Series editors:

ALAN R. H. BAKER J. B. HARLEY DAVID WARD

Cambridge Studies in Historical Geography encourages exploration of the philosophies, methodologies and techniques of historical geography and publishes the results of new research within all branches of the subject. It endeavours to secure the marriage of traditional scholarship with innovative approaches to problems and to sources, aiming in this way to provide a focus for the discipline and to contribute towards its development. The series is an international forum for publication in historical geography which also promotes contact with workers in cognate disciplines.

Acknowledgments

I wish to thank Alan Baker, Martin Cadwallader, Nick Entrikin, Brian Harley, Robert Ostergren, Karen Sack, Jane Schulenburg, Harold Schultz, Yi-Fu Tuan, and David Ward for reading the manuscript or portions of it. Their comments and encouragement were invaluable. I am indebted to Julie Fisher and Michael Solot for their help as project assistants, and to Linda Fuss for her skill and patience in preparing the manuscript. I also wish to thank the Fulbright program for funding a Fulbright Senior Research Fellowship to Leicester, England (1979–80) where the idea for this book began, the University of Wisconsin Graduate School for providing summer and research support for 1984, and I would like to acknowledge that portions of this material are based upon work supported by the National Science Foundation under Grant SES–8117807.
