ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I am above all indebted to Mr James Neville for his kind invitation to prepare his father's Memoir for publication, and for his patience in awaiting its appearance. I am most grateful to him, and other members of the Neville family, for their willingness to answer questions and supply information: Mrs James Neville, Mrs G. H. Neville; Mrs G. Neville and Mrs Stone; and for much help from G. H. Neville's niece, Mrs Jean Temple. Mr Roy Wilson kindly supplied me with a copy of his father's recollection of Lawrence and Neville.

A debt of special gratitude is owed to Mr David Philips, Keeper of Fine Art at the Castle Museum, Nottingham, for his part in locating the Memoir and arranging to borrow it for the 'Young Bert' exhibition of 1972.

I am also grateful to Professor James T. Boulton of the University of Birmingham, and to Mr Michael Black and Mrs Lindeth Vasey of the Cambridge University Press, for reading the work in draft and making many helpful suggestions.

My special thanks go to Dr Helen Baron for much advice and assistance throughout the preparation of this edition.
