

Cambridge University Press

0521068487 - Libertas as a Political Idea at Rome During the Late Republic and Early Principate

CH. Wirszubski

Index

More information

INDEX

Romans are entered under the most familiar part of their name, and, where necessary for purposes of identification, dates of their offices have been added. Laws are entered under the heading Lex, leges.

- Absolutism, theory of its legitimacy, 133; mitigated by the virtues of the Princeps, 154; incompatible with libertas, 169 f.
- Actio laesae maiestatis, 159
- Actium, battle of, 97, 98, 100, 105, 106
- Adoptio, 154–8
- Aelius Aristides, 161 f.
- Aequae leges, notion explained, 10 f.; with regard to homines novi, 55
- Aequitas, 10; compared with isotes, 13; in the propaganda of the Gracchi, 46
- Aequum ius, identified with libertas, 11 f.; compared with isonomia, 13 f.; and homines novi, 55
- Agricola, Cn. Iulius, 149, 166
- Alieni iuris, 1
- Allies (socii), their aims in the Social War, 66 f.; enrolment in Roman tribes, 69 f.
- Appellatio, 26–7
- Appius Claudius, xvii, 10
- Aristotle, 14, 85
- Army, influence on politics, 73 f.
- Antistius Sossianus, tried for maiestas, 139
- Antonius, M. (cos. 44 B.C.), 104, 105, 106
- Antonius, M., orator, 15; defence of Norbanus, 49
- Antonius, M., Creticus, 63
- Assemblies of the People, functions and competence, 18 f., 20; a subversive factor in the Late Republic, 71 f.; popular elections abolished, 119
- Auctoritas, nature of, 34 f., 112–13; and libertas, 35, 112; and dignitas, 36; of Augustus, 112–19; of the Senate, 113, 119; of Republican principes, 114
- Augustus, Res Gestae, 100–4, 106; liberation of the State, 100 ff.; constitutional settlement, 107 ff.; potestas, 109–12; auctoritas, 112–19; the title Augustus, 115; cura legum et morum, 116; character of the Augustan Principate, 129; clementia, 152
- Axia*, 13, 14
- Bibulus, M. Calpurnius, 76
- Blossius of Cumae, 45 n.
- Brutus, M. Iunius, attitude to autocracy, 90 f.; view of auctoritas, 112–13; memory worshipped, 126–9, 140
- Caesar, C. Iulius, 37; and the Lex Domitia de Sacerdotiis, 49; attitude to the S.C. Ultimum, 56 f., 60; dictatorship, 56 n., 87–91: “regnum”, 64; First Triumvirate, 76 f.; struggle for dignitas, 77–8; honoured as liberator, 104 n.; clementia, 151
- Caligula, 126, 135, 138, 155
- Capitis Deminutio Media, 3 n., 4
- Capito Cossutianus, Thrasea’s prosecutor, 140
- Carbo, C. Papirius (cos. 120 B.C.), defence of Opimius, 58 f.
- Cassius, C., Longinus (cos. 171 B.C.), 33
- Cassius, C., Longinus, Caesar’s murderer, attitude to Caesar, 90; memory worshipped, 126–9, 140
- Cassius, L., Longinus (tr. pl. 137 B.C.), 40 n.
- Cassius, L., Longinus (tr. pl. 104 B.C.), 49
- Cato, C., 76 n.
- Cato, M., Porcius, Maior, 15, 33 n., 38, 62
- Cato, M., Porcius, Uticensis, opposed extraordinary powers, 63 f.; and the First Triumvirate, 76; laudations of, 89, 161; memory worshipped, 126–9, 140, 142
- Catulus, Q. Lutatius, opposed Pompey’s commands, 63
- Censors, censorship, 27 f.
- Cicero, rule of law, 7; view of egalitarianism, 12; view of sanctity of the home, 29; considered freedom and citizenship indefeasible rights, 30; Pro Sestio, 40 f., 93 f.; De Re Publica, 42 f., 79–83, 86 f., 152 f.; De Legibus,

Cambridge University Press

0521068487 - Libertas as a Political Idea at Rome During the Late Republic and Early Principate

CH. Wirszubski

Index

More information

178

INDEX

- Cicero (cont.)
 42 f., 79, 83 f.; view of secret ballots, 50; view of tribunate, 52; view of homines novi and nobilitas, 53–5; defence of Rabirius, 59 f.; banishment of, 60 n.; assailed for having executed Catiline's associates, 61 n.; attitude to extraordinary executive powers, 61; view of the Lex Manilia, 63; view of Flavius's Land Bill, 73; concordia ordinum, 74; view of Caesar's and Pompey's aims, 64, 78; under the First Triumvirate, 74–7; attitude to Caesar's dictatorship, 88–9, 141; view of Caesar's assassination, 91; cum dignitate otium, 93 f.; praise of Octavian, 101, 102; reputation under the Principate, 128 f.; Pro Ligario, 151; Pro Marcello, 151
- Cinna, L. Cornelius (cos. 87 B.C.), régime of, 62
- Cinna, Cn., pardoned by Augustus, 152
- Citizenship, civitas, coterminous with libertas, 3 f.; embodiment of personal freedom, 5; practically inviolable, 30; meaning in the Social War, 66 f.
- Claudius, 130, 134
- Clementia, 151–3
- Cleopatra, 105, 106
- Clients, voting of, 20, 32
- Clodius, P., Pulcher, 76, 103 n.
- Comitia, see under Assemblies
- Commendatio, 119
- Concordia ordinum, 42, 74
- Constitutio principis, 132
- Consulship, powers checked by tribunes, 23; eligibility of homines novi to, 53 f.; and praetorship, 131
- Contiones, 20
- Conubium, 10 f.
- Cornelius, C. (tr. pl. 67 B.C.), bill on privilegia, 49 f.
- Cura et tutela r.p. universa, 118 n.
- Cura legum et morum, 116
- Cura morum, censorial, 27
- Curio, C., the elder, 76
- Curio, C., the younger, 76
- Cynicism, 144. See also under Kingship
- Decemvirate, 10, 11 n.
- Decius, Q., prosecution of Opimius, 59
- Demetrius the Cynic, 142
- Democracy, 9 f., 13, 72, 73; criticized by Cicero, 81
- Despotism, 143, 164
- Dictatorship, dictator, 22; incompatible with senatorial ascendancy, 56; Caesar's position, 88
- Dignitas, defined, 12 f., 36 f.; and libertas, 14–16; in respect of eligibility for consulship, 53; rivalry for, 77 ff., 86, 98 f., 114, 115; as a sense of duty, 86 f.; as a title to honour, 86 n.; cum dignitate otium, 93 f.; Tacitus's view of, 166 f.
- Dio Chrysostom, 135, 145 n.; attacked philosophy, 143 f.
- Distribution of power, 17 ff., 96, 123, 132
- Dominium, 1, 2
- Dominus, 122 n., 130
- Domitian, 131, 138, 146 n.
- Drusus, son of Tiberius, 125
- Duronius, M. (tr. pl. 97 B.C.), 28
- Dyarchy, 136
- Egalitarianism, 9 f.; Cicero's criticism of, 12 f.
- Electoral freedom, see under Suffrage
- Eleutheria*, 10; compared with libertas, 13
- Enabling Act, see under Lex de Imperio
- Equality, 9
- Executive power, 17; and the People, 20, 48; and the Senate, 21; prerogatives of, 21 f.; constitutional checks of, 22; potestates extraordinariae, 61 ff.
- Extraordinary powers, see under Executive power, Potestas, Imperium
- Factio, 104; paucorum, 39; potentium, 40
- Fideicommissum, 117
- First Triumvirate, 74 ff.
- Flaminius, C. (tr. pl. 232 B.C.), 33
- Flavius, L. (tr. pl. 60 B.C.), 73
- Florus, historian, view of First Triumvirate, 77
- Foreigners, status of, 3
- Franchise, see under Suffrage
- Freedom, of association, 28 f.; of public meetings, 28; of speech, 18 and n., 21, 89; religious, 29. See also under Libertas
- Fregellae, rising of, 67
- Fulvius, M., Flaccus (cos. 125 B.C.), 68 f.

INDEX

179

- Gabinus, A. (tr. pl. 67 B.C.), 49, 63
 Gaius, jurist, 132, 133
 Galba, and the doctrine of adoption, 156, 157, 158
 Germanicus, 125
 Gracchi, regarded as Populares, 39 n.; social reform of, 44 ff.
 Gracchus, C. Sempronius, law to debar deposed magistrates from further office, 49; on maltreatment of Italians, 68
 Gracchus, Ti. Sempronius, agrarian reform of, 45 f.; deposition of tribune by, 47 f.; said to have wished for a regnum, 62
- Helvidius Priscus, C., 147–9
Homines novi, 52 ff.
 Hortensius, orator, defence of Rabirius, 59
Hostis rei publicae, 57 and n., 58
- Imperium, 17; temporary, 22; prorogatio imperii, 22; checked by tribunician veto, 23; extraordinarium, 61 ff.; maius, 109 n.
 Independence, interpretation of, 67 and n.
 Intercessio, 19, 22 and n., 23
 Interrex, 22, 53 n.
Isegoria, 13
Isonomia, 9 f.; different from aequum ius, 13
 Italians, their aims in the Social War, 66 f.
Italica libertas, 67
Ius, agendi, 18; commune, 12; Gentium, 2 n.; naturale, 2 n. See also under Aequum ius
Iustitia, founded on law, 152, 153
- Juvenal, view of nobilitas, 55
- Kings of Rome, elective, 111
 Kingship, Hellenistic philosophy of, 130 n., 133–4; Stoic view of, 145 f.; Platonic-Stoic ideal of, 153; Stoic-Cynic theory of, 155 f.
- Labeo, M. Antistius, jurist, 120, 127, 148
 Laberius, D., poet, 89
 Labienus, T., prosecution of Rabirius, 59
 Latini Iuniani, 3 n.
 Law, rule of, 7 ff., 17; failed in the Late Republic, 96; its nature discussed by Cicero, 83 ff.; paramourty of, 129, 131; princeps supra leges, 130 ff.; as the guardian of civic rights, 151. See also under Ius
 Lepidus, M. Aemilius (cos. 78 B.C.), 52, 92
 Lepidus, M' Aemilius (cos. A.D. 11), 166
 Lex, leges, Aelia Sentia, 2 n.; Agrariae, 44 ff.; Annalis, 48, 61, 62; Cassia Tabellaria, 20, 33 n.; Coelia, 20; Cornelia de xx quaestoribus, 43; de Imperio (Enabling Act), 133, see also under S.C. de Imperio Vespasiani; Domitia de sacerdotiis, 49; XII Tabularum, 18 n.; Fruentariae, 44 f.; Gabinia (139 B.C.), 20, 33 n.; Gabinia (67 B.C.), 63; Hortensia, 17 n.; imperfectae, 17; Iudiciariae, 44; Lunia, 3 n.; Maenia, 19; Manilia de Imperio Cn. Pompei, 63; Oppia (215 B.C.), 27; Papiria (131 B.C.), 20; Porcia, 25, 59, 60; Publilia, 19; Sempronia de provinciis consularibus, 23; Sempronia (concerning provocatio), 59; Sumptuariae, 27 f.; Tabellariae, 20, 33 n., 50; Valeria de provocazione, 25
 Libel law, 18 n.
 Libertas, contrasted with slavery, 1–2; definitions of, 2, 8; civic, not natural, 2, 3 f., 7; independence and autonomy, 4 f.; republicanism, 5, 66; distinct from licentia, 7; dependent upon the rule of law, 7, 122; consistent with restraint, 8; a right and a duty, 8; self-reliance, 9, 168, 169; aequa libertas, 9–15; identified with aequum ius, 11; different from eleutheria, 13; relation to dignitas, 14 and n., 15 ff.; lower limit of political rights, 14; safeguards of, 23; protection of the liberties of individual citizens, 24 ff.; practically inviolable, 30; not implying self-government, 34; the freedom to choose an auctor, 35; in the propaganda of the Gracchi, 46 and n.; involved in the struggle for secret ballots, 50; involved in the issue over the S.C. Ultimum, 58 f.; in the controversy between Optimates and Populares, 64 f.; as conceived by Latins and Allies in the Social War, 66 f., 70; under Caesar's dictatorship, 88 f.; relation to auctoritas, 112 f.;

- Libertas (cont.)
 opposition to the Principate, 124 ff., esp. 135; Libertas Restituta, 124; realized in the conduct of a man as the courage to be free, 140, 147, 164–5, 166; Stoic influence upon, 146 f.; libertas publica, 158–9; relation to the doctrine of adoption, 158; reconciliation with the Principate, 167, 169 f.; libertas Augusti, 170
- Licentia, as distinct from libertas, 7 f.
- Livia Augusta, 134
- Livius, M., Drusus, the elder, 68
- Livy, libertas, 9; aequa libertas, 10; propaganda of homines novi, 54; republican sympathies, 127
- Lucan, on conflict between liberty and Caesar, 124
- Macer, C. Licinius (tr. pl. 73 B.C.), 51 f., 92
- Magistratus, 17; and the Senate, 21; prerogative affected by the deposition of a tribune, 47
- Manumission, 1 n., 2, 3
- Marius, successive commands of, 62
- Maternus, 146 n.
- Metellus Celer, Q. Caecilius, 103 n.
- Mixed form of government, 31, 161 f.; its significance in Cicero's theory, 82
- Moderatio, 15, 153 n.; inherent in libertas, 7 f.
- Musonius Rufus, 144
- Natural law, Cicero's doctrine of, 84 f.
- Nero, 134–5, 138–40, 142–3, 155, 159
- Nerva, 157
- Nobilitas, nobles, ascendancy of, 32 f.; possessed power without privileges, 34; notion defined, 37; destroyed the harmony between dignitas and libertas, 37 f.; exclusiveness, 38; and homines novi, 53 f.; and the doctrine of adoption, 158
- Nomos empsychos, 133 f.
- Nursia, punishment of, by Octavian, 101
- Occentatio, 18 n.
- Octavian, see under Augustus
- Opimius, L., trial of, 58 f.
- Opposition to the Principate, 124; extent and motives, 125–6, 129, 136; philosophic, 138
- Optimates, opposed secret ballots, 20, 50; defined, 39 and n.; Cicero's statement of their aims, 40 f.; advocated senatus auctoritas, 44; opposed Ti. Gracchus, 46; attitude to the tribunate, 51; and homines novi, 53 f.; supported the S.C. Ultimum, 58 f.; attitude to extraordinary executive powers, 61–5; propaganda of, 92, 93 f.
- Optimus Princeps, 153–4
- Otium, 92–4; cum dignitate, 41, 93 f.
- Panaetius, 99 n.
- Par potestas, 22–3; affected by the deposition of Octavius by Gracchus, 48; and Caesar's dictatorship, 88; as regards Augustus, 109 f.
- Parrhesia, 13
- Patria potestas, 1
- Patricians, 10, 11
- Patrum auctoritas, 19
- Pauci, as political term, 39–40
- Pax, 93, 94, 97–8, 105
- Philosophers, alleged hostility to the State, 142; persecution of, 144. See also under Stoicism
- Piso, L., and Tiberius, 141
- Piso, L., pontifex, 166
- Pisonian conspiracy, 126
- Plebiscitum Duillianum, 25
- Plebs, plebeians, 10, 11
- Pliny, Panegyric, 167–9, 171
- Pollio, C. Asinius, 74, 90 n.
- Pompey, proposal to make him dictator, 56; command against Sertorius, 63; Lex Gabinia and Lex Manilia, 63; nobility unwilling to grant him extraordinary powers, 64; “Pompey's Principate”, 64; First Triumvirate, 74, 76, 77; Civil War—a struggle for dignitas, 78
- Populus Romanus, 18; power diminished, 32. See also under Sovereignty
- Populares, defined, 39 f.; and Leges Agrariae, 44 ff.; and secret ballots, 50; restoration of tribunician powers, 51 f.; and homines novi, 53 f.; and S.C. Ultimum, 58–61; and extraordinary executive powers, 61–5; and the Assembly, 72; propaganda of, 91 f., 94; phraseology of, 104
- Positive law, 133–4

- Potestas, ad tempus, 22, 23, 88, see also under par potestas; extraordinaria, defined, 61; dangerous potentialities of, 62; in the controversy between Optimates and Populares, 61–5; of the Princes, 109–12
- Power, demoralizing influence of its possession, 154. See also under Distribution of power, Executive power, Imperium, Separation of Powers, Potestas
- Praefectus urbi, 22
- Praetorship, 131
- Princes, in Republican times, 114 f.; not an official title, 115
- Principate, not foreshadowed in Cicero's De Re Publica, 87; removed rivalry for dignitas, 98 f.; influence of Greek thought upon, 99 n.; and Roman republicanism, 107–16, 121 f.; ancient views of Augustus's settlement, 107 f.; potestas, 109–12; auctoritas, 112–19; S.C. de Imperio Vespasiani, 118; cura et tutela r.p. universa, 118 n.; character of the Augustan P., 129; the Princes a citizen, 130; statio principis, 130 n.; princeps supra leges, 130 ff.; and the Senate, 136 ff.; became tyranny under Nero, 143; succession by adoption, 155 f.; not a mixed form of government, 161 f.; Tacitus's view of, 161–3; enlightened absolutism, 169 f.
- Privilegia, 14 f.; law about, 49 f.
- Provocatio, 24 f., 26, 27; for Italians and Latins, 68 f.
- Rabirius, trial of, 59 f.
- Regnum, absolute monarchy, 5; as a term of political invective, 23, 62 f.; the alleged aim of Ti. Gracchus, 49, and of Caesar, 87 f.; denoting unconstitutional power, 62–4, 110 n., 121 f.
- Republic, republicanism, identified with political freedom, 5, 6; supremacy of the law, 9; constitution, 17 ff., 61; Middle R. in fact aristocratic, 31 f.; failure of, 95 f.; as a way of life, 88, 90; competition for power and pre-eminence, 114, 115; and the Augustan Principate, 107–16, 121 f.; restoration of, contemplated after Caligula's death, 126
- Res publica, meaning of, 14, 80 f., 82 n., 121 and n.; under the Augustan Principate, 121 f.; embodied in the imperial Senate, 136, 138; and the doctrine of adoption, 157
- Responsa prudentium, 117
- Rights of Man, 69, 146 f.
- Rullus, P. Servilius, agrarian law of, 72 f.
- Sallust, view of homines novi and nobilitas, 53, 55; view of the contention between Optimates and Populares, 65
- Sanctity of the home, 29 f.
- Saturninus, L. Appuleius, 62
- Scipio, Africanus Maior, 11
- Scipio, Aemilianus, view of libertas, 38; elected consul contrary to the Lex Annalis, 48, 62; view of Ti. Gracchus, 59 n.
- Scribonianus, Furius Camillus, 126
- Securitas, and libertas publica, 159
- Senate, procedure, 20 f.; functions, 21; auctoritas senatus, 21, 40 ff., 58 f., 113; Senatus Consultum, 21, 35 n.; S.C. Ultimum, 55–61; ascendancy of, 23, 32 f.; contemplated restoration of the Republic after Caligula's death, 126; transformation under the Empire, 136; libertas senatus, 137
- Senatus consultum de Imperio Vespasiani, 118, 135
- Seneca, the philosopher, view of nobilitas, 55; attitude to Cato, 127 f.; De Clementia, 134, 151 f.; preached resignation, 146
- Separation of Powers, 17, 131
- Servitus, conceived of by Tacitus as proneness to servility, 164–5. See also under Slavery
- Slander, 18 n.
- Slavery, characteristics of, 1 f.
- Social War, motives of, 67
- Socrates, 130 n., 142, 143
- Sovereignty of the People, 17 f.; incomplete, 32; advocated by the Populares, 47 ff.
- State, and individual, 16 f., 27, 122
- Stoicism, definition of libertas, 8; and Ti. Gracchus, 45 n.; and the Principate, 99 n., 146; regarded as politically dangerous, 142, 143–4, 145, 147; theory of kingship, 145 f., 155 f., 158; contribution to the Rights of Man, 146 f.

Cambridge University Press

0521068487 - Libertas as a Political Idea at Rome During the Late Republic and Early Principate

CH. Wirszubski

Index

More information

182

INDEX

- Suae leges, and autonomy, 4
 Succession to the Principate, 155 ff.
 Suffrage, 20; freedom of, 54, 119 f.
 Sui iuris, concept of, 1
 Sulla, 97, 98 n.; repealed Lex Domitia de sacerdotiis, 49; reformed tribunate, 51; dictatorship of, 56 n., 62; Sullanum regnum, 56, 62, 87; and extraordinary powers, 62 f.
- Tacitus, view of the Principate, 97, 161–3; view of Augustus, 107; Annals, 124, 150 n., 164; view of the Republic, 160 f.; Dialogus de Oratoribus, 160 f.; view of libertas, 163–7; view of despotism, 164 f.
- Thrasea Paetus, 138–43, 146, 150, 165
 Tiberius, view of the Principate, 111 f., 130; abolished elections by the Assemblies, 119; attitude towards the Senate, 137
 Titinius Capito, 127
 Titus, 144
- Trajan, 130, 167 f.
 Tribunate, intercessio, 23; ius auxilii ferendi, 25 ff.; protects freedom, 26; and the Senate, 32 f.; deposition of Octavius by Gracchus, 47 f.; in the controversy between Optimates and Populares, 50 ff.
 Tribunicia potestas, 109, 110 n., 119
 Tyranny, as opposed to true kingship, 145 f., 150
- Ulpian, 132 n., 133
- Varro, M. Terentius, 76
 Vespasian, 147; banished philosophers, 144
 Vestinus, M., Atticus (cos. A.D. 65), 126
Vindicare in libertatem, 103 f., 106
Vindicatio libertatis, 52
 Virgil, 127
 Voting, 19, 20. See also under Suffrage
- Zeno, 143