

Contents

List of tables	page x
Preface	xi
List of abbreviations	xiv
Introduction	I
The UN Decade for Women	1
The Arab world and the UN Decade	2
The Convention's rocky road	4
Change at the grassroots level	5
Tough times ahead	6
1 The great family law debate	9
A slow pace of change	10
The Arab family: the key to society	12
Women: the key to the family	13
'Equivalent' under the law	14
The early days of Islam	15
Restrictive interpretations	16
The secular approach: Turkey	20
Nationalism vs reform: Tunisia's 'Islamic secularism'	22
An 'Islamic Marxist' approach: Democratic Yemen	24
Leaving the law to the courts: Bahrain and Kuwait	25
The debate on identity, religion and rights: Algeria	26
The Egyptian family law saga	29
Egyptian women argue their case	31
A small step for womankind . . .	35
Appendix	36
2 Cross-currents conservative and liberal	38
'Cultural loyalty' and the limits of debate	39
Cultural colonialism	41
Cultural loyalty and the status of women	43
Feminism vs nationalism	45
	vii

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-26992-6 - Womanpower: The Arab Debate on Women at Work

Nadia Hijab

Table of Contents

More informationContents

The establishment outlook	47
Defining the role of religion in society	48
Organisational strength	49
Reaching out to women	50
The uses of veiling	51
Islamic liberation	53
How to define the role of women	56
The liberal nationalists	57
Questioning the framework	59
The debate goes on	61
3 Arab women in the workforce	63
Redefining development	63
Some positive indicators	65
And some negative indicators	68
Working women: unreliable statistics	72
Three conditions: need, opportunity, ability	73
The cultural thesis: an example from Lebanon	75
Need at the state level – and the phenomenon of labour migration	77
Labour migration and the role of women	78
Opportunity at the state level: planning for women	80
Arab labour legislation on women	83
The gap between theory and practice	85
Need and opportunity at the popular level	86
Work and public activity: two sets of attitudes	89
The third condition: ability	91
Need, opportunity, ability	92
4 Jordanian women's liberating forces: inflation and labour migration	94
Need at the state level: from unemployment to labour shortage	94
Ability: the female labour pool	95
Creating opportunity: planning for women	98
Self-reliance vs self-help	99
Legislation and 'consciousness-raising'	101
Attitudes of Jordanian employers	103
Need at the popular level	105
Change in the village, too	109
New avenues open up	110
The pendulum swings	112

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-26992-6 - Womanpower: The Arab Debate on Women at Work

Nadia Hijab

Table of Contents

More information

	Contents
5 The Arab Gulf states: demand but no supply	116
A flood of foreign manpower	116
Opportunity knocks, not too loudly	119
Social attitudes and opportunity at the popular level	121
Colonisation in reverse, and the question of identity	123
Social alarm bells and foreign nursemaids	125
Changing attitudes to marriage	127
The young professionals	128
The women professionals	130
Tug of war on women's work	132
Ability: the need for skills	134
Work for work's sake	135
6 Power past and future	138
Defining power	138
Negotiating power	141
Early women reformers and nationalism	143
Women's groups, official and unofficial	147
The right to vote (when parliament exists)	149
Seeking other avenues for change	152
Networking, and cultural maturity	156
Social, economic and national liberation	158
Information as a source of power	161
Empowering people	164
Bibliography	166
Index	173