Acknowledgements

We would like to express our gratitude to Professor Paula Brown Glick of the State University of New York at Stony Brook. Without her help and inspiration we might never have gone to Papua New Guinea and would certainly have never written this book.

We would like to thank Professor Kenneth Little (the editor of this series), Dr Colin Day (our editor at Cambridge University Press) and the Press's reader for their helpful comments and criticisms. Dr Nancy Bowers of Auckland University read the first three chapters and reassured us with her positive response. Dr Ron May kindly supplied us with discussion papers from the Papua New Guinea Institute of Applied Social and Economic Research which proved very helpful in updating information on employment and migration. This book also benefited from a stimulation to do research and to share knowledge between disciplines fostered by the University of Papua New Guinea. Mrs Margaret Hewlett, Mrs Sandra Beath and Mrs P. Murray of Victoria University of Wellington typed the manuscript with unfailing good will and good cheer.

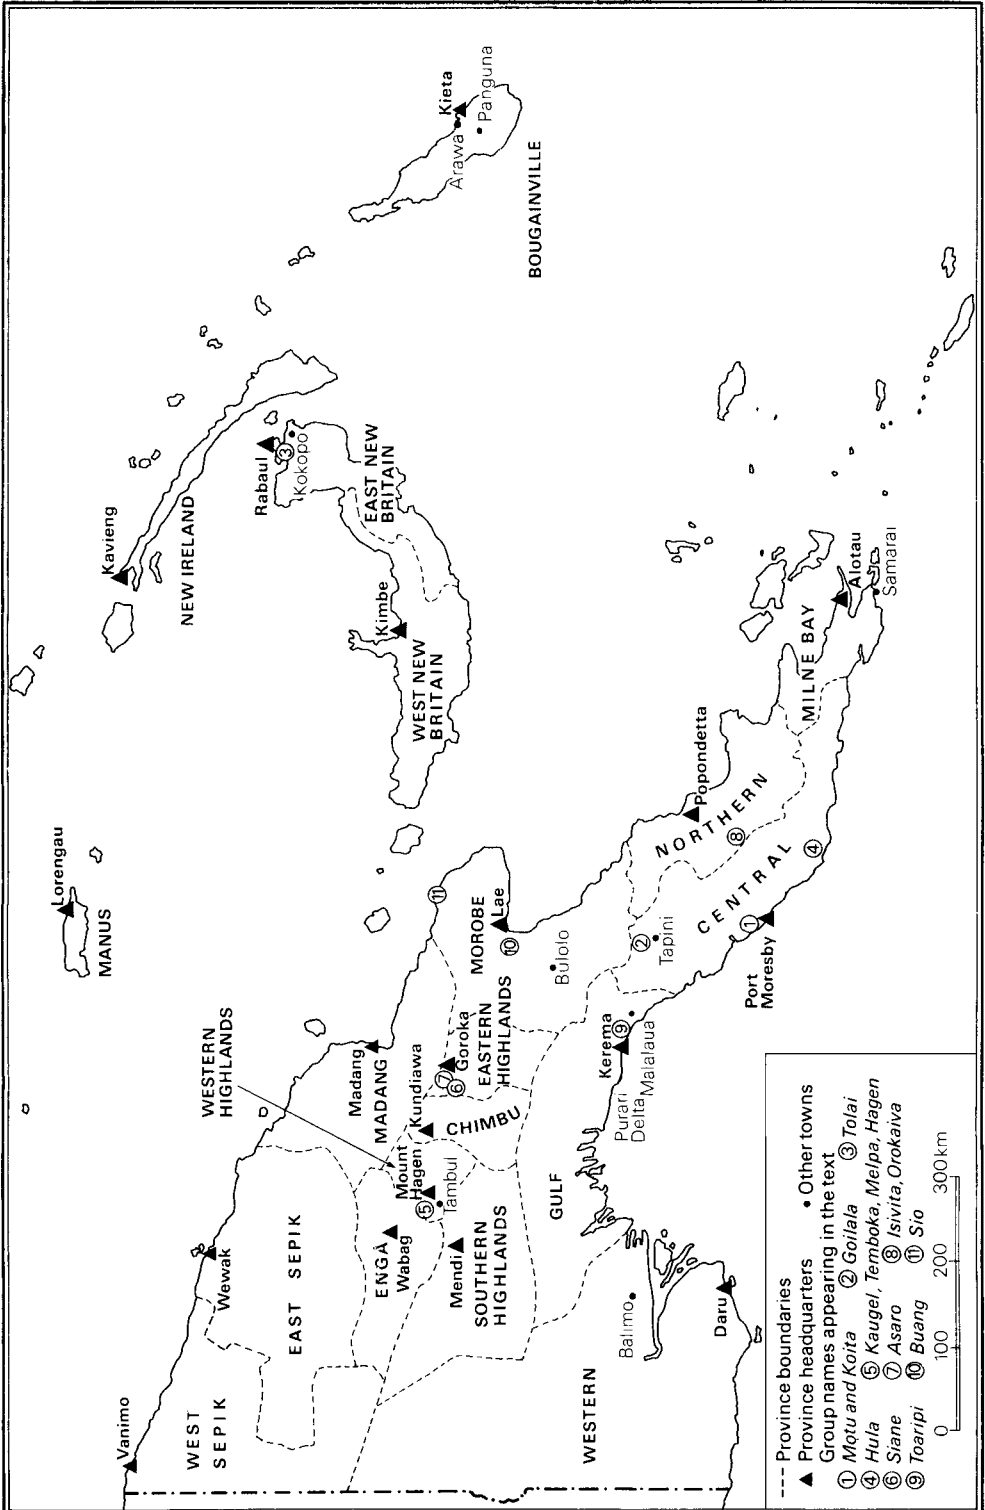

Finally, our very special thanks to our respective parents for their early and continuing encouragement and support.
