Acknowledgements

I would like to thank the many friends who helped to make this book possible. I am especially grateful to Lionel Knights, under whose guidance I began to work on Blake and Wordsworth; to Edward Thompson, with and against whom much of what follows was argued out; to Myles Burnyeat, John Dunn, Geoffrey Hawthorn, John McGrath, Kiernan Ryan, Stan Smith, Virginia Spate, David Trotter, Richard Tuck and Margaret Walters, all of whom spared time from their own very different work to read and discuss portions of mine; and to Jane Adamson and Sam Goldberg, for their thoughtful criticisms and constant support.

Note on the texts

For the text of Blake's Songs, I have used the reproduction of Blake's Illuminated Book, Songs of Innocence and of Experience, edited by Sir Geoffrey Keynes, first published in 1967 by Rupert-Hart Davis Ltd and by the Orion Press, New York, in association with the Trianon Press, Paris (1967), and issued as an Oxford University Press paperback in 1970. Other quotations from Blake are taken from The Complete Writings of William Blake, ed. Geoffrey Keynes (Oxford University Press, London, 1972) (referred to as K). Quotations from Lyrical Ballads, the 1798 Advertisement and the 1800 Preface, are taken from William Wordsworth & Samuel Coleridge: Lyrical Ballads, the text of the 1798 edition with the additional 1800 poems and the Preface, ed. R. L. Brett and A. R. Jones (London, 1968) (referred to as Brett and Jones).
