

Contents

	page
List of tables	viii
List of figures	ix
List of plates	x
Preface	xi
Acknowledgments	xiv
List of abbreviations and conventions	xvi
 Introductory Chapter: The Need to Engage in the Field
Experience	I
Appendix
(1) Defects in official socio-economic statistics relating to the Indian countryside	16
 I Background Material: The Two Regions and the Eight
Localities	21
Appendices
(1) The Fulani	40
(2) Caste	41
(3) Castes in the Anekal villages	44
(4) Brief notes on marriage expenses	46
(5) Village lay-out	47
 II A Dry Grain Agrarian Mode	49
Appendices
(1) Defects in the Karnataka village land records	73
(2) Karnataka Land Reform legislation	75
(3) Simple technology	76
 III The Village Farmland	81
Appendices
(1) Village Panchayats	87
(2) Maps of village farmland	88

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-27102-8 - Dry Grain Farming Families: Hausaland (Nigeria) and Karnataka (India) Compared

Polly Hill

Table of Contents

More information

Contents

IV	The Farming Household: (1) Joint Households	91
	Appendices
	(1) Gandu in Hausaland: The reciprocal rights and obligations of fathers and sons	103
	(2) Gandu in Dorayi	104
	(3) The break-up of a fraternal gandu	105
	(4) House division in the Anekal villages	106
V	The Farming Household: (2) Miscellaneous Aspects	109
VI	The Essence of Inequality: Land Ownership	120
	Appendices
	(1) The methods of classifying households by 'wealth' and age	132
	(2) The estimation of the size of farm-holdings	135
	(3) Wealth in relation to caste: Dominant and Scheduled castes	136
	(4) The unequal distribution of tank-irrigated paddy land	139
VII	The Diversity of Economic Activity	141
	Appendices
	(1) The low yields of millets and sorghums, with special reference to ragi	160
	(2) Cattle ownership in the Anekal villages	162
	(3) Water buffaloes	164
	(4) Sheep and goats in the Anekal villages	164
	(5) Casuarina plantations	165
	(6) The stone quarry at Balarbande	166
VIII	Intensification	168
	Appendices
	(1) Jottings on manure	176
	(2) Interplanting or crop mixtures	179
IX	Upward and Downward Mobility	181
	Appendices
	(1) The Hausa concept of arziki	192
	(2) Poverty in Batagarawa	193
X	Migration	195
	Appendices
	(1) The migration of women on marriage	203
	(2) Statistics on migration into the Anekal villages	205
	(3) Hamlets established by recent migrants	206
XI	Rural/Urban Relationships	208
	Appendix
	(1) The 'definition' of the countryside	221

Contents

XII	The Withdrawal from the Countryside	223
	Appendices
	(1) Why are Hausa countrymen traders?	232
	(2) Two excerpts from Buchanan's book on his travels in S. India	234
	(3) Pre-colonial taxation in rural Kano Emirate	235
	(4) The south Indian famine of 1876–8	235
	(5) The lack of a market hierarchy	237
	(6) Cattle fairs in Karnataka	238
XIII	Agrestic Servitude	240
	Appendix
	(1) The young bonded labourers in the Anekal villages	253
XIV	The Inevitable Dissolution of the Large Estates	254
	Appendix
	(1) The Mysore inam villages	261
XV	How did the Weakest Elements formerly Survive in the Anekal Villages?	264
	Appendix
	(1) The village thotis	275
XVI	The Lack of an Agrarian Hierarchy in Pre-colonial West Africa	276
XVII	A Dry Grain Mode: Some Conclusions	284
	List of references	297
	Index	307