Happy Birthday!

"I've lost all my friends," the man said to himself. He was sitting in his room, all alone. In front of him was a small cake with a candle on it. It was his birthday. "Nobody has called me," he murmured. "Nobody has sent me a card. And nobody has come to visit me."

"Maybe it's all your fault," a voice said in his head. "You haven't had any time for your friends. You've worked hard all year, writing your book. And now there is nobody to celebrate with you." The man sighed. It was true. When his friends called him, he was always busy.

Suddenly the doorbell rang. "Aha!" the man said (he often talked to himself because he had nobody to talk to), "maybe a package has come for me." Slowly he went to the door. Slowly he opened it. "Happy birthday!" Ten of his friends stood at the door. "Time to celebrate!"

Later, the man said "Thank you," to his friends. "I've never had a better birthday!" Then he closed the door behind them, picked up his book, and threw it into the garbage can.

Writing for your Portfolio

- 3 Read the letter and then write a reply.

Dear Olivia,

I haven't heard from you for a long time.

Well, I just wanted to say hello and to give you some news. I'm fine. I play tennis every day and I'm sure I'll win the school championship next month. What about you? Are you still playing?

Now, here's the really important news. Guess what? Lisa has a new best friend.

Of course, Susan is pretty upset about that. (Do you remember Susan? She's the girl who was Lisa's best friend before.)

So what's new in your part of the world?

Write back!!!

Bye for now,

Alex
