INTERSECTIONS BETWEEN CORPORATE AND ANTITRUST LAW

Recent public debate on common ownership by institutional investors has brought awareness to one of the many intersections between the corporate and antitrust worlds. But the interplay between these two fields dates back to the dawn of US antitrust. This volume shines a light on the often underplayed and misunderstood connections between antitrust and corporate law and finance. It offers a multi-disciplinary perspective on highly trending issues, such as parallel equity holdings, interlocking directorships, the anticompetitive effects of certain corporate governance arrangements, and the relationships between ESG and not-for profit activities with antitrust law. This edited collection brings together leading experts from across the US, Europe, and Asia and provides a cross-border perspective on alternative policy approaches for the field.

Marco Corradi is Assistant Professor at ESSEC Business School in Paris and Singapore.

Julian Nowag is Associate Professor at Lund University and Associate Researcher at the Oxford Centre for Competition Law and Policy.

The University of Oxford is the place where we met and without which our discussions about the interactions between antitrust and corporate law would never have happened. We are grateful to all those who generously supported our research: professors, librarians, university and college staff and last but not least all our friends.

We would like to thank Rica Papa for her excellent editing and research support.

We are also grateful to the Ragnar Söderbergs Stiftelse whose support helped both of us at different times to reduce our teaching load and focus on this research.
