

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-08919-7 - The Russian Landed Gentry and the Peasant Emancipation of 1861

Terence Emmons

Table of Contents

More information

Contents

Preface page vii

Key to abbreviations xi

PART I: THE LANDED GENTRY, SERFDOM
AND FIRST STEPS TOWARD EMANCIPATION

- | | |
|--|----|
| 1 Introduction: some social and institutional characteristics of the landed gentry before 1861 | 3 |
| 2 The gentry as serf-owners and first steps toward emancipation | 19 |
| 3 The government's first steps and the gentry | 47 |

PART II: THE PROVINCIAL GENTRY COMMITTEES,
1858–9

- | | |
|---|-----|
| 4 The Tver landed gentry prepare for peasant emancipation | 73 |
| 5 The liberal program elsewhere in Russia | 152 |

PART III: THE GENTRY VERSUS THE BUREAUCRACY,
1858–61

- | | |
|--|-----|
| 6 The government and the gentry, April 1858–November 1859 | 209 |
| 7 The provincial gentry assembled and the Second Convocation of gentry deputies in Petersburg (December 1859–April 1860) | 266 |

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-08919-7 - The Russian Landed Gentry and the Peasant Emancipation of 1861

Terence Emmons

Table of Contents

More information*Contents*PART IV: THE GENTRY AFTER EMANCIPATION, 1861–5

8	Promulgation of emancipation and the Tver gentry in 1861–2	page 321
9	The variety of gentry views and the ‘Constitutionalist Campaign’ of 1861–2	350
10	Government response to gentry demands and the decline of the gentry opposition movement	394
	Conclusion	414
	Appendixes	425
	Bibliography	463
	Index	475

PLATES

1	The Tver provincial committee majority (1858–9)	facing page 336
2	The thirteen peace mediators (1862)	352