3 Read the text and circle T (True) or F (False).

My brother, Mark, is one of the most superstitious people I know, but Mark himself doesn't seem to be aware of it. If he saw a black cat in front of him, he would cross the street to get away from it. He has been known to put his life in danger by walking in the street, rather than risk going under a ladder. He never goes anywhere without the chain he wears around his neck because he believes that it protects him from bad spirits. Oh, and he always goes out the same door he went in, since he believes it's bad luck to use a different one. Almost everything Mark does is decided by how superstitious he feels about it. However, if you were to ask him about his superstitions, Mark would deny them. He's just normal, he would tell you.

Entry Test

The other day, Mark woke up and told me that he had had a dream about the ocean. For years, he believed that dreams about the ocean meant that he would go on a journey. All day, Mark was sure that he was going to receive news about a trip somewhere. Every time the phone rang, he would run to answer it. When no news came, Mark started to feel uncomfortable. Then, at six o'clock in the evening, he came rushing into my room. He told me that he had received a text message from our mom. "That's it!" he said excitedly, "My dream has come true!" Mark explained that Mom had told him to come to her office, so they could go shopping for some new clothes for school. What was Mark's big journey? A long voyage to an exotic island? Or maybe a flight to some romantic European city? Actually, it was a trip to the mall. Some journey!

- 1 Mark realizes that he is too superstitious. T/F
- 2 Mark always avoids black cats. T/F
- 3 Mark thinks it is dangerous to walk in the street. T/F
- 4 Mark has a lucky chain that he always wears. T/F
- 5 All the doors in Mark's house are the same. T/F
- 6 Mark's sister thinks he is normal. T/F
- 7 Mark didn't feel comfortable when he had to travel. T/F
- 8 Mark's mom asked him to meet her. T/F
- 9 Mark heard that he was going to take a plane or boat trip. T/F
- 10 Mark was right about the long journey. T/F

Skills

Reading

1 Read the email and circle the correct answers.

Hi Helen,

Thanks for your email. You must be tired after doing all that studying for your final exams. You should go and do something that will make you feel good, like have your hair done. I haven't finished taking all my finals yet. I just have two left, on Monday and Wednesday, and then I'm going to be free for the whole summer! I haven't decided where to go on vacation yet, but I might go to Oregon or California. I have cousins in both places and they've both invited me to visit. I think I'd rather go to California because it's closer to me. I don't like the idea of taking a plane. If I went to Oregon, would you be interested in coming, too? My cousin there told me I could bring a friend if I wanted to, and that he would introduce us to a lot of his friends.

Let me know what you think.

Jane

- 1 Jane thinks Helen ought to
 - a study more.
 - b do something relaxing.
 - c think about becoming a beautician.
- 2 Jane's finals
 - a will finish later in the summer.
 - b will finish on Wednesday.
 - c have already finished.
- 3 If Jane goes to California,
 - a she will visit her cousin.
 - b her cousin will go to Oregon.
 - c she will go with her cousin.
- 4 According to Jane, going to California is preferable because
 - a the vacation would be cheaper.
 - b she wouldn't have to fly.
 - c she has more ideas about what to do there.
- 5 If Helen and Jane went to Oregon, they
 - a would have to drive a lot.
 - b would meet new people.
 - c would have to bring a third friend.

Tapescript

Man: Tell us about the best programs on TV this weekend, Sylvie.

Woman: OK. The first program is on Friday night at eight, and it's called All or Nothing. This is a movie made for teenagers, though I have to say that it might be somewhat boring for older viewers. It's about a group of children who take part in a national competition for schools. The movie shows the difficulties and successes they have.

Man: Any famous actors in it?

Woman: No, no big names. Also on Friday, if you're not planning to go to bed early, there's the music show Golden Revolver, which should have something for everyone. That's at eleven thirty, and it's on for two hours, so it goes late. But if you can stay awake until one thirty, this week you'll hear some great music. One guest on the show is Billy Cyrus, who'll be talking in an interview about his daughter Miley. We'll see videos of Miley as well, of course. Live in the studio, there'll also be Delays, a really cool English band. In the Flashback part of the show, where they always look at important music recordings in history, they'll have music from the early 1980s.

Man: Sounds good! I'll be watching that!

Woman: Moving on to Saturday night, there's You Have Style, the country's most popular talent show. It's even more popular now that Tim Burrell, who was one of the best dancers in the country, has joined the panel of presenters and judges. The contestants are reaching the finals this week, so millions will be watching to see if their favorite performers will make it. Last week's 12 performers were watched by more than 6 million people, so it really is popular! That's at the usual time of eight o'clock.

Man: Is that it for Saturday, or is there anything else?

Woman: No, that's about it. But on Sunday, we've picked a documentary to tell you about. It's called The End of the Planet? and it's about the environment. It starts at eight thirty and finishes in time for the evening news at nine.

Man: What kinds of things can we expect to see?

Woman: Well, it talks about energy and how we can save it, and also about recycling and how we can stop making so much waste. It should be really interesting.
