ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Grateful acknowledgement is made to the staff of library and archive collections in Bolivia, Britain and the United States who have afforded me every assistance in the preparation of this book. I am similarly greatly indebted to the many members of staff in Bolivian Government Ministries, and to transport and other officials in Bolivia and neighbouring States for their interest and practical assistance, and for the opportunities provided to examine documentary and statistical material. In addition to members of the Bolivian Embassy staff in London and those of the British and U.S. Embassies in Bolivia, my thanks are due in large measure to the many local officials, private individuals and friends throughout Bolivia and its adjacent territories who gave so freely of their time in discussion, and willingly shared with me the benefits of their own indispensable knowledge and experience.

Further appreciation is expressed for grants in aid of research from the Central Research Fund of the University of London and the Delegacy of Goldsmiths' College. The book has been published with the help of a grant from the Latin American Publications Fund. I am also indebted to Professor W. G. East who supervised early research, to the editors of this series, Dr J. Street and the late Professor D. M. Joslin, and to the editorial adviser Professor C. T. Smith for their advice and helpful comment. Finally, and especially, I thank my husband for his ready assistance and encouragement at all times.
