

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-31948-5 - People and the State: An Anthropology of Planned Development

A. F. Robertson

Table of Contents

More information

Contents

List of figures and map	page ix
Preface	xi
Introduction	1
1 History	7
Introduction	7
1917–39: Foundations	9
1939–55: Techniques for growth	18
1950–70: Modernisation	26
1950–70: The Third World – Us and Them	35
The 1960s: The rise of Development Studies	43
1970–80: Underdevelopment and the crisis in planning	48
Conclusion: The development of planning	61
Appendix A: Aid and development planning	69
Appendix B: Planning in Britain	75
Appendix C: Some significant dates in the history of national development planning	78
2 Structures and processes	85
Introduction	85
The state and the planners	88
The planning process: ideal and reality	97
Planning ideas: symbols and languages	106
Planning time: targets and phases	111
Planning economies: sectors and regions	115
Planning resources: development projects	120
Planners and the public	128
Appendix D: Thirty-eight thousand development programmes	139

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-31948-5 - People and the State: An Anthropology of Planned Development

A. F. Robertson

Table of Contents

More informationContents

3 Organisations	140
Introduction	140
The community and its development	142
Administrative organisation: development agents and agencies	150
Economic organisation: cooperatives and communes	160
Political organisation: councils and committees	170
Organising ideas: the mass media and education	175
4 Contradictions	182
Introduction	182
People as planners	185
Social movements and utopian images	191
Utopia created: reformist movements	196
Utopia pursued: revolutionary movements	204
Utopia, the state and social science	211
Populism: an ideology of national development planning	221
5 Malaysia – a case study	232
Introduction	233
The emergence of pluralism, the state, and planning	236
Federation, centralisation and the emergence of FLDA	244
Tun Razak and the First Malaysia Plan	249
The crisis of May 1969: the search for a National Ideology	251
Restructuring the nation: the New Economic Policy	255
FLDA and the expansion of public enterprise	260
The Third Malaysia Plan: reorganising society	269
FLDA and social development	276
The Fourth Malaysia Plan: reorganising the polity	280
Towards 1990 – and thereafter	289
Summary and conclusion	291
6 Conclusion: Anthropology and planned development	293
Bibliography	307
A: Introduction, Chapter 1 and Chapter 2	307
B: Chapter 3	314
C: Chapter 4 and Chapter 6	317
D: Chapter 5	321
Index	325