

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-09606-5 - Men in Mid-Career: A study of British Managers and Technical Specialists

Cyril Sofer

Table of Contents

More information

Contents

Acknowledgments	page vii
Preface	ix
1 The work preoccupations of executives	1
2 Persons as organizational resources	12
3 The career as a personal experience	39
4 The bureaucratized organization as an occupational environment	71
5 Functions of work roles	85
6 The personal significance of the job	106
7 The personality of the industrial manager	131
8 The Autoline and Novoplast companies: structure, operations, ideology and personnel institutions	150
9 Composition and representativeness of the samples studied	180
10 The role of the job and the meanings of work	190
11 Evaluation of the job and the employing organization	215
12 The career in retrospect and prospect	234
13 The company in the life space	252
14 Career concerns and hazards	270
15 The technical specialist in the industrial organization	292
16 Advancement within the organization	309
17 Interaction between the executive, his colleagues and his employing organization	338
Appendices
1 Interviewing schedule used with Autoline and Novoplast samples	353

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-09606-5 - Men in Mid-Career: A study of British Managers and Technical Specialists

Cyril Sofer

Table of Contents

More informationContents

II	Characteristic functions of members of sample	356
III	Occupations of fathers of men in sample	363
IV	Descriptive details of men at Autoline and Novoplast	365
V	Effects of differences in occupation and education	369
	Author index	371
	Subject index	374