ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Most of the papers collected in this volume were originally presented at a Symposium, 'Landlord and Peasant in Latin America and the Caribbean', held in December 1972 at King's College, Cambridge, under the joint auspices of the Centre of Latin American Studies, University of Cambridge, and the Institute of Latin American Studies, University of London, and with financial assistance of the Joint Council for Latin American Studies of the American Social Science Research Council.

More than for most books, it is true to say that innumerable people have helped in one way or another with the preparation of this volume. Our special thanks are due to the following: Professor Christopher Platt and his successor as Director of the Centre of Latin American Studies at Cambridge, Dr Brian van Arkadie; Dr Harold Blakemore of the Institute of Latin American Studies, London; and Dr Bryce Wood of the Ford Foundation in New York. Hilary Prior provided most valuable assistance not only in organizing the symposium but also in the early preparation of the manuscript, a task which was later completed by Marion Piper. The maps, graphs, and plates were designed and prepared by Ric Bryant, Chris Cromarty, and Alick Newman, whose invaluable skill, advice and patience has been much appreciated. Malcolm Deas of St Antony's College, Oxford, and the staff of the Cambridge University Press have been extremely helpful and understanding at all stages of the preparation of this book. Finally we would like to thank all those who participated in the original meeting and those who have subsequently contributed to the volume; their willingness to exchange ideas and to proffer and accept advice has not only lightened our editorial load but also made it a rewarding and worthwhile experience.
