

CONTENTS

List of case studies	viii
About the authors	ix
Acknowledgements	x
Guide to online resources	xi
Introduction	1
Chapter 1 Human rights in a globalised world	5
Introduction	6
The Enlightenment tradition of human rights	6
Social work	10
A discursive and constructivist approach to human rights	12
Globalisation	21
Rights-based practice	25
Conclusion	27
Chapter 2 Human rights: beyond traditional formulations	30
Introduction	31
The three generations of human rights	32
The dominance of first-generation views of human rights	35
The potential of the three-generation perspective	38
The three generations as a framework for practice	40
Beyond the three generations	48
Conclusion	50
Chapter 3 Public and private human rights	53
Introduction	54
The oppression of women, the contribution of feminism and constructions of gender	55
Children, dependency and competing claims for rights	59
Older people	64
People with disabilities	66
Other issues	68
Non-state abusers of human rights	68
Conclusion	70
Chapter 4 Culture and human rights	73
Introduction	74
The Western domination of human rights discourse	75
Individualism	76
Patriarchy	77
Colonialism, racism and progress	79

Rationality	80
Assumptions about the human	83
Culturalism, diversity and change	85
Universalism and relativism: beyond the simple binary	87
Global citizenship	88
Global practice	89
Conclusion	91
Chapter 5 Human rights and human needs	95
Introduction	96
The problem of needs	96
Needs and rights	100
Giving priority to different needs and rights	102
Hierarchies of needs and rights	103
Needs as contextualised rights	105
Needs and rights, means and ends	107
Who defines needs and rights?	108
Conclusion	109
Chapter 6 Human rights and obligations	112
Introduction	113
The erosion of the state	113
The protection of human rights	119
The realisation of human rights	120
Citizenship obligations	122
Respecting the rights of others	123
Exercising one's rights	125
Conclusion	128
Chapter 7 Ethics and human rights	131
Introduction	132
Rights and ethics	132
Ethics as a conservative individualist discourse	133
Ethics as modernist	134
Ethics and human rights	139
Practising ethically	141
Conclusion	146
Chapter 8 Participation in the human rights discourse	148
Introduction	149
The global discourse of human rights	149
Participatory democracy	151
The local discourse of human rights	159
Conclusion	164

Chapter 9	Constructing human rights for social work practice	167
Introduction		168
Deductive approaches to human rights practice		170
Inductive approaches to human rights practice		174
Conclusion		176
Chapter 10	Achieving human rights through social work practice	179
Introduction		180
Theoretical foundations		180
Empowerment		188
Contextual/universal issues		197
Conclusion		201
Chapter 11	Respecting human rights in social work practice	206
Introduction		207
The language of social work		207
The processes of social work		212
The structures of social work		219
The education of social workers		224
Conclusion		228
Chapter 12	Conclusion: prospects for human rights practice	231
Introduction		232
Post-Enlightenment social work		235
Conclusion		242
Glossary		246
References		251
Index		274