

Contents

Acknowledgments	page ix
1 Introduction: equilibrium business cycle theory	1
Equilibrium business cycle theory	2
The setting of the problem	13
Organization of the book	16
2 The classical tradition and business cycle theory	18
Theories of crisis in the nineteenth century	19
Interwar theories of business cycles	25
Equilibrium theory and interwar theories of cycles	39
3 The econometric approach to business cycles	44
Demand analysis	45
Empirical analysis of business cycles	56
Econometric approach to business cycles	62
Criticisms of the econometric approach	74
4 Hayek, the Cowles Commission, and equilibrium business cycle theory	80
The EBCT and Hayek’s theory of the cycle	81
Expectations and equilibrium	87
Cowles Commission method revisited	91
5 Contemporary trends in macroeconometrics	95
The EBCT’s econometric strategy	95
Sims’s atheoretical approach	99
Hendry and the progressive research strategy in econometrics	103
6 Conclusion	108
An appraisal: style or content?	112
References	115
Index	125