and the Dutch government. This project resulted in a chapter with Marie-Christine Schröeder van-Waes, 'Upholding Indonesian Bankruptcy Legislation', published in Business in Indonesia: New Challenges, Old Problems (ISEAS, 2004) and a paper with the same co-author 'Upholding Bankruptcy Legislation: Court Performance Assessment Study' (unpublished 2014) for the IMF. Kevin is a bankruptcy and restructuring partner in Ali Budiardjo, Nugroho, Reksodiputro (ABNR) Counsellors at Law, one of Indonesia's largest and oldest law firms. He has been involved in numerous bankruptcy and cross-border restructuring matters.

MELISSA CROUCH is an Associate Professor at the Law Faculty of the University of New South Wales, Sydney. She obtained her BA/LLB and PhD from the University of Melbourne. She works in the areas of comparative constitutional law, law and governance, and law and religion, with a focus on Southeast Asia. She is the author of Law and Religion in Indonesia: Conflict and the Courts in West Java (2014) and The Constitution of Myanmar (2019). She is the editor of several volumes, including The Business of Transition: Law Reform, Development and Economics in Myanmar (Cambridge University Press, 2017) and Islam and the State in Myanmar (Oxford University Press, 2016). Melissa has published in a range of peer-reviewed journals, including the International Journal of Constitutional Law, Oxford Journal of Legal Studies and Asian Legal Studies. She has been the recipient of many grants for her research on Indonesia, including an Endeavour Award, the University of Indonesia Visiting Fellowship and the ANU Indonesia Research Grant.

LIST OF CONTRIBUTORS

xv

PUTRI K. AMANDA is the Program Manager and Technical Lead for Access to Justice at the Center on Child Protection and Wellbeing (PUSKAPA). She holds an LLM from the University of Washington and in 2015 passed the bar exam. Through her work, she has been involved in reviewing, drafting and advocating policies related to child protection and well-being. Putri has expertise in the issue of juvenile justice and policy reform. She has been involved in working groups with the Supreme Court to establish internal regulations on Legal Services for the Poor and implement the regulation on the Juvenile Justice Law.

RIFQI S. ASSEGAF is an experienced legal researcher from Indonesia and is undertaking his PhD at Melbourne Law School, the University of Melbourne. He previously worked in the President's Delivery Unit (UKP4) and with the Presidential Taskforce to Combat Corruption in the Enforcement System. He established and served as the Executive Director of LeIP (2003–2007) – a non-governmental organisation concentrating on legal and judicial reform. His main research expertise is in the area of judicial reform, anti-corruption and access to information. He is the author of several major legal research initiatives that combine empirical research with policy advocacy and practical application in Indonesia. He is the author of 'Judicial Reform in Indonesia: 1998–2006' in Reforming Laws and Institutions in Indonesia (Institute of Developing Economies Japan External Trade Organization, 2007). In 2005, he received The Asia Foundation 50th Anniversary Award in Recognition of Outstanding Contribution to Law Reform in Indonesia.

ROSS TAPSELL is a Senior Lecturer and researcher of Indonesian media and culture at the Australian National University in Canberra. He is also the Director of the ANU Malaysia Institute. He is the author of Media Power in Indonesia: Oligarchs, Citizens and the Digital Revolution (2017) and co-editor of Digital Indonesia: Connectivity and Divergence (ISEAS Publishing, 2017). Ross has been a visiting fellow at the University of Indonesia (Jakarta), University of Airlangga (Surabaya) and Indiana University in the United States. He works closely with the ANU Indonesia Project and the academic analysis website New Mandala. He has published journal articles in South East Asia Research, Indonesia Journal, Journal of Contemporary Asia and Asian Studies Review.

SANTI KUSUMANINGRUM is the founder and Co-Director of the Center on Child Protection and Wellbeing (PUSPAKA), the University of Indonesia, Jakarta. Her research expertise focuses on understanding child well-being and resilience, on overcoming challenges concerning access to legal identity and on turning evidence into policy transformations that affect children and families. Through her previous work with UNICEF, she was involved in the development of Indonesia's Juvenile Justice Law. She is the author of several journal articles and policy papers, including on topics of social exclusion in civil registration and Indonesia's juvenile justice system. In addition, she serves as an advisory board member for the Care and Protection of Children Learning Network.

SHARYN GRAHAM DAVIES is Associate Professor in the School of Social Science and Public Policy at Auckland University of Technology, New Zealand. Sharyn's research focuses on Indonesia, particularly on aspects concerning gender, sexuality and criminology. Sharyn has published three books, including Sex and Sexualities in Contemporary Indonesia (2015), and is winner of the 2015 Ruth Benedict Prize for best edited collection. Sharyn has also published on juvenile justice, prisons, policing and LGBT rights. She is the author of Gender Diversity in Indonesia (2011) and Challenging Gender Norms (2007). She has published in Asian Studies Review, Journal of Gender Studies and Journal of Southeast Asian Studies.

SHAILA TIEKEN has a bachelor's degree in criminology with a focus on transnational crime from Indonesia's top university, the University of Indonesia. Her primary areas of research interest and expertise are child migration and forced displacement. She has pursued a career in research and advocacy with the PUSKAPA, an initiative of the University of Indonesia, Columbia University and the Indonesian Ministry of National Development Planning. In her free time, she works with a civil society network to advocate for a more accommodating immigration policy for child asylum seekers.

LIST OF CONTRIBUTORS

xvii

SIMON BUTT is Professor of Indonesian Law and Director of the Centre for Asian and Pacific Law at the University of Sydney Law School. Prior to joining Sydney Law School, Simon worked as a consultant on the Indonesian legal system to the Australian government, the private sector and international organisations, including the UNDP and the International Commission of Jurists (ICJ). He has taught in over seventy law courses in Indonesia on a diverse range of topics, including intellectual property, Indonesian criminal law, Indonesian terrorism law and legislative drafting. He is fluent in Indonesian. Simon is the author of numerous articles and books on Indonesia, most recently Indonesian Law (OUP, 2018, with Tim Lindsey) The Constitutional Court and Democracy in Indonesia (Brill, 2015), Climate Change and Forest Governance: Lessons from Indonesia (2015 with Rosemary Lyster and Tim Stephens), Corruption and Law in Indonesia (2012) and The Constitution of Indonesia (2012, with Tim Lindsey). Research for this chapter was funded by the Australian Government through Professor Butt's ARC Future Fellowship (FT150100294).

SITA DEWI received her master's degree from the Australian National University. She has extensive expertise as a leading journalist in Indonesia. She is currently a deputy editor for the national desk at Indonesia's leading English-language newspaper The Jakarta Post. She is responsible for national affairs covering politics, law, human rights, education, public health and environment. She has reported extensively on high-profile trials, such as those of former Corruption Eradication Commission chief Antasari Azhar and former Bank Indonesia deputy governor Miranda Goeltom at the Jakarta Corruption Court, as well as closed-door trials involving underaged defendants and the trial of serial murderer Baekuni.

SOPHIE HEWITT is a student at the Australian National University, undertaking bachelor degrees in Law (Honours) and Asian Studies. Sofie is a recipient of the Australian government's New Colombo Plan Scholarship, and as part of this programme she interned at ABNR in Jakarta. Sofie was previously Head Research Assistant for the Commonwealth Sentencing Database based at the National Judicial College of Australia. She has also clerked Norton Rose Fulbright in Sydney.

STIJN CORNELIS VAN HUIS is a researcher who has expertise and experience on interdisciplinary research about Islamic courts, Muslim family law and women's access to justice in Southeast Asia, and Indonesia in particular. He holds a PhD from the Leiden Law School of Leiden University, the Netherlands, and is currently based at the Bina Nusantara University in Jakarta. He has published numerous journal articles about divorce and marriage law, and Islamic courts in Indonesia, including in Utrecht Law Review, Australian Journal of Asian Law and Journal of the Humanities and Social Sciences of Southeast Asia. His most recent studies concern filiation of Muslim children under Indonesian law and the best interest of the child principle in child's custody and child support cases in Indonesia and Malaysia. He is the author of Islamic Courts and Women's Divorce Rights in Indonesia (2015).

SURYA TJANDRA is a well-known Indonesian labour academic-activist. He is a lecturer at the Law Faculty of Atma Jaya Catholic University, and for many years he was associated with the Indonesian Legal Aid Institute (LBH) in Jakarta, Indonesia. He is also the founder of the Trade Union Rights Centre, a labour resource NGO based in Jakarta. Surya holds a PhD in Law from Leiden University, the Netherlands, with a thesis concerned with the political economy of labour law reform in Indonesia after the Reformasi. He was one of the key figures in the struggle for social security reforms in Indonesia, which led to the enactment of the Law on the Social Security Executing Agency in 2011.

THEUNIS ROUX is Professor of Law at the University of New South Wales in Sydney. His main research interest is in comparative constitutional law, focusing on the politics of judicial review in new democracies. He is the author of The Politics of Principle: The First South African Constitutional Court, 1995–2005 (Cambridge University Press, 2013) and The Politico-Legal Dynamics of Judicial Review: A Comparative Analysis (Cambridge University Press, 2018). His most recent co-edited volume, with Rosalind Dixon, is Constitutional Triumphs, Constitutional Disappointments: A Critical Assessment of the 1996 South African Constitution's Local and International Influence (Cambridge University Press, 2018).

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This volume is the result of numerous collaborations and several academic workshops and seminars in Indonesia and elsewhere. In late 2014, the University of New South Wales (UNSW) Law School and the University of Sydney co-hosted a workshop on Indonesia's Constitutional Court, featuring former Chief Justice Jimly Asshiddiqie. In 2017 and 2018, two roundtables were held in Jakarta on judicial independence in collaboration with Dr Fritz Siregar, UNSW alumni, formerly of the University of Indonesia and now of Jentera Law School and Commissioner of the General Election Supervision Body (Bawaslu). In May 2018, I presented at the 'Politics in Action in Southeast Asia Update' at the University of Sydney. In June 2018, a panel discussion on 'The Politics of Courts and Legal Culture: Indonesia's Judiciary and the Legacy of Dan S. Lev' was held at the Law and Society Association conference, Toronto. In July 2018, a workshop on 'Courts, Power and Legal Process in Indonesia' was hosted by the UNSW Law School, and several chapters were also presented at the adjacent event, the Asian Studies Association of Australia biannual conference. In the same month, I spoke at a seminar on 'Judges, Courts and the Politics of Law in Indonesia' hosted at Jentera Law School, Jakarta (physically located next to the Dan S. Lev Law Library in Jakarta). In December 2018, a workshop on 'The Law and Politics of Indonesia's Elections' was also hosted by the UNSW Law School in collaboration with the Indonesian Election Commission, the General Election Supervision Body and International Institute for Democracy and Electoral Assistance. I also gave seminars at the University of Gadjah Mada, Trisakti University and the University of Indonesia. I am grateful to the many contributors, commentators, chairs and participants at these events who helped stimulate discussion and debate on the topic. It is wonderful to see the keen interest in Dan S. Lev's work in Indonesia, as well as overseas. This is a testimony to the great legacy and impression he left on the lives of many scholars, activists and lawyers.

xx

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

These forums and events would not have been possible without the generous support of several academic institutions. I express my thanks to the following institutions for funding to support these initiatives: the UNSW Indonesia Seed Funds and ANU Indonesia Project and SMERU Research Institute Research Grants (2016–2017, Melissa Crouch and Fritz Siregar); a Faculty Workshop Grant from the UNSW Law School; a Workshop Grant from the Gilbert + Tobin Centre for Public Law at UNSW; and a University of Indonesia Visiting Fellowship (2017, Melissa Crouch). I am grateful to the UNSW Law School for its support of these initiatives and of research collaborations in Indonesia. I would also like to thank Vivien Ngyuen for her assistance at the end stages in the formatting of this volume.

Finally, my thanks to all the contributors to this volume. It is wonderful to have a mix of experts from Indonesia and from further afield, including the Netherlands and Australia. I hope that this is just the beginning of efforts to not only re-engage with the scholarship and activism of Lev but go deeper theoretically and comparatively in exploring the dramatic and significant reforms to Indonesia’s judicial system.