

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-09461-0 - Studies in the Modern Russian Language: 4. The Expression of the Passive Voice and 5. Agreement of the Verb-Predicate with a Collective Subject

W. Harrison and J. Mullen

Table of Contents

More information

CONTENTS

Expression of the Passive Voice, by W. HARRISON

1	Introductory remarks	page 5
2	General outline of ways of expressing the passive voice	5
3	Expression of the passive voice by reflexive verbs	7
A	The scope of the use of reflexive verbs in expressing the imperfective passive	7
B	Limitations on the use of reflexive verbs to express the imperfective passive	9
C	The use of reflexive verbs to express the perfective passive	15
4	The use of passive participles	22
A	The use of the present passive participle	22
B	The use of the imperfective past passive participle	27
C	The use of the perfective past passive participle	34
5	Expression of passive ideas by active constructions	37
6	Comparison of English passive statements with Russian translations	39
A	Imperfective aspect	40
B	Perfective aspect	43
7	Conclusions	45
8	Bibliography	46

Agreement of the Verb-Predicate with a Collective subject, by J. MULLEN

Text	47
Bibliography	59