

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-28670-1 - Revolutionary Prose of the English Civil War

Edited by Howard Erskine-Hill and Graham Storey

Table of Contents

More information

Contents

|   |         |
|---|---------|
| List of illustrations   | page vi |
| Acknowledgments   | vii     |
| Introduction  | I       |
| History   | I       |
| Biography   | 12      |
| Political thought   | 21      |
| Style   | 29      |
|   |         |
| Prologue. Letter from Cromwell to his brother-in-law,Colonel Valentine Walton, 5 July 1644                                      | 33      |
| 1 HENRY PARKER, Observations Upon Some of His MajestiesLate Answers and Expresses , 1642 (second edition,corrected) | 35      |
| 2 Extracts from the Army Debates, October 1647  | 64      |
| 3 WILLIAM WALWYN, The Bloody Project , August 1648   | 89      |
| 4 JOHN LILBURNE, Englands New Chains Discovered ,February 1649   | 101     |
| 5 JOHN MILTON, The Tenure of Kings and Magistrates ,February 1649  | 116     |
| 6 RICHARD OVERTON, The Baiting of the Great Bull ofBashan , July 1649   | 145     |
| 7 GERRARD WINSTANLEY, A New-Yeers Gift Sent to theParliament and Armie , December 1649 (first part)                     | 155     |
| 8 JAMES HARRINGTON, Valerius and Publicola , 1659  | 176     |
| 9 JOHN MILTON, The Readie and Easie Way to EstablishA Free Commonwealth , April 1660 (second edition,enlarged)      | 203     |
| Epilogue. Queres and Conjectures, Concerning the present stateof this Kingdome , 1643                                   | 230     |
| Appendix. An Agreement of the People , composed October1647  | 237     |
|   |         |
| Notes   | 247     |
| A select booklist   | 262     |