

Contents

Acknowledgements	vii
Note on Abbreviations	viii
List of Contributors	x
1 Introduction Jeffrey Fish and Kirk R. Sanders	I
2 Autodidact and student: on the relationship of authority and autonomy in Epicurus and the Epicurean tradition Michael Erler	9
3 Epicurus' theological innatism David Sedley	29
4 Epicurus on the gods David Konstan	53
5 Not all politicians are Sisyphus: what Roman Epicureans were taught about politics Jeffrey Fish	72
6 Epicurean virtues, Epicurean friendship: Cicero vs the Herculaneum papyri David Armstrong	105
7 Cicero's use and abuse of Epicurean theology Holger Essler	129
8 The necessity of anger in Philodemus' On Anger Elizabeth Asmis	152

Cambridge University Press
978-0-521-19478-5 - Epicurus and the Epicurean Tradition
Edited by Jeffrey Fish and Kirk R. Sanders
Table of Contents
More information

vi	Contents
9	Philodemus, Seneca and Plutarch on anger Voula Tsouna	183
10	Philodemus and the fear of premature death Kirk R. Sanders	211
	Bibliography	235
	General index	252
	Index of passages	257