

Announcing a new textbook series

Cambridge Introduction to Roman Civilization

This series serves as an introduction to key aspects of Roman social and cultural life. It is pitched at an introductory level, and assumes no prior knowledge on the ancient world on the part of the reader. Volumes will be fully illustrated, with many colour plates, and will include a glossary of key terms as well as a select bibliography.

- Aimed at undergraduates and sixth-formers
- For use on courses in classical studies and ancient history

Cambridge Introduction to Roman Civilization

Roman Women

Eve D'Ambra

Vassar College, New York

This textbook examines the daily lives of Roman women by focusing on the mundane and less celebrated aspects of daily life – family and household, work and leisure, worship and social obligations – of women of different social ranks. Using a variety of sources, including literary texts, letters, inscriptions, coins, tableware, furniture, and the fine arts, from the late Republic to the high Imperial period, Eve D'Ambra shows how these sources serve as objects of social analysis, rather than simply as documents that recreate how life was lived. She also demonstrates how texts and material objects take part in shaping realities and what they can tell us about the texture of lives and social attitudes, if not emotions, of women in Roman antiquity.

Roman Religion

Valerie M. Warrior

Examining sites that are familiar to many modern tourists, Valerie Warrior avoids imposing a modern perspective on the topic by using the testimony of the ancient Romans to describe traditional Roman religion. The ancient testimony recreates the social and historical contexts in which Roman religion was practised. It shows, for example, how, when confronted with a foreign cult, official traditional religion accepted the new cult with suitable modifications. Basic difficulties, however, arose with regard to the monotheism of the Jews and Christianity. Carefully integrated with the text are visual representations of divination, prayer, and sacrifice as depicted on monuments, coins, and inscriptions from public buildings and homes throughout the Roman world. Also included are epitaphs and humble votive offerings that illustrate the piety of individuals, and that reveal the prevalence of magic and the occult in the spiritual lives of the ancient Romans.
