

Contents

Foreword by Mary Midgley	ix
Sociobiology – between the Two Cultures	xiii
1 How could unselfish behaviour evolve at all?	1
1.1 Why does a sheep want to be in the middle of the herd?	1
1.2 How does a cuckoo know it is a cuckoo?	6
1.3 What indeed is a gene?	11
1.4 Geese after all are only human	16
1.5 Natural selection	20
1.6 Are animals better than man?	25
1.7 ‘Doves’, ‘hawks’, ‘retaliators’	29
1.8 Two brothers or eight cousins	33
1.9 Who is the father?	38
1.10 How do you recognize kin?	42
1.11 How the improbable becomes possible	47
1.12 Slime moulds and siphonophores – organisms or societies?	51
1.13 How can there be social insects?	55
1.14 Who manipulates whom?	60
1.15 The four pinnacles of social evolution	66
2 Can one extrapolate from animals to man?	71
2.1 The new synthesis
2.2 Human nature and the mutual relations among sciences	76
2.3 What is a human being?	82
2.4 Do animals have culture?	86
2.5 Baboon democracy	92

2.6	Animal and human language	95
2.7	Apes at the computer console	99
2.8	Why are apes so intelligent?	104
2.9	The genetics of apes	110
2.10	Our animal ancestors	113
2.11	Stone age or bone age?	116
2.12	Productivity of labour, exploitation, and slavery in animals and man	119
2.13	When did the population explosion start?	124
2.14	Can an animal have a bad conscience?	128
2.15	The evolution of sympathy	133
2.16	Once again: What is man?	139
3	Sex and family in animals and man	144
3.1	What is sex for?	144
3.2	Are females handicapped by nature?	148
3.3	Female and male sex strategies	151
3.4	... sees Helena in every woman	156
3.5	Male competition, female choice	159
3.6	Animals' family structures and their causes	164
3.7	Primate family life	169
3.8	The society of our pre-human ancestors	173
3.9	Are humans polygamous 'by nature'?	176
3.10	A 'natural' sex code – for women as well?	182
3.11	Women – objects or subjects?	187
3.12	Are women different by nature?	191
3.13	Of world records and IQ tests	197
3.14	Is there kin selection in humans?	204
3.15	Is the notion of incest an 'invention'?	208
3.16	Pecking order, aggression, and sex	213
3.17	The myth of the matriarchy	217
4	Is sociobiology a reactionary science?	222
4.1	Pseudo-science or real science?	222
4.2	Colloquial language as technical terms	225
4.3	Is Wilson really a fascist?	230
4.4	Unscientific comparisons	234
4.5	Are genes a reactionary invention?	240
4.6	What the New Left might learn from old Engels	244
4.7	Of twins and XYY-men	247

Cambridge University Press
978-0-521-28778-4 - Sociobiology and the Human Dimension
Georg Breuer
Table of Contents
More information

---

4.8	The 'atmosphere' of sociobiology	251
4.9	A dangerous combination	255
4.10	The human dimension	259
	Literature	265
	Name index	279
	Subject index	283