PREFACE

I should like to acknowledge here my indebtedness to all those – too many to name – who, by the help of their interest, encouragement, friendship or service, have made the writing of this book possible. I should particularly like to thank the superiors of my branch of the Dominican Order, The English Congregation of St Catherine of Siena, for allowing me the time for the research involved, and to my own community, first at Portobello Road, London, and later at Ealing, for its support throughout.

My thanks are also due to Drs G. T. Cavaliero, J. W. Goetz, D. M. Thompson and P. J. Sherry, and to Professors Dorothy Emmet and N. L. A. Lash for discussing with me certain aspects of the book during its early stages; and to Professor D. M. McKinnon and Dr Stephen Prickett for their encouraging reception of the completed manuscript. To all these I am indebted for many helpful criticisms and suggestions.

Most of all, however, my thanks are due to Professor W. B. Gallie, without whose interest and friendship this book would neither have been begun nor ended. The stimulus to thought provided first by his teaching, and then by correspondence and conversations over many years has been largely instrumental in the book's genesis, while his constant readiness to discuss with me the problems involved was indispensable to its progress. Without this help, which invariably gave me fresh insight into the questions tackled, this book would have been by much the poorer.

A NOTE ON NOTES

Whenever it has been possible to do so briefly, I have given the reference to both longer and shorter quotations in brackets within the text, rather than as footnotes. For this purpose I have used abbreviations for those titles which recur frequently. A key to these will be found at the beginning of the notes to the chapter in which they first, and most often, occur. Full details of editions used will be found in the Bibliography.
