

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-28917-7 - The Thermidorean Regime and the Directory 1794-1799

Denis Woronoff

Table of Contents

More information

Contents

List of maps	page viii
Chronology	ix
Preface	xix
I A difficult transition	I
Revenge	I
The end of the revolutionary government. A new equilibrium.
The resurgence of the reactionaries
Economic crisis	8
The abandonment of the maximum . Currency, prices, food supplies and scarcity
The crushing of the popular movement	13
Discontent. Germinal. Prairial. The repression
Royalists within, enemies without	20
The rebels in difficulties. The Church reborn. The White Terror. Quiberon. The Dutch alliance. An incomplete peace
The new institutions	29
The middle way. Vendémiaire
2 On two fronts	34
The state and the citizen	34
The installation of the new power. The bureaucratic phenomenon. A reticent population
The Equals: a prophetic minority	43
Democratic agitation. Babouvism. The anatomy of the conspiracy. Failure
The Royalists between the military path and the parliamentary path	51
The price of conciliation. Armed action. The electoral battle. Counter-Revolution. 18 Fructidor

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-28917-7 - The Thermidorean Regime and the Directory 1794-1799

Denis Woronoff

Table of Contents

More information

vi	Contents
3	Conquests	62
	Ends and means	62
	The aims of the war. The war machine
	The impossible victory	67
	The advantages of Bonaparte's position. The fifteen-day war. In Milan. Dividing the spoils. Success in Germany
	Dangers	74
	Archduke Charles's counter-offensive. Italy in question. Arcole. The Irish expedition
	Personal diplomacy	82
	Rivoli. The decisive campaign. Venice sacrificed. Lille and Campofornio
4	Economic activity	91
	Economy and policy	91
	From inflation to deflation. Financial recovery. François de Neufchâteau
	Agriculture: transformation or inertia?	99
	The consolidation of property. Agricultural progress? Obstacles to change
	Problems and prospects of industry	104
	Business men and businesses. Labour problems. Progress and obstruction
	Business	108
	Obstacles to trade. International trade. Speculators
	Economic fluctuations and social differences	113
	Fluctuations. The nouveaux riches . The losers
5	Beliefs, rituals and language	118
	Religious revival	119
	The return of the 'good priests'. The Fructidorean persecution. The Gallicans isolated. Worship and religion
	Republican doctrines and practices	125
	Idéologie or the discourse of reason. Theophilanthropy. Festivals
	The teaching of Liberty	132
	Instructing the people. The principle of the Ecoles Centrales. Training the elites

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-28917-7 - The Thermidorean Regime and the Directory 1794-1799

Denis Woronoff

Table of Contents

More information

Contents		vii
	Artistic expression	137
	The audience and the function of art. Painting. Entertainment. Décor
6	From expansion to decline	143
	The conflict with England	144
	The naval war. Towards the east. Egypt: a French colony. The end of a dream
	Exporting the Revolution	152
	The contagion of revolution. The constitutions. Political life: imitation and reality. The occupiers and the occupied. The example of Naples
	Defending the frontiers	161
	The second coalition. The French military effort. Defeats. Recovery
7	The fall	168
	The union of the Republicans	168
	The Fructidorean Terror. The problems of the purge. No enemies on the left? The action of the Directory
	The elections of Year VI and the coup of 22 Floréal	174
	The turning point of Pluviôse. The preparation for the elections. Disappointing results. The coup of 22 Floréal
	The Directory on the defensive	179
	The revolt of the deputies and the elections of Year VII. A 'parliamentary journée': 30 Prairial. The illusion of Jacobinism. The royalist uprisings
	Brumaire	185
	A respite. Bonaparte and the revisionists. Paris. Saint-Cloud
	Conclusion	192
	Bibliography	196
	Index	206