

CONTENTS

Illustrations . . . . .	page ix
Tables . . . . .	.xi
Preface and Acknowledgements . . . . .	.xiii
1 Introduction . . . . .	1
1.1 Introduction	1
1.2 Meanings that Lie Beneath the Material Remains	2
1.3 Relevance of Archaeology to Medical History	5
1.4 The Reason for This Book	7
1.5 Design of This Book	8
1.6 Limits of the Text	10
1.7 Conclusion	10
Consideration Questions	11
Further Reading	11
2 Background to Archaeological Theories and Methods . . . . .	12
2.1 Defining Medical History and Archaeology	12
2.2 A Modern Example of Meanings Derived from Materials: A Visit to My Doctor's Office	13
2.3 Evolving Archaeological Theory	16
2.4 Introduction to Field Methods	20
Box 1. Excavation of a Subsidiary Healing Sanctuary to the Goddess Hygieia	21
2.5 Conclusion	28
Consideration Questions	28
Further Reading	28
3 Text as Material Culture . . . . .	29
3.1 Introduction	29

3.2	The Need to Study Material Remains	30
3.3	Interdisciplinary Approaches to Historical Period Archaeology	31
3.4	Working with Texts	34
3.5	Textual Sources as Material Culture	36
3.6	Text as Material Culture	52
3.7	Conclusion	53
	Box 2. Accessing Collections of Textual Remains	54
	Consideration Questions	56
	Further Reading	56
4	Images . . . . .	58
4.1	Introduction	58
4.2	Art History and Classical Archaeology	60
4.3	Anthropology of Art	65
4.4	General Questions to be Addressed of Art Objects	67
4.5	Specific Questions to be Addressed	68
4.6	Conclusion	83
	Consideration Questions	84
	Further Reading	84
5	Small Finds . . . . .	85
5.1	Introduction	85
5.2	Defining the Term Artefact	86
5.3	Problems of Classification and Identification	87
5.4	The Practice of Collecting Information about Material Culture	94
5.5	Interpretations	100
5.6	Conclusion	108
	Consideration Questions	108
	Further Reading	108
6	Healing Spaces . . . . .	110
6.1	Introduction	110
6.2	What Does the Extant Literature Tell Us of Ancient Healing Spaces?	111
6.3	Identifying Sites	115
6.4	Identifying Attitudes towards Medicine and Hygiene in Spaces	126
6.5	Conclusion	134
	Consideration Questions	135
	Further Reading	135

CONTENTS

vii

7	Archaeological Science. . . . .	136
	7.1 Introduction	136
	7.2 The Scientific Division in Archaeology	137
	7.3 Bodily Remains	138
	7.4 Ancient DNA Analysis	148
	7.5 Stable Isotope Analysis	149
	7.6 The Environment	150
	7.7 Archaeobotanical Remains and Residue Samples	154
	7.8 Metal, Ceramic, and Wood Analysis	156
	7.9 Use-wear and Blood Analyses on Tools	157
	7.10 Conclusion	158
	Consideration Questions	158
	Further Reading	158
8	Conclusion . . . . .	160
	Bibliography . . . . .	163
	Index . . . . .	179