Robin Fox was born in England in 1934. He was educated at the London School of Economics, Harvard, and Stanford and taught at the universities of Exeter and London before being asked to found a department at Rutgers University, where he has been Professor of Anthropology since 1967. Since 1972 he has also served as a director of research for the H. F. Guggenheim Foundation. His first fieldwork was in New Mexico and he later made an extensive study in north-west Ireland, which was published as The Tory Islanders. He cooperated with Lionel Tiger on The Imperial Animal, a book that helped launch the now well-established “neo-Darwinian” movement in the social sciences. His most recent work is The Red Lamp of Incest: An Enquiry into the Origins of Mind and Society. He has taught at the universities of Oxford, Paris, Cambridge, California (San Diego), and Los Andes (Colombia) as a visiting professor. He is currently writing a verse-prose commentary on the human condition and a book on the history of social thought since the Renaissance.

Other books by Robin Fox

The Keresan Bridge: A Problem in Pueblo Ethnology

Encounter with Anthropology

The Imperial Animal (with Lionel Tiger)

Biosocial Anthropology (editor)

The Tory Islanders: A People of the Celtic Fringe

The Red Lamp of Incest: An Enquiry into the Origins of Mind and Society
