

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-29192-7 - Education, Employment, and Migration: Israel in Comparative Perspective

Paul Ritterband

Index

More information

Index

- academic achievement: and advice about returning to Israel, 59; and exchange visa, 78; and expectation of return home from France vs. United States, 96–9; and faculty–student relationship, 57; graduate students, and repatriation, 99–102; and job commitment, 45–7; in path model of migration intentions, 54, 55, 56; and social class, 21–3
- Academic Stars, study respondents, 15, 16
- accounting scheme, in studying motives, 13–14
- Akrawi, M., 138 n2
- American Council on Education, 82, 83
- American University of Beirut, 92
- Arian, D., 135 n30, 136 n31
- Astin, H. S., 139 n11
- Awasthi, S. P., 137 n24
- Barzel, Y., 135 n27
- Bayer, A. E., 139 n11
- Becker, G., 139 n17
- Bedeck, 63
- behavior vs. intention on migration, 31–4
- Ben-David, J., 134 n9, 135 n25
- Bereday, G. Z. F., 131 n1, 133 n11
- Berelson, B., 139 n10
- Berg, I., 134 n16
- Berger, A. S., 138 n6
- Blau, P., 133 n2
- Bouvier, M., 138 n5
- brain drain: estimate of magnitude of, 34–7; loss of sending countries, 120–2; and new migration, 2–4; and public policy, 70–4; sociological problems associated with, 8–9; U.S. control over, 74–8; as U.S. gain, 117–20
- Bressler, M., 132 n3, n4
- Brickman, W. W., 131 n1
- Bridgers, F. A., 136 n11
- bureaucracy, Israel, 63–5
- career choice and study abroad, 24–7
- Chamberlain, N. W., 134 n11
- Chambliss, W. J., 136 n13
- Christ, J. R., 132 n20
- Chu, G. C., 134 n5
- citizenship, and return to Israel, 33
- civil service, Israel, 63–5
- college admissions and tracking, 22
- concourse* (entrance examination), 19
- Conrad, A., 135 n24
- Consolazio, W., 135 n23
- Cook, S. W., 132 n20
- Cormack, M. L., 132 n21
- Crane, D., 133 n11
- cross-national comparisons: academic achievement and expectation of return home, 96–9; field of study and country of study, 93–6; foreign graduate students in United States, 99–108; foreign students in France vs. United States, 91–9
- Danet, B., 135 n19
- Davidson, O. M., 132 n2 n4, 135 n18
- Desbrières, M. -F., 138 n5
- deSola Price, D. J., 139 n12
- Diaspora, Jewish students in Israel from, 5
- Domrese, R. J., 139 n6
- Doran, R., 132 n9
- dropout and tracking, Israeli education, 17
- Duncan, O. D., 133 n2
- education: international, U.S. role in, 3; Israel, and reasons for study abroad, 16–27; and society in Israel, 41–3
- Education Act (Israel, 1949), 16
- educational achievement and differential migration, 41–52
- educational system and repatriation, graduate students, 103–8
- Ehrlich, E., 76, 136 n12
- Engels, F., 136 n2
- engineering students, study abroad, 25–6
- exchange students, repatriation rate, 75–6
- exchange visitors' program: and Justice Department, 78–81; school's role in facilitating repatriation, 81–3
- expectation of return home: and academic achievement, United States vs. France,

142 Index

- 96–9; and advice from professors and employers, 60; and job commitment in Israel, 49; and proteksia system, 51; and visa type, 79; see also repatriation
- faculty–student relationships and academic achievement, 57
- Feest, J., 136n13
- field of study and country of study, 93–6
- Florsheim, Y., 134n10
- Folger, J. K., 139n11
- foreign students: in France vs. United States, 91–9; in Israel, 5; U.S. legislation on, 73–4; see also study abroad
- France vs. United States, foreign students in, 91–9
- Frankel, C., 72, 136n5
- Freeman, C., 139n5
- Frisbie, B., 138n6
- Gaathon, A. L., 134n11
- Glaser, W. A., 138n1
- government and study abroad, 63–5
- graduate students: educational systems and repatriation rates, 103–8; measures of academic success, 114–16; personal academic histories and repatriation, 99–102; see also foreign students; study abroad
- Grubel, H. G., 131n9
- Halevi, N., 134n6n7, 135n26n28
- Halsey, A. H., 133n11
- Hansen, W. L., 139n16
- Hartman, H., 135n19
- Havel, J., 132n20
- Hebrew University, 5, 43
- Hen, M., 132n9
- Hervé, M. E. A., 138n4
- high school types and study abroad, 17–21
- Histadrut, 63
- Howland, H. E., 136n9
- Hoyt, D. P., 134n16
- Hurwitz, U., 132n7, 133n13
- Husen, T., 133n11
- immigrants: occupational mix, 2–3; preference category, 3
- immigration: U.S. policy on, 71–2; see also migration; study abroad
- Immigration Act (1924), 71
- Immigration Act (1965), 71
- Immigration and Naturalization Service: and exchange visitors' program, 80–1; visa adjustment tabulations, 32, 40
- India, higher education in, 112–13
- industry, private, and study abroad, 62–3
- Institute of International Education (IIE), 10
- intention vs. behavior on migration, 31–4
- Israel: alternative opportunity structures, 47–52; civil service, 63–5; education, and reasons for study abroad, 16–27; education and society in, 41–3; estimate of magnitude of brain drain, 34–7; expectation vs. behavior on returning to, 32–4; foreign students in, 5; high-level manpower, supply and demand, 43–7; and international student exchange, 4–8; perception of migration into vs. out of, 6–7; policy alternatives on study abroad, 83–8; recent student migration trends, 124–6; see also cross-national comparisons; migration; study abroad
- Israel Aircraft Corp., 63
- Israel Government Bureau for Professionals, 5, 7–8, 32–3
- James I, king of England, 1
- Jewish Agency, 63
- job commitment: and academic achievement, 45–7; and advice about returning to Israel, 59; and expectation of returning home, 101; in path model of migration intentions, 54, 55; and proteksia, 50, 52; and repatriation, 44–5
- Justice Department and exchange visitors' program, 78–81
- Kaplan, N., 133n15
- Kinlan, G. C., 134n16
- Kleinberger, A. F., 134n12
- Klinger, R. M., 136n11
- Klinov-Malul, R., 134n6n7, 135n26n28
- Konovalov, S., 131n1
- Kruskall, J. B., 132n6
- Lambert, R. D., 132n3n4
- Laufer, L., 131n13
- Lebanon, dual cultural tradition, 92
- less developed countries (LDCs): loss in brain drain, 121–2; observed vs. expected repatriation rates, 106; preference categories of immigrants from, 3; social utility of study abroad, 112–17; students in Israel from, 5–6; technicians working in, 98; see also cross-national comparisons
- Lindsey, R. B., 136n11
- McCarran-Walter Act (1952), 3
- McCormick, B. J., 138n1
- McElheny, V. K., 135n24
- McGinnis, R., 138n6
- McQuilty, L. L., 132n5
- Maddison, A., 137n23, 138n4
- Mangalam, J. J., 131n10
- manpower, high-level, supply and demand, 43–7

- Marx, K., 136n2
 matriculation and study abroad, 18–21
 Matthews, R. D., 138n2
 medical students, study abroad, 24–5
 Merrick, Sir John, 1
 Merton, R. K., 135n20
 Michael, czar of Russia, 1 migration: differential, and educational achievement, 41–52; intention vs. behavior, 31–4; into vs. out of Israel, perception of, 6–7; new, and student brain drain, 2–4; path model of intentions, 52–6; recent Israeli trends in, 124–6; see also cross-national comparisons; path model of student intentions migration plans and sectoral characteristics, 65–8
 Moll, W., 136n12
 motives vs. consequences and functions, 13
 Myers, R. G., 136n15, 138n1
 Nonacademics: study abroad, 28; study respondents, 15–16
 Noto, M., 137n17
 occupational mix of immigrants, 2–3 occupational opportunity and repatriation, 126–8
 Okyar, O., 139n9
 opportunity structures: Israel, alternative, 47–52; and sectoral characteristics, 65–8
 Owen Smith, E., 138n1 path model of Israeli student migration intentions, 52–6: personal influence and instrumental need, 56–8; sectoral characteristics, opportunity structure, and migration plans, 65–8; sectoral variations, 58–65 population, reconstituted, and return rate, 37–41 professional experience, in path model of migration intentions, 54, 55 professional opportunity and proteksia, 51–2
proteksia (influence) system, Israel, 49–50: and job commitment, 50, 52; in path model of migration intentions, 54, 55–6
 Prywes, M., 133n14
 Psacharopolous, G., 138n2n8 public policy: American instruments of, 74–8; and brain drain, 70–4; exchange visitors' program, 78–83; Israel's alternatives in study abroad, 83–8 reason analysis, in distinguishing motives, 13 reasons for study abroad, empirical study of, 12–16
 Reddaway, W. B., 138n1
 repatriation: and academic achievement, graduate students, 99–102; and educational system, 103–8; and job commitment, 44–5; observed vs. expected rates, 106–7; and occupational opportunity, 126–8; and personal academic histories, cross-national comparisons, 99–102; school's role in facilitating, 81–3; see also expectation of return home; migration; repatriation rate; study abroad repatriation rate: exchange students, 75–6; graduate students, and educational systems, 103–8; and visa type, 77–8; see also repatriation research on motives for study abroad, 11–12
 Ritterband, P., 138n6, 139n13n14
 Robinson, D., 135n30, 136n32
 Rosenberg, M., 133n10
 Rostow, Eugene V., 72
 Ruth, H. L., 139n8n15 scaling plot, multidimensional, of reasons for studying in United States, 15 school, role in facilitating repatriation, 81–3
 Schultz, T. W., 139n17
 scientific productivity by national level of educational development and graduate school prestige, 117–19
 Scott, A., 131n9, 139n16
 Second Chancers: reason for study abroad, 17; specialization and study abroad, 25–6, 27; study respondents, 15, 16; in United States vs. France, 95–6 sectoral variations in path model of migration intentions, 58–65
 Selltiz, C., 132n20
 Sewell, W. H., 132n2n4, 135n18
 Sherrow, F., 134n8
 Shimshoni, D., 135n29
 Sjaastad, L., 138n1
 social attributes and return to Israel, 33–4 social class and study abroad, 21–3
 Social Science Research Council, 7 society and education, Israel, 41–3 specialization and study abroad, 24–7
 Spencer, D. L., 134n11
 students: brain drain and new migration, 2–4; characteristics by expected employment, 66; international exchange, Israel, 4–8; visas issued and adjusted, 40–1 study abroad: and career choice specialization, 24–7; empirical study of reasons for, 12–16; and government, 63–5; and Israeli education, 16–27; Israel's policy alternatives on, 83–8; nonacademic reasons for, 27–8; and private industry, 62–3; research on

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-29192-7 - Education, Employment, and Migration: Israel in Comparative Perspective

Paul Ritterband

Index

More information144 Index

- motives for, 11–12; and social class, 21–3;
  - social utility of, 109–117; and universities, 60–2; see also cross-national comparisons;
  - migration; repatriation
- Sumner, W. G., 136n2
- Syrian Protestant College, 92
- Technion, 25, 43
- Third World, see less developed countries (LDCs)
- Thomas, B., 2, 131n5
- tracking: and college admissions, 22; and dropout, Israeli education, 17
- Turkey, higher education in, 113
- United States: control over brain drain, 74–8; foreign graduate students in, 99–108; vs. France, foreign students in, 91–9; as gainer from brain drain, 117–20; legislation on
  - foreign students, 73–4; occupational mix of immigrants, 2–3; preference category of immigrants, 3; reasons for study in, 17–21
  - Université Saint Joseph, 92
  - universities and study abroad, 60–2
- Vaad Leumi, 63
- Valipour, I., 132n3, 135n18
- visa type: and expectation of return home, 79; and repatriation rate, 77–8
- Warkov, S., 138n6, 139n13n14
- Woroniak, A., 134n11
- Yatziv, G., 132n9
- Yavneh, M., 132n7, 133n13
- yordim*, 7, 12
- Young, A., 139n5