

CONTENTS

Foreword	page vii
I THE LIBERAL ANGLICANS AND THE PROBLEM OF THE NATURE OF PROGRESS	I
II THE LIBERAL ANGLICAN SCIENCE OF HISTORY	12
(a) The Progress of Nations: Social and Political	12
(i) Arnold, Niebuhr and Vico	12
(ii) 'The Social Progress of States'	20
(b) The Progress of Nations: Intellectual and Moral	29
(c) History as a Science	39
(d) The Limitations of a Science of History	52
(e) Transition to the Philosophy of History	55
III THE LIBERAL ANGLICAN PHILOSOPHY OF HISTORY	63
IV PRACTICAL HISTORY	87
(a) Social and Political: The Condition of England	89
(b) The Crisis of Civilization	95
(c) Religion	102
(i) Romanism and Rationalism	102
(ii) History and Theology	108
(d) Education	111
(e) The Nemesis of Practical History	118
V THE 'HISTORICAL MOVEMENT PROPER' AND THE LIBERAL ANGLICANS	123
(a) The Nature of the Impartiality of Liberal Anglican History	123
(b) The Romantic Philosophy of Mind	126

CONTENTS

(c) A Vindication of the Liberal Anglican Science of History	144
(d) A Vindication of the Liberal Anglican Philosophy of History	149
(e) Conclusion	151
Notes and References	153
Bibliography	201
Index	204

NOTE

Figures in brackets in the text and footnotes refer the reader to further notes at the end of the book