 E. W. Tristram, English Medieval Wall Painting: the Twelfth Century (Oxford, 1944), pp. 42–4, 134–6, dates this wall-painting c. 1150. The bishop has no halo, so can hardly be intended for a saint. Kempley was in the diocese of Hereford, and had a link with St Guthlac's priory (Taxatio, p. 161). Gilbert Foliot is thus a possible candidate. But the date is far from certain, and Mr Gethyn-Jones tells us that there are grounds for an earlier date (possibly c. 1120; see his St Mary's Church, Kempley, and its paintings, I (1961), pp. 13, 65; a fuller study will appear in vol. II).

PREFACE

Early in 1940 Dom Adrian Morey wrote to Z. N. Brooke to say that he was thinking of undertaking an edition of the letters of Gilbert Foliot. Dr Brooke replied that he had had the same idea—each had conceived it as an effort to refresh his mind in his scanty leisure—and a collaboration was happily arranged. The chief manuscripts were not available until 1945, so that work moved slowly for some years. In 1945–6 serious work on the texts was begun; but in October 1946 the senior editor died. Since then the work has been continued by Dom Adrian Morey and C. N. L. Brooke. Dom Morey has been helped on by two years' freedom from administrative duties in 1950–2; C. N. L. Brooke by some years as a Research Fellow in Gonville and Caius College and by a term's leave of absence in the University of Liverpool. Both have been held back by many other calls on their time and by much other work. Z. N. Brooke and Dom Morey had made some progress with the letters before the former's death, and had begun to collect a list of charters, although it was only some years later that a definite decision was made to include them. The main manuscript of the letters, Bodleian E Musaeo 249, includes a substantial number of charters, and so we had the choice of presenting these alone or adding charters from other sources; since the interest of a considerable number of the letters lies in diocesan administration, and the number of surviving charters of Gilbert Foliot is quite exceptional for a diocesan bishop of this period, there seemed little doubt that the right course was to include all the available charters. For the most part the study of the manuscripts, detailed notes on people and events referred to in the letters and charters, and other notes necessary for an edition are in this book; a fuller commentary on a few especially interesting letters, and a study of Gilbert Foliot and his milieu, are contained in a companion volume, Gilbert Foliot and His Letters. We have tried to reduce to the minimum repetition between the volumes, and to include fairly copious cross-references. This has led to some divisions of function: thus notes on most of the people who figure prominently in the letters are contained in the Biographical Index to this volume, but those on men who were members of the chapter of Hereford or St Paul's or clerks in Gilbert Foliot's household are contained in appendix iv of Gilbert Foliot and His Letters.

Nearly twenty years have passed since the death of Z. N. Brooke, but his help and inspiration have been in our minds throughout, and his own work and notes were of direct use in many parts of this book; Mrs Brooke lived to know that the book was virtually completed and to give us much encouragement, though it is our special regret that she did not see it in print. Our warm thanks are also due to Professor David Knowles, for constant encouragement and guidance, to Dr Rosalind Brooke for equally constant help and encouragement, to the late Professor W. Holtzmann for generously providing much of the material used in appendix viii, to Professor and Mrs C. R. Cheney for references to and transcripts of a number of charters, to Dr R. W. Hunt, the custodian of our chief manuscript, for much help, and in particular for reading chapter 1 of the Introduction and giving us invaluable guidance and advice, and to Dr Eleanor Rathbone for her early and lively interest in the work and for many references.

Professor Brooke thanks his colleagues in the School of History of Liverpool University who have borne patiently with Gilbert Foliot and given him valued help, and particularly Dr D. J. A. Matthew and Dr H. Mayr-Harting for help in pursuit of charters, Miss Vera London for generous help with the proofs, and Dr A. R. Myers for taking the Department off his hands so that a period of continuous work was possible; and also the School's secretaries for their labours in typing the manuscript, and his three sons for help with the index. We are grateful for generous help to all the following: Dr Patricia Barnes, Mr John Cain, Sir Charles Clay, Dr Helen Clover, The Reverend J. and Mrs Collins, Dr J. Conway Davies, Dr G. R. C. Davis, Mr R. H. C. Davis, the Reverend J. C. Dickinson, Miss B. Dodwell, Dr and Mrs C. Duggan, Mademoiselle Marthe Dulong, The Reverend J. E. Gethyn-Jones, Miss Diana Greenway, Dr B. R. Kemp, the late Dom E. Kendall, Professor S. Kuttner, Mr R. E. Latham, Dom Jean Leclercq, Professor G. G. Meersseman, O.P., Dr C. D. Ross, Professor A. Saltman, Professor P. Stein, Mr P. Walne, Professor F. Wormald. In various ways many other friends and colleagues have helped us through the years, and we hope they will forgive us that we cannot here give a full list. But we should like to make particular mention of the Librarians and Archivists and their staffs in the Libraries and Archives from which our material was drawn, from whom we have had many acts of kindness, and who have helped us to obtain the leave of their institutions to print documents preserved in them. We have had kind permission for this from the following: The Prefect of the Vatican Library, The Bodleian Library, Oxford, The Trustees of the British Museum, The Librarian of the National Library of Wales, the Deans and Chapters of Canterbury Cathedral, Gloucester Cathedral, Hereford Cathedral, Christ Church, Oxford, St Paul's Cathedral, Salisbury Cathedral, Wells Cathedral, Westminster Abbey and Worcester Cathedral; the Diocesan Registrar of Hereford; Messieurs the Archivistes of the Archives Départementales, Eure and Maine-et-Loire, the Town Clerk and Museum Committee of Colchester, the Librarians of Shrewsbury Borough Library and the Guildhall Library, London, the County Archivist of Essex, the Master and Fellows of Balliol College, the Warden and Fellows of New College, the President and Fellows of St John's College, Oxford and the Provost and Fellows of King's College, Cambridge, and the Board of Governors of St Bartholomew's Hospital. Transcripts of Crown copyright records in the Public Record Office appear by permission of the Controller of H.M. Stationery Office. We should also like to thank the Librarian and Assistant Librarian to the Dean and Chapter of Exeter and the Direttore of the Biblioteca Universitaria Alessandrina in Rome. Gilbert Foliot himself worked and worshipped in what is now Gloucester Cathedral, in Hereford Cathedral and in Old St Paul's, and it is a special pleasure to record our thanks to the successive Librarians of these three Cathedrals for their generous kindness to us.

PREFACE

We would also like to acknowledge the kind permission of Dr Ernest Blake and the Council of the Royal Historical Society to reproduce nos. 395–7 from Dr Blake's edition of the Liber Eliensis, and of the editor of the English Historical Review and Messrs Longmans, Green and Co. Ltd to reproduce the substantial extract from our article in that review which forms appendix III.

Our notes to Nos. 334 ff. have benefited from the kind help of Dr B. R. Kemp. A full account of the early endowment of Reading Abbey is given in his Ph.D. thesis (Reading University), completed while this book was in proof.

Downside Abbey, Gonville and Caius College, and Liverpool University have provided the setting for our work, and we are most grateful to those institutions for their support and financial assistance in the preparation of the book and to many colleagues in them for help and encouragement. Dom Morey has to thank the Leverhulme Trustees for a generous research grant, Professor Brooke the Liverpool University Joint Committee on Research for help from its funds.

For the plates we owe thanks to the Reverend J. E. Gethyn-Jones (plate I), King's College, Cambridge (plate II) and the Bodleian Library, Oxford (plates III and IV).

Finally, we are grateful to the Syndics of the Cambridge University Press for undertaking the publication of this book, and to their staff for their help and skill. Its publication has been made possible by generous grants from the Marc Fitch Fund, the Master and Fellows of Gonville and Caius College, the University of Liverpool, and from a friend who wishes to remain anonymous. To all these we offer our warm thanks.
