

Cambridge University Press & Assessment
978-0-521-27219-3 — Mafia, Peasants and Great Estates
Pino Arlacchi, Translated by Jonathan Steinberg
Frontmatter
More Information

Mafia, peasants and great estates
Society in traditional Calabria

Cambridge University Press & Assessment
978-0-521-27219-3 — Mafia, Peasants and Great Estates
Pino Arlacchi, Translated by Jonathan Steinberg
Frontmatter
More Information

to Lida

Mafia, peasants and great estates
Society in traditional Calabria

PINO ARLACCHI
*Associate Professor of Sociology
University of Calabria*

Translated by
JONATHAN STEINBERG

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY PRESS

Cambridge
London New York New Rochelle
Melbourne Sydney

Cambridge University Press & Assessment
978-0-521-27219-3 — Mafia, Peasants and Great Estates
Pino Arlacchi, Translated by Jonathan Steinberg
Frontmatter
More Information

CAMBRIDGE
UNIVERSITY PRESS

Shaftesbury Road, Cambridge CB2 8EA, United Kingdom

One Liberty Plaza, 20th Floor, New York, NY 10006, USA

477 Williamstown Road, Port Melbourne, VIC 3207, Australia

314–321, 3rd Floor, Plot 3, Splendor Forum, Jasola District Centre, New Delhi – 110025, India

103 Penang Road, #05–06/07, Visioncrest Commercial, Singapore 238467

Cambridge University Press is part of Cambridge University Press & Assessment,
a department of the University of Cambridge.

We share the University's mission to contribute to society through the pursuit of education, learning and research at the highest international levels of excellence.

www.cambridge.org

Information on this title: www.cambridge.org/9780521272193

Originally published in Italian as Mafia, contadini e latijondo nella Calabria tradizionale by Società editrice il Mulino, Bologna, and © Società editrice
il Mulino 1980

This publication is in copyright. Subject to statutory exception and to the provisions of relevant collective licensing agreements, no reproduction of any part may take place without the written permission of Cambridge University Press & Assessment.

First published in English by the Cambridge University Press & Assessment, 1983
as Mafia, peasants and great estates: Society in traditional Calabria

English translation © Cambridge University Press & Assessment 1983

First paperback edition 2024

A catalogue record for this publication is available from the British Library

Library of Congress Cataloging-in-Publication data: 82-19929

ISBN 978-0-521-25136-5 Hardback

ISBN 978-0-521-27219-3 Paperback

Cambridge University Press & Assessment has no responsibility for the persistence or accuracy of URLs for external or third-party internet websites referred to in this publication and does not guarantee that any content on such websites is, or will remain, accurate or appropriate.

Contents

List of illustrations	vi
Note to the English edition	vii
Translator's preface	ix
Introduction	1
1 The Cosentino	9
2 The society of permanent transition of the Plain of Gioia Tauro	67
3 The system of latifondo of the Crotonese	123
Conclusions	199
Index	206

Illustrations

Fig. 1	Map of Calabria showing the three area-types studied	3
Fig. 2	Population growth in percentages by year for the Plain of Gioia Tauro, the Cosentino and Calabria	69
Fig. 3	Distribution of agricultural zones in Calabria by taxable yield per hectare cultivated measured in lire per hectare	71
Fig. 4	Underemployed labour expressed as a percentage of the total number of employed persons in each zone of the Italian south	165
Fig. 5	Fertility and mortality in the comune of Melissa from 1851 to 1955	180
Fig. 6	Average life expectancy in the comune of Melissa from 1861 to 1955	183

Note to the English edition

The publication of this book in English just over two years after its appearance in Italian is the work of two people. Suzanne Berger of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology first read the manuscript and went to a great deal of trouble in her efforts to arrange an English edition. I owe her a debt of gratitude which is specially associated with the beginnings of my professional work and which I cannot forget.

My friend and colleague, Jonathan Steinberg, of the University of Cambridge, took on the burden of translation and the associated editorial tasks. He has dedicated to the enterprise so much intelligence and hard work that the final product can be considered the work of two authors, not one. It is difficult for me to find the right words to express my gratitude and affection for this extraordinary intellectual personality. I consider my meeting with Jonathan Steinberg one of the great good fortunes of my life.

THE AUTHOR

Translator's preface

This book has been written by a sociologist but translated by a historian. The difference between our two disciplines turned out to be more important than either of us imagined when we began. If the historian seeks to find many verifiable causes for particular events, the sociologist tries to see in the particular event those general aspects which may yield, if not laws, at least rigorous models.

The two disciplines use different languages. As a historian I have always observed Orwell's second law of writing: 'never use a long word where a short one will do' but, as I discovered, certain terms, long and abstract though they may be, were essential to the model Professor Arlacchi wanted to build.

The attempt to build three precise and internally coherent models of three different sorts of traditional society is the core of the book. Its success is for the reader to decide. He may be assured that there is nothing in this translation which has not been seen and approved by the author.

Trinity Hall, Cambridge
March 1982

JONATHAN STEINBERG