

Contents

Introduction	page 1
 Part I: Historical background
1 The Chinese pattern of industrialisation in comparative perspective	21
 Part II: The political environment
2 The moderate phase (1949–50)	67
3 From radicalism to stability (1951–3)	100
 Part III: Administrative rationality
4 Planning and accounting	123
5 Incentives and labour agreements	146
6 A discrete command structure	184
 Part IV: Checks and balances
7 Checks on managerial bureaucratism and authoritarianism	217
Conclusion	253
Appendix I: Some examples of wage point formulation	281
Appendix II: Collective contract of the glass factory under the Lushun–Talien Far East Electronics Bureau	283
Appendix III: Two patriotic compacts	289
Brief biographical data	291
Notes to the text	294
Bibliography	327
Index	355