

Contents

Acknowledgements	vii
1 Introduction	1
The 'mystery' of Timbuktu	2
Niger, Sahara and Sudan	4
The 'history' of Timbuktu	9
City and scholars	14
2 Genesis of a social tradition	22
Growth of a commercial settlement	26
The emergence of patrician families	34
The threat of Sunni 'Ali	41
Restoration of the patriciate	46
3 The scholars as a learned elite	58
Transmission of learning	60
Academic pursuits of scholars	74
Hierarchy of learned status	81
4 The scholars as administrators	94
The institution of the judgeship: al-qadā'	96
Parochial leadership: imāms and mosques	108
The scholars as a semi-corporate Jamā'a	120
5 The scholars as regional notables	126
Wealth, status and influence	130
Ideological factors	147
Learning and status	158
6 Persistence of the patriciate	168
Pressures against Morocco and the Ruma	174
Independence from Morocco	184

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-13630-3 - Social History of Timbuktu: The Role of Muslim Scholars and Notables 1400-1900

Elias N. Saad

Table of Contents

More information

---

vi Contents

The emergence of Ruma notables	196
The resurgence of scholars	209
7 Summary and conclusions	224
Appendices	234
Notes	254
Glossary	296
Bibliography	298
Index	308