ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I should like to thank the British Academy (for a grant enabling me to explore the dossier for L'Éducation sentimentale), the University of Nottingham (for a period of study leave), and friends and students at Nottingham, Warwick and University College Dublin who have taken an interest in my research. I am especially indebted to Roger Huss, Malcolm Bowie and Jonathan Culler.

GENERAL EDITOR'S PREFACE

This series aims at providing a new forum for the discussion of major critical or scholarly topics within the field of French studies. It differs from most similar-seeming ventures in the degree of freedom which contributing authors are allowed and in the range of subjects covered. For the series is not concerned to promote any single area of academic specialisation or any single theoretical approach. Authors are invited to address themselves to problems, and to argue their solutions in whatever terms seem best able to produce an incisive and cogent account of the matter in hand. The search for such terms will sometimes involve the crossing of boundaries between familiar academic disciplines, or the calling of those boundaries into dispute. Most of the studies will be written especially for the series, although from time to time it will also provide new editions of outstanding works which were previously out of print, or originally published in languages other than English or French.
